Nixon In Moscow For Nuclear Talks

Soviet's Big Three At Airport Welcome

MOSCOW (UPI) — A smiling President Nixon flew in to a flag-waving, hand-pumping welcome from the Soviet big three today, then joined them in a mile-a-minute motorcade to the Kremlin for tough summitry on slowing the nuclear arms race.

They sped past an estimated 10,000 specially assembled spectators, covering the 22 miles in 20 minutes. After a brief reception, Nixon began his first private meeting with Communist Party Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev.

Presidential aides said the warm greeting was an indication of the extent of detente. They said a more significant sampling of the mood would come later during toasts at a state dinner hosted by Brezhnev.

A U.S. official aboard the "Spirit of '76" jetliner during the three-hour flight from Brussels said Nixon had turned down the latest Soviet proposal on curtailing multiple warhead missiles and, therefore, prospects for a full agreement during the weeklong visit were slim.

"There's going to be some hard bargaining," press secretary Ronald Ziegler said.

Even so, the beginning of Nixon's second visit to the Soviet Union in three years bore marked contrast to his previous arrival, in May 1972, when Brezhnev stayed away from the airport reception.

This time all three leaders — Brezhnev, Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and President Nikolai G. Podgorny —were at the foot of the ramp when Nixon and his wife Pat emerged into the bright sunlight, smiling and waving.

About 1,000 Soviet citizens and American embassy officials and their families waved paper U.S. and Soviet flags and watched in almost total silence as the President stepped onto the Vnukovo-2 airport tarmac.

The handshakes were hearty and the banter and comments quick and easy.

Brezhnev put his arm around Nixon's shoulders and led him past an honor guard of some of the Soviet Union's finest — ramrod straight soldiers, sailors and airmen with bayonets fixed.

The two stood at attention on a square red carpet to hear the booted Moscow garrison band run through the two national anthems, America's first. Then Nixon broke away for nearly 10 minutes of handshakes and chats with the roped-off crowd. He said "zdravstvuite, zdravstvuite" (hello) repeatedly as he shook hands with Russians.

A stiff breeze kept the flags of both countries stiff against the cloud-speckled sky during it all. Brezhnev's hair got mussed. Nixon's held firm. The wives paid little heed to theirs.

Nixon rode with the three Russian officials in a Soviet-built Zil at the head of the motorcade, with almost 50 American and Russian cars close behind for the ride into Moscow.

Clusters of Soviet citizens were gathered along the way to wave more paper flags. There were few cheers, and the crowd dispersed quickly when the cars had passed. The American colony in the Russian capital calls it a "Rent-a-crowd," since it is made up of selected Communist party, student and factory groups. Everyone without a pass is barred.

Because of the speed of the motorcade and the smoked glass in the lead limousine, virtually no one got a glimpse of the men inside.

Eight-lane Lenin Prospect, its utility poles adorned with flags, took the long black line past a 30-foot high portrait of V.I. Lenin, and under a white sign reading "Atoms for Peace" atop an apartment building.

Citizens had been blocked from crossing Lenin Prospect for as much as two hours. They grumbled, but police didn't listen.

One Soviet army veteran, his chest bedecked with medals, had seen the arrival on television and raced to the Kremlin gate to get a glimpse. He was too late. The cars were inside and the flags already were coming down.

The walled Kremlin palace, with its glistening golden onion domes, was to be the Nixons' home for two nights before a scheduled weekend visit to Oreanda on the Black Sea coast.

The President's quarters in the Kremlin are the same as those used previously by former French Presidents Charles de Gaulle and Georges Pompidou, and by Cuban Premier Fidel Castro.

Unlike his recent trip to the Middle East, this is a strictly working trip. Almost the entire schedule is occupied with meetings bent on creating what Nixon hopes will be a new relationship with the Soviet Union including trade and economic agreements and, most important, progress on limiting nuclear weapons.

The latest Soviet proposal which Nixon has rejected, officials said, would give the United States an advantage in the total number of multiple warhead missiles but leave the Russians with more launchers.

They predicted that Brezhnev may be willing to negotiate on it because a breakdown in the detente would damage his prestige within the party.

Proposed Tiburon Plan's Impact Report Attacked

By FRED STREBEIGH

Criticism of the environmental impact report for the proposed Sequoia Pacific development in downtown Tiburon ranged wide of the limited agenda at last night's city planning commission meeting.

The 400-page report received detailed criticism on the scheduled topic — its prediction of effect on city traffic if the city approves the 36-acre project which would include condominiums, offices, a conference center, a parking garage, parks, and open space.

But the report also was criticized on two other counts — a lack of general thoroughness and failure to include impact on neighboring Belvedere among its concerns.

Conspicuous by their absence were representatives of Madrone Associates of San Rafael — who prepared the environmental impact report — and who are bound by contract to appear at only two hearings.

They appeared at the report's first presentation on May 28, and are slated to attend a final review on Aug. 14.

Commission chairman Charles E. Bassett, at first visibly surprised that no Madrone representative was in attendance, later told the Independent-Journal, "I anticipated that someone from their organization might be interested, though we do realize it's not in their contract."

Robert E. Fosnot, recently appointed Tiburon director of community development and former planner with a Walnut Creek consulting firm, went further.

"Madrone got a very soft contract," he said, referring to the two-appearance limit and payment of the total $41,280 fee in lump sum at the time the report was presented.

The incentive for Madrone to attend meetings or submit detailed responses was diminished when, as he put it, "the city sent all the money and lost the carrot."

Payment in lump sum — as opposed to graduated payment at completion of each phase of a consultant's work — is unheard of, he said.

Criticism of the report's traffic section centered last night on the assertion by city engineer Stanley M. Bala that the report was confined to automobile traffic and gave short shrift to alternate transportation such as ferries, buses, and bicycles.

The report was also criticized by commissioners for failure to consider the ramifications of possible project alterations — such as partial reduction in the amount of construction or limited improvements in main roads.

Fosnot added that estimates of higher auto density considered only population growth — ignoring land use types — and did not consider traffic hazards such as blind curves and driveways.

The planning commission also received a written critique of the report from Brewster Morris of the Committee for Downtown Plan Review.

Denis T. Rice, former Tiburon mayor, described a brief he submitted for the Marin Water Defense Committee. It argued that banning construction on the basis of a county-wide water shortfall — although not permissible for the Marin Municipal Water District — was within the purview of a city government.

Polly Smith, recently elected to Marin Municipal's board added that the Madrone report's estimate of annual water use by the Sequoia Pacific project — approximately 88 acre-feet — is well below the water district estimate of 150. She was told that water district staff had not been contacted by Madrone, she said.

Nixon Side Gets Inning With Probe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Saying he was confident President Nixon would not be impeached, chief presidential lawyer James D. St. Clair began a two-day defense of Nixon before a closed session of the House Judiciary Committee today.

St. Clair told reporters his defense would concentrate on showing there was no wrongdoing by the President in connection with payment of $75,000 to Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt on March 21, 1973.

In a letter to the committee, St. Clair said he believed John W. Dean III would testify that the Hunt payment was set in motion the day before —and not after —a conversation by Dean with Nixon on March 21 when the matter of payments to the defendants was discussed.

Answering questions as he entered the closed hearing, St. Clair predicted, "The President will not be impeached." But he declined to repeat his prediction of a few weeks ago that the committee itself would end its inquiry by refusing to approve a bill of impeachment.

On yesterday, the panel defeated a Republican proposal to hear additional witnesses who St. Clair said would help Nixon's defense.

As St. Clair was presenting his case, presidential counselor Dean Burch charged that the committee was "patently unfair" to limit the number of witnesses that could be called by St. Clair.

Burch rejected a suggestion that the committee inquiry was analagous to a grand jury investigation in which the target has neither the right to summon witnesses nor the right to counsel. He repeatedly referred to Nixon as "the defendant" and added:

"The Constitution and the criminal laws indicate that defendants or accused in any kind of proceeding are entitled to have witnesses called in their behalf. Had the President stolen a loaf of bread he would have more rights than the committee is giving him."

The vote on the witness re-

'COLD WARRIORS'

Fulbright Takes Nixon Policy Foes To Task

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon began negotiations with the Soviet Union today hampered not by Watergate but by "cold warriors at home" who are trying to undermine his policies, according to Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark.

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, entered the debate yesterday between Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., over Nixon's summit policies. In a Senate speech, he said, "the vicissitudes of Watergate seem to have had a good effect on him (Nixon) — they have given him added incentive for a productive, responsive foreign policy."

The effect of Watergate, Fulbright said, was that "emboldened by the President's domestic difficulties, the cold warriors in the Pentagon and in Congress have mounted a concerted offensive against both arms control and trade with the Soviet Union."

Jackson, who was specifically named in Fulbright's speech, later told reporters, "Sen. Fulbright is just dead wrong."

"With a flawless sense of timing," said Fulbright, "the enemies of detente have chosen the moment of the President's departure for Moscow to fire a

Hospital Board, Citizen Sue County Over Bon Air Road Pact

The Marin Hospital District and a taxpayer delivered a one-two legal punch to the board of supervisors yesterday in a continuing controversy over the relocation of Bon Air Road.

The hospital district filed suit in Marin Superior Court to force the county to budget $340,000 and to quit stalling on realignment of the road, which serves Marin General Hospital.

And minutes later, Sausalito resident Willard A. Hall asked the court to forbid supervisors to take any step to defend themselves against the hospital suit.

Both legal actions were prepared by the San Rafael law firm of Riede, Elliott, Brekhus and Riede.

Under a 1968 agreement, according to the first suit, the hospital district was to buy land from Marin Catholic High School, dump fill on it and turn it over to the county.

In return, the county was to build a new road, and give the old road right-of-way to the hospital for an expansion project.

The hospital district's suit claimed it has fulfilled its legal obligations to the county, but the county on June 17 sliced $340,000 from the public works budget for the realignment.

Supervisors have said they don't think they are obligated to complete the project until the hospital district passes a bond issue to expand Marin General.

Hospital directors this week scuttled plans to put an $8.6 million bond issue for expansion on the November ballot, saying they need more time.

A hearing will be held at 9:15 a.m. July 8 before Judge Henry J. Broderick, who will rule on whether the county will have to proceed with the project and whether the hospital district is entitled to $500,000 in general damages, as it claims.

Hall's taxpayer suit, filed as a class action, seeks to prevent the supervisors from defending themselves against the hospital district suit. To do so, Hall claimed, would be an "illegal expenditure and a waste of public funds."

Bay Area Hatches Terror, Congressman Tells Panel

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco Bay Area is America's fountain of domestic terrorism, a Congressman has told a House Internal Security Committee hearing on the Symbionese Liberation Army.

Rep. John Ashbrook, R-Ohio, said yesterday in Washington, D.C., "The Bay Area has become the real center for domestic terrorist activity in the country."

San Francisco police Inspectors Jay Rogovoy and John McKay testified before the committee about the SLA which kidnaped and converted newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst on Feb. 4.

McKay said he believes only three SLA members are at large — Miss Hearst, daughter of newspaper executive Randolph A. Hearst; and William and Emily Harris. Six others died in a shootout with Los Angeles police May 17.

Miss Hearst is sought on warrants charging her with kidnaping, assault with a deadly weapon, armed robbery and bank robbery.

The inspector said the fact that the fugitives are at large indicates "they do have some support from people who are revolutionary minded, who agreed with the over-all purpose of the SLA."

McKay described one document on explosives as being "as good if not better than any of the revolutionary explosives manuals" he has seen in six years of police intelligence work.

Meantime, an Alameda County Grand Jury transcript showed yesterday that the SLA used a do-it-yourself kit to put deadly potassium cyanide in bullets for assassinations.

The grand jury was investigating the Nov. 6 cyanide bullet assassination of Oakland school Supt. Marcus Foster. Two alleged SLA members, Russell Little and Joseph Remiro, have been charged with the murder.

Split Vote For Taylor To Head All Of County's Mental Health

The Marin Mental Health Advisory Board last night came to the support of Dr. Robert L. Taylor, Community Mental Health Services program chief, and recommended by a split vote that he be given full responsibility for county mental health services.

The board voted 7-4 (with the chairman, Dr. Catherine Pike abstaining) that Taylor be named county mental health director, the latest move in a continuing dispute over mental health service.

Earlier this year, the advisory board recommended that Taylor's present job and that of mental health director be combined but declined to name a person to fill the post.

Board members voting in support of Taylor last night expressed the view that he ought to be given full responsibility for the mental health program, Dr. Pike said. Those against the proposal said they did not think it was up to the advisory board to recommend an individual for the job.

Currently, Donald Sanford, acting director of health and human services, is responsible for mental health administration while Taylor is in charge of mental health programs.

Earlier this year, supervisors were asked by members of the advisory board and the Marin County Mental Health Association to consider removing mental health from under the Health and Human Services Department umbrella.

They said a separate mental health department would better serve the public. Supervisors have declined to make the move and are searching for a physician to oversee not only mental health administration but also public health administration.

The mental health services have come under fire from state officials, some supervisors and other county officials because of long standing lack of administrative accountability.

Sanford has been asked by the supervisors to come up with a detailed accounting of how the money allocated to mental health services is being spent and what the employees are doing.

He told the advisory board last night he would discuss his report with members before giving it to the supervisors, according to Dr. Pike.

McCarthy Takes Over Assembly

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assemblyman Leo T. McCarthy today was formally elected Speaker of the Assembly, succeeding Bob Moretti as the most powerful man in the Legislature.

McCarthy, a three-term liberal Democrat from San Francisco, was installed by a unanimous floor vote.

$100 Million Lost In An Oil Drilling Swindle

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — Jack Benny figured it was a good investment, so the entertainer with the tightwad reputation chipped in $300,000.

In the show business world the word gets around fast. Tax write-offs and big dividends were the key lures.

Liza Minnelli came up with $231,000. Walter Matthau had $200,000 he wanted to grow. Singer Andy Williams poured in $538,000 and hoped for the best. Other confident investors from the entertainment and business world bit at the sale pitch of an Oklahoma oil drilling firm.

In all 2,000 persons pushed $130 million into the drilling venture during a nine-year period in what the Securities and Exchange Commission now believes to be one of the biggest swindles of the century.

The SEC has prepared a criminal fraud case against the bankrupt Home-Stake Production Co. of Tulsa, Okla.

The SEC, which began its investigation in 1971, says the firm ran through $130 million in investment money from 1964 through last September while paying out only $30 million in dividends and refunds during the nine-year period.

SEC agents said the company sank three oil wells to the 500-foot level on a California farm and represented the drilling venture through photographs, even though there was no oil in the area at such a shallow depth.

JACK BENNY
Drops $300,000

The Wall Street Journal quoted the company's operations manager as saying he got permission from a vegetable farmer to paint some irrigation pipes orange and code them with oil-field markings to make things look real. The manager, Harvey L. Garland, said there were no wells drilled at the site.

It is believed the SEC will claim Home-Stake used investors' own money to pay quick dividends in order to attract subsequent, larger investments. The longer a person put cash into the firm the less he got back, although many investors did not question the reduced dividends because they were benefitting from huge tax writeoffs.

The company scheme was so successful as to attract money from Benny, Mathau, Miss Minnelli, Williams, as well as Buddy Hackett, Barbra Streisand, Alan Alda, Jacqueline Bisset, Phyllis Diller, Tony Curtis, Jonathan Winters and Bob Dylan.

It was so sophisticated as to attract business magnates such as Walter B. Wriston, chairman of the First National City Bank of New York, the nation's second largest; Russell W. McFall, chairman and president of Western Union; George J. W. Goodman, a Wall Street investor who wrote "The Money Game" under the pseudonym "Adam Smith"; Dean P. Fite, vice president of Procter and Gamble; Fred J. Borch, former chairman of General Electric; and Ralph A. Hart, director of Heublein, Inc.

U.S. Sens. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., and Ernest Hollings, D-S.C., also invested.

The Home-Stake Production Co. under investigation is in no way associated with Homestake Mining Co. of San Francisco or the Homestake gold mine in South Dakota.

Israel Issues Warning To Lebanon On Weapons

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Israel's chief of staff warned Lebanon today a decision to accept an Egyptian offer of airplanes and antiaircraft missiles could turn Lebanon into a battlefield.

Lt. Gen. Mordechai Gur made the remark in reply to questions about Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's offer in a magazine article to use his airpower to help Lebanon deal with possible Israeli raids against Arab guerrilla bases in Lebanon.

"If they bring planes into Lebanon, if they bring antiaircraft missiles into Lebanon, they might change Lebanon into a battlefield," Gur said in a press conference in Tel Aviv.

"If they bring some antiaircraft missiles into Lebanon and they want to keep them, they have to bring in the whole system — SAM-2s, SAM-3s, SAM-6s," he said.

Gur said the answer to the Lebanese dilemma is for the Beirut government to stop guerrilla infiltration into Israel itself.

Cambodian Airliner Crash Kills 16 Persons

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — A DC3 airliner of the internal airline Cambodia Air Commercial crashed today on takeoff from the province capital of Battambang, killing 16 persons aboard and injuring nine others, military sources said.

Security At Heathrow Very Tight

LONDON (UPI) — Nearly 1,000 troops backed by armor and a helicopter wrapped a ring of steel around London's major international airport today to counter a feared Arab guerrilla attack.

Troops in battle dress carrying automatic weapons mingled with thousands of passengers at the airport in what an officer said was the biggest military operation in Britain since World War II.

The government declined to spell out the reasons for the alert except that it was taken because of the "likelihood of terrorist activity of which there is a constant general threat."

But airport sources said it was ordered on intelligence reports a Palestine guerrilla group, foiled by West German security at the World Soccer Cup championships, had turned their attention to London's Heathrow Airport.

Labor Prime Minister Harold Wilson this weekend plays host to 26 international Socialist leaders, including Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin and West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt.

The newspaper Daily Mail said the alert will remain in force until after the Socialist International meeting and departure of the leaders Sunday.

The unsourced report said a guerrilla commando squad planned a three-part attack, signalling it by opening indiscriminate fire in a crowded passenger building.

A similar attack by guerrillas of the Japanese "Red Army" killed 26 persons at Tel Aviv's Lod airport in 1972.

The newspaper said the guerrillas would follow up by attacking jetliners of Pan American World Airways of the United States, El Al of Israel and KLM of Holland before kidnaping "any worthwhile hostage" to cover their retreat.

Heathrow is Britain's biggest airport, handling up to 950 planes and 80,000 passengers a day.

Roadblocks manned by police with dogs forced some passengers to miss their planes yesterday but the police later substituted spot checks of individual automobiles.

The army brought in a helicopter late yesterday to guard against any "night incident," an officer said. It was equipped with spotlights to illuminate an attack area, he said.

Nurses Will Vote Tonight On Pact

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Some 4,400 nurses gather tonight in the vast Cow Palace to vote on a contract proposal which would end their 20-day strike against 41 hospitals.

The tentative pact, details of which were kept secret pending the ratification meeting, was hammered out after a marathon 43-hour bargaining session between the California Nurses Association and representatives of three hospital groups.

Terms of the tentative agreement were not made public, pending the ratification meeting.

The nurses walked off the job June 7 at hospitals in the San Francisco Bay area—from San Jose to Sacramento.

It took the nation's top federal mediator, W.J. Usery Jr., to get both sides to come to the agreement. He took charge of the talks at the request of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The pivotal issue was a CNA demand that registered nurses be given a voice in staffing decisions.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Steel Price Hikes

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — By summer's end, steel produced by the nation's two largest steelmakers will be up in price by 5 to 15 per cent.

U.S. Steel, the No. 1 producer, yesterday announced effective Monday 5.5 per cent average increases on about half of its huge production line, "generally lower" than the 5 to 15 per cent hikes announced Monday by No. 2 ranked Bethlehem Steel Corp.

Smuggling Dolt

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — An undercover federal agent, sent to Mexico to investigate a tip that a smuggling ring was operating between the two nations, testified yesterday he arranged to buy seven tons of American munitions from a Texas millionaire.

Cesario Diosdada, a former U.S. Customs Service agent, testified in the smuggling trial of Eagle Pass, Tex., rancher-banker Richmond Harper and four other men accused of participating in the clandestine operation.

The defendants were arrested July 1, 1972, at a Shreveport, La., airport where federal agents seized a DC4 airliner loaded with explosives and firearms reportedly destined for Mexico.

Bomb In Ireland

BELFAST (UPI) — An automobile bomb exploded half a mile from the center of Belfast today, destroying a newsstand and damaging nearby government offices, but injuring no one. The blast was the first in three days in Northern Ireland.

Bhutto Welcome

DACCA (UPI) — Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto became the first Pakistani chief of state to set foot in the new nation of Bangladesh today and police used bamboo clubs to beat back thousands of well-wishers on the streets.

As he stepped from his special jet he received a 19-gun salute and a brief embrace from Bangladesh Prime Minister Sheikh Mujibur Rahman — the hero of the 1971 liberation war in which Bangladesh formed an independent nation from Pakistan's eastern wing.

New Boss In Chile

SANTIAGO (UPI) — The leader of the four-man military junta that seized power upon overthrowing Marxist President Salvador Allende last September was formally declared chief of state and given far-ranging powers yesterday.

A brief decree issued without fanfare pronounced Gen. Augusto Pinochet leader of the nation and said he would continue as commander-in-chief of the army.

Pinochet, 58, had served as president of the 4-man military junta that has governed Chile since the Sept. 11 coup.

Chile has lived under a state of siege and internal war since the coup, and the emergency measures are unlikely to be repealed in the near future.

Low Toll Seen

CHICAGO (UPI) — The National Safety Council yesterday issued its lowest July 4 four-day holiday traffic death toll estimate in 24 years.

The council said between 450 and 550 persons would die in traffic during next week's holiday period.

"The lifesaving trend in traffic accidents that appeared last winter at the onset of the energy crisis still seems to be with us," council President Vincent Tofany said.

Kidnaper Hunted

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Mexican troops fanned out in the rugged Sierra Madre mountains today in an attempt to track down Marxist guerrilla leader Lucio Cabanas and rescue kidnaped Senator Ruben Figueroa.

The government last night flatly rejected the guerrilla's demands for $4 million ransom and the release of all prisoners jailed in the Mexican state of Guerrero.

Figueroa, a 74-year-old senator and the governing party's candidate for Guerrero state governor in coming elections, was taken prisoner May 30 by Cabanas after he voluntarily entered the mountains for private talks about amnesty.

Cancer Virus Test

DETROIT (UPI) — The Michigan Cancer Foundation is analyzing a virus which it says could lead to a major effort to cure or prevent breast cancer, the leading killer of women between 35 and 55 in the United States.

Foundation officials announced yesterday the isolation of a virus code-named 734-B and tentatively called "a true human breast cancer virus."

Battles In Asia

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Government troops and rebel forces clashed on four fronts around Phnom Penh and in southern Cambodia, killing and wounding scores of soldiers, the military command reported today.

In South Vietnam, military sources said today that tourists near the resort city of Nha Trang, 200 miles northeast of Saigon, found the wreckage of a C123 troop transport plane with what are believed to be the remains of four Americans and 33 Vietnamese missing since 1965.

G.I. Bill Extension Approved By Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has passed unanimously and sent to the House legislation to keep benefits from expiring for four million veterans who served between 1955 and 1966.

The measure would affect immediately some 206,000 post-Korea veterans and 79,000 Vietnam-era veterans currently receiving education benefits under the G.I. Bill. Without the extension, their benefits would expire automatically after this week.

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED
These coatings are a result of extensive research and testing by the Sherwin-Williams Company. We guarantee your satisfaction in use of these products or your purchase price will be cheerfully refunded.

YOU CAN FIGURE OUT HOW MUCH PAINT YOU NEED

Measure the distance around your house. (In feet.) And measure the average height. (For a pitched roof, figure "average height" to eaves: plus two feet for gable ends.)
Then multiply distance by height, to get the approximate number of square feet to be painted. Divide the number by the coverage you can expect from each gallon of paint you're using, and you'll know about how many gallons you'll need.
Of course, coverage varies depending on the surface you're painting. But generally, you can expect a Sherwin-Williams Latex House Paint to cover about 400 square feet per gallon. So, in the example, you'd need about 4 and ½ gallons.

SAN PEDRO ACCIDENT

Jeffrey C. Newman (right), of 444 William Avenue, Larkspur, shrugs in bafflement as he explains to San Rafael policeman Richard Michaelsen why his car is wedged in the kitchen of the Robert W. Boyden home at 309 Point San Pedro Road. Newman told police he was driving down the road at 4:30 p.m. yesterday when his gas pedal stuck, forcing his car over a curb and into the home. Margaret Boyden, working in her kitchen at the time, was struck by flying debris but was not hospitalized, police said. (Photo by Ty Barbour)

'Trade And Mark' On Cough Drops

NEW YORK (UPI) — The bearded Smith Brothers, whose portraits have appeared on boxes of cough drops for more than a hundred years, were the actual founders of a company based on their father's secret recipe for "a flavorsome and efficacious cough candy."

In 1866, William and Andrew Smith started the cough drop concern in Poughkeepsie, N.Y., according to Robert Marston and Associates, Inc. When their pictures first appeared on the box over the word "trademark," the printer mistakenly split the word so that William became "Trade" and Andrew "Mark."

Annexation Ends Threat To Homes

The Richardson Bay Sanitary District board voted last night to annex about 20 homes on Greenwood Beach Road in Tiburon to the district.

The county health department has been threatening the residents with legal action because their septic tanks are polluting the bay.

Secretary Eber D. Russell said the board also approved a plan to bring sewer lines to the homes, at an estimated cost of $9,000 per homeowner.

Russell said that several alternative plans were discussed, but the board finally picked one calling for a main sewer line down Greenwood Beach Road and requiring each home to install a pump to lift its sewage to the line.

Russell said that about 15 homeowners attended and objected that the plan was too costly. He said they argued for running a line below the homes along the bay. Under this plan, sewage could move to the main line by gravity.

Russell said the board rejected this plan because engineering consultants said it would be difficult, if not impossible, to build.

The annexation must be approved by the county's Local Agency Formation Commission and a majority of the homeowners.

Tentative College Budget Is Approved

A 1974-75 tentative budget of $30,686,128, more than $6 million higher than last year's record $24.7 million budget, was approved last night by Marin Community College District trustees.

The budget is about $200,000 lower than the original draft of the tentative budget given trustees earlier this week, according to district Business Mgr. Norman Bird.

The budget allocates $15,336,164 to the general fund with $460,458 for the district office, $8,199,694 for College of Marin and $1,262,338 for Indian Valley Colleges.

Another $15,336,912 is allocated for capital improvements including several building projects at Indian Valley Colleges.

Trustees have pledged to keep the capital improvement tax below 35 cents per $100 assessed valuation. Since the $15.3 million building plan would require a 64-cent tax rate, Bird said trustees will either fund the projects from reserves or postpone some projects.

He estimated the general fund budget to require about a two-cent increase in the present 66-cent tax rate.

Trustees will set a series of budget hearings during the regular board meeting Monday at 7:30 p.m. in room 101 of the College of Marin Science Center.

The Marin Community College District board also:

CHANGE — Approved an $854 addition to construction projects at Indian Valley Colleges to cover pruning trees which interfere with walkways and buildings and to remove some poison oak.

SALARIES — Approved an 8.1 per cent cost-of-living raise for classified (nonteaching) employees. The raise will cost $134,000 and funds will be shifted from the reserves in the tentative budget, according to Bird.

PERSONNEL — Hired Wallace Emmons for $1,234 per month, Al Tuerke for $1,148 per month and Jane Evje for $1,266 per month, all as data processing analyst-programmers.

SERIES — Approved a series of concerts and lectures for 1974-75 at the College of Marin which will cost an estimated $39,400 and bring in about $60,000.

TAMALPAIS — Agreed to join other agencies in protesting the tax exemption recently granted the Tamalpais Retirement residence.

Champagne Country.

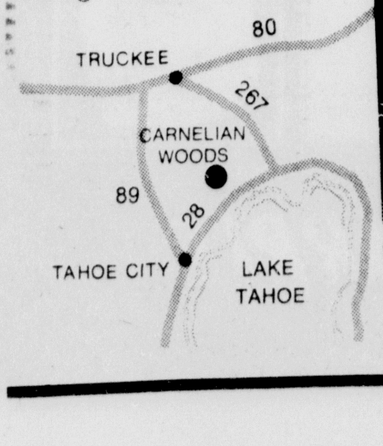

It's the country for the good life. It's Carnelian Woods, Condominiums at Lake Tahoe in an environment that suggests a secluded mountain village. Each unit is like a private chalet. Light a fire in your fireplace. Open your doors onto private decks that overlook a quiet pine forest . . . breathe in a cool green experience. The Carnelian Woods site was chosen for your enjoyment. It offers a maximum of privacy, natural beauty and all the clean air and joy that the mountains can bring.

The development of the site has been governed by the most demanding of concerns for the natural environment and ecology. Only a small fraction of the total Carnelian Woods site will ever be developed . . . the vast majority of the acreage will be left natural and undisturbed.

To the perfect combination of nature's and man's environmental design, Carroll Brock of M.J. Brock & Sons, Inc., has added the perfect organization. People of real warmth and friendliness who are at Carnelian Woods to help you get everything possible from your recreation investment. There's Jim. He runs a recreation program that's the envy of the Lake. Cindy . . . is not only a joy to behold, she also runs a fine rental program if you want to rent your unit when you're not using it. And there is Ray Franceschini, who directs the operation of the whole Carnelian Woods development, maintenance people and sports pro's, all there to make your recreation time purely recreational.

But the joy of the Carnelian Woods organization is that it's only there when you want it. We're there only to insure that your purchase or rental results in the ultimate recreational adventure. Come walk in the woods... Carnelian Woods. Oh yes, bring your bubbly.

Islands Seem To Abound With Historic Mystery

By CHORAL PEPPER
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

The late lawyer-mystery writer Erle Stanley Gardner was as intrigued with real-life mysteries as he was with the Perry Mason ones he fabricated.

One that baffled him for many years concerned an experience recounted by an illiterate hermit he had befriended in a remote part of California's Mojave desert.

The story involved a gold ledge of incredible wealth that lay on an unknown island off the Gold Coast of Africa. The old hermit had been shipwrecked there for a short time during his early seafaring days. When the natives grew suspicious of his interest in their gold, they drugged and removed him to another island from which he subsequently was rescued.

The unbelievable part was his insistence that the gold ledge was guarded by an army of carnivorous ants, each over an inch long. On the other hand, the embellishment was just kookie enough for Gardner to consider that the story might be true.

Years later, Gardner inadvertently came across a scholarly treatise written by an English anthropologist. The writer had encountered some natives on an island in the same part of the world who wore gold ornaments hammered out of virgin metal. When he inquired of the gold's source, the natives indicated that the ornaments had been obtained in trade from a tribe on the opposite side of the island. When the Englishman wanted to visit them, his guides refused on the grounds that they would all be killed.

One piece of information he did glean was that the strange tribe's diet consisted mainly of a food which in the Fanti dialect translated into "bread of forgetfulness." The phonetic pronunciation was the same that Gardner's hermit had given to the bread that his captors fed to their giant ants.

At the time, Gardner was not aware of the result of a scientific experiment that determined ants can be trained to go through mazes and to collect food regularly. He also had not heard of the rare "Camponotus gigas," a tropical Asian ant over an inch long.

Ever since islands first emerged from the sea, they have been synonymous with mystery.

Gibraltar's Barbary ape, for example, is related to the macaques of southern Asia rather than to African monkeys and is the only primate ever found in Europe. Whether it descended from an extinct line of European macaques or was introduced from North Africa, us unknown. Some believe that Gibraltar's original species made its way under the sea through a series of caverns, still not entirely explored.

If it did, the route was lost before 1863. At that time the Rock's Barbary ape colony had dwindled down to three members. Faced with an old superstition that the Rock would fall into alien hands if the apes died out, British authorities imported a colony from Morocco. Since then, others have been added. Meanwhile, these have become so integrated with the original apes that it would be impossible to discern any physiological differences now. The mystery remains.

Similarly intriguing is the tuatara of New Zealand, a reptile that persists as the sole survivor of a line anteceding lizards and even dinosaurs. It may have lived on the rocky coasts of New Zealand as long ago as the Triassic period, several million years past.

The tuatara, along with an extant but prehistoric frog that doesn't swim, has given rise to a controversy regarding New Zealand's former land connections. The common belief is that it once was connected to the Australian continent, but other theorists point out that rocks on the island match those on the floors of the Coral and Tasman Seas, and not Australia's.

This has led to speculation that a sister continent to Australia named Tasmantis possibly disappeared into the Tasman Sea, along with the ancestors of the tuataras.

Circumstances beyond imagination are often responsible for the mysterious disappearances of island species, even today. What archaeologist in the dim future would ever guess the real reason why the Hawaiian island of Kauai is the only one left of the chain with its full complement of indigenous birds?

The story goes back to the last century when mongooses were imported to rid Hawaii's sugarcane fields of rats. When the crate containing the weasel-like animals was unloaded on Kauai's pier, an inquisitive inspector stuck his finger into an airhole. It got nipped. In retaliation, he pushed the crate into the sea. Thus Kauai was spared the onslaught of a mongoose population that ultimately eliminated all native birds on the other islands. Ironically, it refused to cross the path of the rats.

Archaic forms of flora and fauna on islands are understandable. Isolation prevents cross-fertilization, and on unpopulated islands fauna are naturally protected. Manmade phenomena, however, pose mysteries that may never be solved.

For example the puzzle on Elephanta, an Indian island near Bombay, is how its gigantic monuments could have been hollowed out from a solid rock mountain, top to bottom, in perfect proportion. Statues depicting Shiva and other Hindu gods are sculptured in voluptuous fashion together with symbolic figures of flaming chariots and flying "spacemen."

It was these later figures that prompted Erich von Daniken, in his best-selling "Chariot of the Gods," to entertain an idea that the eath long ago was visited by representatives of an advanced extraterrestrial civilization. When you contemplate the engineering technique necessary to have executed this marvel, you are tempted to agree.

Untold island mysteries still await discovery. Only a few years ago Brad Williams and I, while researching for our book "Lost Treasures of the West," came upon a distinctive Minoan maze in, of all places, a prehistoric ruin in Arizona.

The Minoan maze is a design that was struck on coins some 4,000 years ago in the Knossos Palace on the Greek island of Crete. Authorities on prehistoric art have stated that this particular maze is so intricate that there is only a million-to-one chance that the symbol could have arisen independently in both the New World and the Old.

Yet somehow, it was carried overseas from an extinct Minoan culture to another extinct race known to archaeologists now as the Hohokams.

And so deepen our islands of mystery.

traffic problems, a Belvedere man informed the commission of growing concern in the town of Belvedere that Tiburon planning on the project was continuing apace with little concern for its adjoining city.

Andrew E. Allen of 340 Golden Gate Avenue in Belvedere asserted that "Belvedere residents will be more influenced than many Tiburon residents. I think Belvedere has been left out of this, and should be considered."

Commissioner Alvin R. Kuhn said that Belvedere's concern has not been voiced by its city government. It has not commented, he said, on the environmental impact report received last month.

"We thought you all must have fallen asleep over there," Kuhn said.

He was unaware, however, that the Belvedere Planning Commission had decided on Tuesday to tell Tiburon that the report on the Sequoia Pacific development is legally unsatisfactory.

Belvedere City Mgr. William L. Cavalli told the Independent-Journal yesterday that the commissioners met in March with Madrone Associates to outline Belvedere's concerns about the project. Few, if any, of their points were covered in the report, Belvedere commissioners complained.

According to the Belvedere commission, effects needing more study include: traffic, parking and litter problems which the development could create in Belvedere; whether Belvedere will have to increase its police force after the development; the impact of the development's marina on tides in Belvedere Cove and whether the project will bring more fishermen to the Belvedere Cove seawall.

Marin Housing Round Tomorrow

Ways to speed up the renovation of public housing in Marin City will be discussed by the Marin County Housing Authority board at a special meeting at noon tomorrow in the agency office, 47 Paul Drive, San Rafael.

Wallace K. Shepherd, executive director of the authority, said the remodeling currently is scheduled to take a year. "We would like to cut that time down to six months," he said.

The board also will discuss a plan by Shepherd to spend $20,000 of authority money to provide jobs for two Marin City residents in the $625,000 renovation program. The proposal is in answer to complaints that not enough residents have been hired.

Bids Announced For Post Office

Edward N. Schultz of Sacramento has submitted the low bid for a new post office building proposed for Woodacre, according to Richard W. Anderson, manager of real estate and building for the San Francisco District.

Schulz was one of five bidders and offered to rent the building to the post office for $10,666 a year. The postal service will lease the facility from the contractor on a basic term of 10 years with four five-year renewal options.

The high bid was $16,950 a year, according to Anderson.

He said the contract is to be awarded in the next several days.

Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger was one of these, Fulbright said, because he "evidently feels free to undercut the administration's detente policy by pressing for a wholly unnecessary equivalence with the Soviet Union in 'throw weight' and numbers of missile launchers, despite an American advantage of more than 3-1 in warheads." The term "throw weight" refers to the carrying capacity of a missile.

"Mr. Schlesinger also propounds a targeting doctrine which would confront the Russians with the destabilizing prospect of an apparent American bid for first strike capacity," Fulbright said.

And the weekend before Nixon left, Fulbright said, "the senator from Washington (Jackson) weighed in with a charge, promptly and convincingly refuted by the secretary of state, that the administration had agreed secretly at the 1972 summit to allow the Russians to exceed their alloted 950 modern submarine missiles and had also promised to hold the American submarine force below its allotted and planned level." Jackson had referred to a "secret deal" changing the terms of the 1972 agreement. Kissinger flatly denied this.

Asked yesterday if he were an "enemy of detente," Jackson said no, but he wanted a mutual reduction of forces beginning with both nations deciding to eliminate 100 ballistic missiles from their arsenals this year.

"The only thing Fulbright has called for reduction is in the American defense budget," Jackson said. "He's never advocated a comprehensive disarmament program. He's good on calling for a unilateral cut in defense budgets and low on cutting arms on a mutual basis that will being peace and a lowering of violence in the world."

Jackson said his information on the alleged secret agreement came in closed-door testimony from Paul Nitze, chief U.S. representative at the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks, who resigned last week.

According to Jackson, Nixon and Kissinger did not tell Nitze or former secretary of state William P. Rogers about it. "I think the key thing to remember is that I had no knowledge of these agreements until former Secretary of the Navy Paul Nitze told us of these agreements ... and he learned of these agreements from the Russians," Jackson said. "That is the truth and I would so swear under oath."

Drugs Usually Not As Claimed

STOCKTON (UPI) — A 30-month study of the drug scene in Palo Alto, Los Angeles and Minneapolis by the University of Pacific's School of Pharmacy has shown that drugs bought on the street are rarely what the seller claims.

The study showed that of 640 alleged mescaline-containing street drugs, only 26 actually contained mescaline. Of 284 alleged psilocybin (PSI) samples, the active ingredients in "magic mushroom," only 10 contained the drug. And of 149 samples of tetrahydrocannabinol (THC), the active ingredient in marijuana, only five samples contained THC.

The study showed that the drug most dominant in the street market was LSD, showing up in 68 per cent of all drugs surveyed.

IMPEACH

quest by presidential attorney James D. St. Clair was a tie, 19-19, one short of the majority needed to prevail. Nineteen Democrats voted against it and 17 Republicans, joined by two Democrats, voted to call all his witnesses.

In secret memos made available to UPI by a Republican congressman, St. Clair said John W. Dean III and Frederick C. LaRue, a Nixon campaign worker, would give testimony that would tend to clear Nixon in a most damaging area —the payment of $75,000 to convicted burglar E. Howard Hunt on March 21, 1973.

Dean and LaRue were on the witness list proposed by the Democrats and approved by the committee.

But St. Clair said he wanted further testimony from Paul O'Brien, attorney for the Committee to Re-Elect the President; William O. Bittman, Hunt's lawyer; John N. Mitchell, former CRP chairman; and former White House chief of staff H.R. Haldeman. They were put on the committee's list of stand-by witnesses.

St. Clair said the testimony from the witnesses he wanted would show the payment was not for blackmail or hush money but "for legal fees and living expenses."

The President's role in that transaction is crucial —especially since many Republicans say they feel a President can be impeached only if it is shown he committed a criminal offense.

Rep. Delbert Latta, R-Ohio, accused the Democrats of exercising "raw political power." Rep. Charles E. Wiggins, R-Calif., said the Democrats had sacrificed "all pretenses of objectivity."

Rep. Charles E. Sandman, R.N.J. said: "Unless I hear from the witnesses I want to hear, I'll never vote for impeachment."

St. Clair, after listening in silence while evidence was presented to the committee for the last six weeks, had his opportunity to rebut it today.

He was given two days to answer evidence considered by the committee point by point, including the testimony which led a grand jury to name Nixon a co-conspirator in the Watergate cover-up.

OBITUARIES

HENRY AUGUSTO

Henry J. Augusto Sr. of Santa Rosa, a San Rafael native and longtime Marin resident, died yesterday at a Sebastopol hospital after a long illness. He was 70.

During most of his life he was a truck driver, and had lived in San Rafael until six years ago. His Santa Rosa home was at 1702 Laguna Road.

Augusto was a member of the Petaluma Sportsmens Club and St. Sebastian's Catholic Church in Sebastopol.

He is survived by his wife, Celeste; two sons, Raymon Augusto of Rohnert Park and Henry Augusto Jr. of Petaluma; a daughter, Bernice Allen of Petaluma and a brother, Carl Augusto of San Rafael.

A Mass of Christian Burial will be held at 11 a.m. Saturday at St. Sebastian's Church, and the Rosary will be recited in Augusto's memory at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Analy Funeral Chapel in Sebastopol. Burial will be in Sebastopol Cemetery.

EDWARD BRADLEY

Edward C. Bradley of Denver collapsed and died unexpectedly early this morning while visiting at the home of Kenneth Martin of 20 Knight Drive in San Rafael. He was 59.

Bradley had been undergoing treatment for a heart condition.

He was a native of Colorado and had been employed in a Denver bakery.

His survivors include his wife, Molly; sister of Mrs. Martin; a son, Albert Bradley, of Denver, and two grandchildren.

SARABETH HEYDE

Funeral for Sarabeth Jones Heyde, wife of former NBC radio announcer Bud Heyde, will be at 2 p.m. tomorrow at the Chapel of the Chimes in Santa Rosa.

Mrs. Heyde died Tuesday in Gualala, Mendocino County, after a long illness. She was 64.

She and her husband, host of the radio program, "The San Francisco Story," retired to Gualala in 1969. They have been spending their winters in Mazatlan.

She is survived by her husband, a daughter, Mrs. Caryl Saunders of San Rafael, and two grandchildren.

MRS. VALENTINE

Funeral for Florence V. Valentine, mother of Charlene Buffum of Novato, was held today in Berkeley.

Mrs. Valentine, 55, died Tuesday in Berkeley after a long illness. She was an owner of race horses and had moved to Berkeley recently after living in San Diego.

Mrs. Valentine formerly was a longtime resident of San Francisco. She was a native of Michigan and had been a resident of California since 1928.

OSCAR M. SAMET

Oscar M. Samet, a resident of San Anselmo for 24 years, died yesterday at his home at 1100 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard after a brief illness. He was 80.

Born in Vienna, Austria, Samet studied restaurant management in England and France before emigrating to Seattle, Wash., in 1915. He owned and operated restaurants in San Francisco and Los Angeles and a hotel in England before retiring to San Anselmo in 1950.

Samet was active in the Marin Chapter of Sons in Retirement.

He is survived by his wife, Margareta of San Anselmo, his son, Ronald Samet of Fairfax and one grandchild.

At Samet's request, no funeral will be held. Private burial will be handled by Wilson & Kratzer Mortuaries in Richmond, Contra Costa County.

GIMMY WONG

Funeral for Gimmy Wong, 56, cook at DeBorba's restaurant in Novato, will be at 2:30 p.m. Sunday at the Cathay Mortuary, San Francisco.

Wong, of 20 Lawrence Drive, Novato, died Tuesday at a local hospital after a long illness. He had been a cook at DeBorba's for 34 years. He was a native of China.

Surviving are his wife, Tui Kim Wong; a daughter, Lillie; a son, Richard, all of Novato; and his father, Gim Wah Wong of San Francisco.

Burial will be at the Ning Yung Cemetery, Colma. Evening services will be from 5 to 6 p.m. Saturday at the Cathay Mortuary.

PROTESTING FOR PIETY

Dawn Scherba of Rohnert Park, mother of a kindergartener at Waldo Rohnert School, gathers another signature on her petition protesting banning from school a song titled "Thanksgiving." Mrs. Scherba has collected more than 1,000 signatures of people who agree with her that children should be allowed to thank God for their crackers and milk. She told the press yesterday at a rally outside the Sonoma County Hall of Justice in Santa Rosa that youngsters could use four-letter words in classrooms but not the three-letter word for the Deity.

Proposed San Anselmo Budget Carries A 16-Cent Tax Increase

San Anselmo City Administrator-Controller Alfred C. Kaeppel has proposed a budget of $2,130,467 for 1974-75, up from this year's $2,108,641.

The spending program will require a tax rate of $2.51 per $100 of assessed valuation, up 16 cents from this fiscal year's $2.35 rate.

San Anselmo is able to raise the tax rate under terms of a complicated "inflation factor" provided by state law, Kaeppel said. He said the city has experienced a 59-person drop in population over the last year, coupled with an 8.63 per cent cost-of-living increase and a mere 2.2 per cent increase in assessed valuation.

(A county spokesman explained that only a small portion of the city was reassessed this year due to a shortage of manpower.)

The budget, which includes a $529,037 reserve fund from which employee pay raises will be financed, is based on estimated revenue of $2,093,054, Kaeppel said. Property taxes will produce $1,037,397 of that revenue.

Highlights of the fiscal plan include a $50,000 allocation in the $113,496 parks account for purchase and remodeling of the Isabel Cook School multipurpose room to house the city's parks and recreation staff, as well as tiny tots and youth center programs. The San Anselmo School District has closed the school due to declining enrollment.

The budget also included a $50,000 fund for purchase and remodeling of a residence at 15 Magnolia Avenue eyed as a headquarters for the city's public works department.

Budget allocations by department, with this year's figures in parenthesis, are: city council, $3,611 ($4,313); city administrator, $27,517 ($27,052); city clerk, $13,916 ($15,462); finance officer, $22,845 ($22,013); city treasuerer, $637 ($637); city attorney, $17,800 ($17,661); design review committee, $6,685 ($19,427); planning commission, $51,123 ($52,981); nondepartmental, $25,198 ($20,510); police, $485,999 ($465,212); fire, $453,595 ($440,334); weed cleaning, $25 ($25); animal regulation, $5,800 ($5,800); Civil defense, $100 ($100); instrumentation program, $200 ($100); engineering and administration, $94,809 ($53,829); street maintenance, $205,176 ($317,608); street construction, $135,600 ($126,185); storm drains, $119,600 ($99,200); street lighting, $32,760 ($30,654); traffic signals, $8,250 ($7,800); building department, $23,892 ($23,035); street sweeping, $26,815 ($20,441); creekside parking, $2,360 ($42,060); municipal shop, $29,755 ($31,283); health department, $200 ($1,200); library, $105,395 ($95,918); parks, $113,496 ($73,252); Robson Harrington park special account, $39,950 ($28,790), and recreation, $77,358 ($65,759).

The San Anselmo City Council will consider the spending program at 8 p.m. in city hall Tuesday and July 10, 16 and 17.

Estate Of Duke Ellington Set At $200,000

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jazz great Duke Ellington left an estate of about $200,000 when he died last month, but court papers disclosed yesterday he failed to leave a will.

Ellington's son, Mercer K. Ellington, of Washington D.C., has filed a motion in court asking for authority to administer the assets.

The papers said that Ellington's estate did not yet include copyrights to his musical compositions or royalties from them, because it was too early to estimate their value.

Ellington died May 24 at the age of 75. In addition to his son, he is survived by his sister, Ruth.

SQUASH INSTEAD OF STORES?

Civic Garden Urged For Tiburon

By REBECCA LARSEN

Vegetables gardens in downtown Tiburon?

Although the idea seems farfetched, that's the latest proposal being advanced by a city resident as an alternative to the Sequoia Pacific development now being considered for downtown Tiburon.

Philip Molten, architect and photographer and resident of the Paradise Drive area, has submitted to the city his ideas for turning 36 acres now owned by Southern Pacific Railroad into community gardens and a fish pond. He thinks that a university or foundation might be needed to grant money and labor to get the project started but also thinks that his idea can be self-supporting.

"Some communities have already done this," said Molten. "They've got community gardens in Palo Alto with 500 residents working on them."

The first and biggest catch in Molten's plan is talking the property owner, Southern Pacific Railroad, into going along with his ideas instead of proposals for an inn-conference center, offices, shops, parking garages and a marina. (The development proposal is being handled by Sequoia Pacific of Santa Ana, a partner of the railroad).

Molten admits that railroad people he has talked to don't think his idea is feasible. "But you've got to keep in mind that there are still serious questions about the Southern Pacific proposal whether or not the city chooses to go along with it."

The railroad's chief problem, said Molten, is that any downtown development would be built on a heavily filled area of bay mud. "In my mind there would be serious safety questions about putting in a dense development there," he said.

At any rate Molten hopes that the City of Tiburon might buy the Southern Pacific property. If not, he thinks there is still a chance that the owner might lease the land to the city in return for rental income and rezoning of the acreage as agricultural land, thus bringing a drastic cut in property taxes.

Then Molten wants formed a Tiburon municipal utility district to manage the property.

"First, a portion would be allocated to rental garden plots each under 1,000 square feet in size," said Molten. These would be rented to Tiburon residents or even San Franciscans who would come over by ferry to farm vegetables or flowers on the plots.

The city itself also should set up a municipal garden to grow and resell vegetables, fruits and flowers. It would be similar to a highly successful garden venture at the University of California at Santa Cruz, according to Molten.

"The products would be sold at a local farmers' market to residents or to stores and restaurants in the downtown area. The garden would represent an employment opportunity for students in the summer growing period and would offer part-time jobs for community members as well."

The city would lease another part of the land to commercial cut-flower growers, said Molten, bringing in more income.

Another innovation, suggested by Molten, is a better use for the natural springs and rainwater that trickle into the downtown area off Tiburon's hills. "Why not locate, improve and collect water from the area and incorporate it into a pond-irrigation-power system? A freshwater pond would be an excellent fire reserve for the downtown area. A pond could be stocked with fish to be marketed commercially. Fishermen might even pay a fee for the fish they catch there."

Molten said his plans are probably not a permanent solution to Tiburon's downtown problems. "But it gives us a chance to think things out over the short run. If we go ahead and develop intensively now, there's no chance of reversing the process. You don't see many housing developments being bulldozed to create parks."

VEGETABLE PATCH — Philip Molten cultivates the soil in the vegetable garden he maintains behind his Tiburon home at 2350 Paradise Avenue. He suggests the City of Tiburon help create a huge municipal vegetable and flower garden downtown.

Rome's Subway Still Unfinished

ROME (UPI) — The last pilgrims of the 1975 Holy Year may see completion of a subway line originally promised for the 1960 Rome Olympics.

Rome city officials told newsmen this week there was no chance that the 12.5-mile line from suburban Osteria del Curato to the main railroad station and the Vatican walls could be completed for the start of Holy Year.

A Budget For Novato Schools Set

Novato Unified School District trustees have approved a tentative budget of $12,956,197 for 1974-75, up 5.4 per cent from the current budget.

Trustees approved the budget Tuesday night with a special budget meeting to be held next month, according to Annette Conklin, publications director.

Eugene F. DeBrecht, assistant superintendent in charge of business, said he had no estimate on the expected tax rate, now $5.13 per $100 assessed valuation.

The major increase in the budget is expected to result from cost-of-living pay increases, still unsettled, with the district offering teachers a 6 per cent hike and teachers seeking 16 per cent.

Salary and employee benefits are listed at $10,339,118, up from $10,069,739, including only the annual increments.

The district has $582,914 in a contingency fund, that could be tapped for cost-of-living raises.

Property tax revenue is listed at $5,997,540, up $923,283 from the current year.

DeBrecht said the revenue from the increase in assessed valuation won't help because it will be largely offset by a reduction in state aid.

The board also heard a report from its advisers on procedures for selecting a superintendent to succeed James G. Bunker, who has resigned effective the end of the coming school year.

The advisers are James Corson, retired executive secretary of the California Association of School Administrators; Harry MacPherson, retired superintendent of Napa schools, and Theodore Reller, dean of the School of Education at the University of California at Berkeley.

The board adjourned to 8 p.m. July 9 at the Novato High School lecture hall.

Novato Will Seek Open Space Acreage

The Novato City Council will consider the possibility of acquiring 14 acres in the Scottsdale pond area for open space if an open space bond measure is passed in November.

Councilmen Tuesday night authorized study toward possible acquisition of the land between Highway 101 and Redwood Boulevard, south of Rowland Boulevard.

The Redwood Bank owns 5.57 acres and the Space Age Small Business Investment Co. owns 9.56 acres, all unimproved land.

The Novato City Council also:

HOUSING — Introduced an ordinance to permit housing for the elderly in various zoning districts by use permit.

MOBILE HOME PARK — Upheld the appeal of Marin Valley Inc. of a condition imposed by the Novato Planning Commission that it give a warranty against damage from "unusual differential settlement" to all tenants in the Phase III development.

NEXT MEETING — The council's next meeting will be at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Novato Community House.

Campus Factions Battle In Japan

Police said 96 radicals were arrested on charges of assault, violence, trespassing and possession of arms.

RARE COMIC BOOK — Burrel Rowe, a 37-year-old Houston attorney, reads a copy of "Superman" No. 1, a 1939 issue of the fantasy hero, for which he recently paid $2,000. The comic book collector said dealing in the one-time 10-cent books is big business now.

Expert In Karate Has Court Date

A Canadian karate coach facing charges of disturbing the peace and being drunk in public will appear tomorrow in Marin Municipal Court for further action in his case.

Judge Robert A. Smallman yesterday refused to dismiss the charges against 31-year-old Michael Nikol, who was arrested Tuesday at his Novaoto motel room.

The arrest came after Nikol argued with deputy Wayne Woodside, who had arrived to take a report on a break-in at Nikol's room.

At tomorrow's session, Nikol either will plead guilty or have a trial date set.

The karate coach, in the Bay Area to take part in a charity martial arts tournament this weekend, said yesterday he cannot afford to stay in Marin for a trial.

Special Mass Is Ruled Out

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Canons of Roman Catholic cathedrals will no longer have to say daily Mass for the souls of long dead benefactors whose grants have been whittled into nothingness by inflation, Pope Paul VI decreed today.

The decision came in a motu proprio (of his own will) decree governing the offerings made by Catholics to have Mass said for a deceased relative or for some other purpose.

The Pope said such payments were justified and in line with the word of Christ: "The laborer deserves his wages" (Luke, 10, 7), but there was need for a reform doing away with some outdated rules.

Blaze Contained

CHICO (UPI) — A 300-acre brush and grass fire just northeast of here in Bidwell Park was contained today and more than 100 firefighters were moved off firelines.

Story Recorrected For Donovan Cooke

County Coroner Donovan O. Cooke has asked recorrection of a story about him which appeared in the Independent-Journal Feb. 18 and was corrected March 5, because of republication of the original story in a political advertisement.

The advertisement, in behalf of Ervin J. Jindrich, who subsequently defeated Cooke in the June 4 primary election, appeared three days before the election. It reproduced in full the Feb. 18 story of which Cooke had previously complained and which was corrected March 5.

Errors which Cooke alleged in the Feb. 18 story, and which he asked be recorrected, included:

That "not until June, 1969 . . . did Dr. Cooke decide to join the (county) retirement system." "I joined the retirement system as soon as was legally possible in 1967," wrote Cooke. This is correct; the original story was in error, as was pointed out March 5.

That Cooke in campaigning for election in 1966 "promised full-time service." "At no time," he wrote, "did I promise full-time service . . . in the sense that I intended then, or now, to give up my private medical practice."

That to take advantage of county retirement pay based on his highest salary when director of the county health services program, he "must win re-election." "It is not essential to be re-elected to become eligible for the county retirement system," he wrote. Participation in the retirement benefits requires 10 years' county service; Cooke is now in his eighth year. However, it is correct that he might qualify through other service than being re-elected to another term as coroner.

That following Cooke's resignation as county health services director, the coroner-public administrator job description in the county budget was changed to read "half time." "The position of coroner-public administrator has not been given half-time status or altered in any way," wrote Cooke. In the 1972-73 budget, when Cooke also held the position of director of health care services, the coroner-public administrator position was listed as half-time. That was changed following his resignation as health care director, as indicated in the March 5 correction story.

Cooke also held that his salary was not out of line with other county officials and noted that his appointment as director of health services followed dissension and controversy in the health department. The Feb. 18 article, however, did not say his salary was out of line nor that there had been no dissension in the health department prior to his appointment.

Peron Only Seeing Closest Advisers

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — The "influenza condition" that has kept 78-year-old President Juan D. Peron away from his office for the past 10 days persists and now affects his larynx, the Argentine government announced today.

The official announcement said Peron was meeting with only his closest advisers until the larynx condition clears up.

More Bombers Will Depart Thailand

BANGKOK (UPI) — The pace of American withdrawal of military forces in Southeast Asia quickened today with the announcement that 39 more warplanes, including nine B52s, will be flown home and two American military bases in Thailand closed.

The United States and Thailand, in a joint announcement, said that nine of the 32 remaining B52s would be withdrawn, as well as 30 F4 Phantom jets.

New Breed: Comic Book Collectors

HOUSTON (UPI) — As a boy in East Texas, Burrel Rowe whiled away lazy summer days at the town drug store spellbound in comic book adventures dominated by a cast of heroes and villians.

"I started with a hundred comics I bought for a dime apiece," he said.

Today, at 37, the boyish and bespectacled municipal bond attorney buys, sells, trades and still reads comics. But the price has gone up —$2,000 for a 1939 "Superman."

"Sure, there's a nostalgic attraction," Rowe, 37, said. "It's the most relaxing thing I do and it's a lot of fun.

"But I really appreciate the art in them. Many of the comics have beautiful art and beautiful stories.

"You can say now, 'I collect comics,' and people are surprised. Four or five years from now that won't be the case. It will be like collecting stamps.

"Soon they will be museum items because the price just gets higher and higher," he said.

Rowe recently paid $2,000 for "Superman" No. 1, a 1939 issue of the fantasy hero. To do that he sold a similar issue for $725.

"I trade so I can buy what I want," he said.

He went into serious collecting several years ago when he moved to Houston and began swapping issues with Texas author Larry McMurtry, another comics fan. His collection includes about 1,200 selected issues.

"It's the only investment I've made that keeps going up each year," Rowe said. "I have to insure them every year, and each time they go up 30 per cent or more.

"I have saved them since a child; and even back then, I tried to get back issues of my favorites, 'Jungle Comics'."

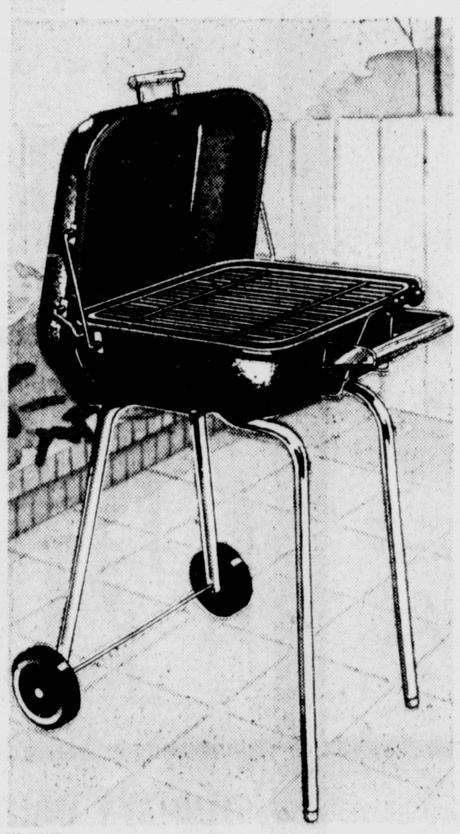

Rowe doesn't read his rarest pieces any longer, because the cheap paper they are printed on is easily damaged when brittle with age.

"I'm usually too scared to open them, but then a coin collector doesn't spend his coins, and a stamp collector doesn't use his stamps to mail letters.

"You have to understand the mentality of the collector. There is some fantasy involved. But it isn't harmful. For me it is very therapeutic."

DEATH OF A FOREST GIANT

Little Hope Of Missile Pact Soon

MOSCOW (UPI) — Russia's proposal to control strategic arms would give the United States an advantage in total number of multiple warhead missiles and leave the Soviets with more missile launchers, a senior U.S. official said today.

The official, who spoke with newsmen aboard President Nixon's plane en route to the Moscow summit conference, said the proposal "is not acceptable because the gap isn't big enough."

His reference was to the U.S advantage in MIRVs, multi-headed missiles with warheads that can be fired at different targets, vs. the Soviet launcher advantage.

Expanding on remarks by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger at a Brussels news newsmen on the Brussels-cial said both Kissinger and Nixon felt that the most vital Soviet-American issue during the summit was limiting new multiple warhead missile development.

Kissinger told newmsen in Brussels that an interim arms limitation pact was almost impossible at this time because of the unlikely chance of an agreement on the MIRV issue.

The official who spoke with newsmen on the Brussels-Moscow flight contended that the United States is in no real danger of being outclassed by the Soviets unless it should stop working on missile improvement as the Soviets continue, but said it was vital to get an agreement as soon as possible.

"If we stood still and the Soviet MIRVed all their missiles, by 1981 they would have a slight advantage," he said. "But if we keep on building, there's no way for them to catch up in numbers in the next decade."

The importance of getting an agreement lies in the fact that if the current strategic arms limitation talk (SALT) agreement is allowed to expire in 1977 without an interim extension involving MIRV control, the arms race would be "out of control," the official said.

Kissinger also stressed the need for a new agreement yesterday but said the United States will continue in the arms race until there is one.

"We are prepared to continue in the arms race as long as we must, and we will never accept a strategic disadvantage for the United States," Kissinger said.

"If the arms race continued for another 10 years it will not yield an advantage to either side, but it might complicate their political relations."

The MIRV —multiple, independently targetable re-entry vehicle —was first deployed by the United States in 1970. It permits a single rocket to launch up to 10 separate nuclear bombs which can be aimed at different targets hundreds of miles apart. More than 400 of the 1,000 U.S. Minuteman missiles have MIRVs and the Poseidon missile —another MIRV —is going into submarines for undersea firing.

MIRV was not mentioned in the first strategic arms limitation agreement. The Soviet Union then didn't have any MIRVs, but it was allowed to have more missiles than the United States to offset the MIRV advantage.

But now, the Russians have tested four MIRV warheads. "On some categories of missiles," Kissinger said, "the Soviet Union is newly ready to deploy its MIRVs."

The SALT negotiators are trying to reach an agreement, but Kissinger said Tuesday a permanent pact is impossible in this week's negotiations. A reporter asked yesterday if an interim agreement could be reached instead.

"That would be impossible," he replied, "unless it was tied to some substantial agreement on the question of multiple warheads, and that probably also will not be achieved."

He estimated the two countries have about a year and a half to reach a MIRV agreement before the Soviet deployment decision becomes "irrevocable."

Kissinger attempted to explain the problems in comparison in a way that raised the old metaphor about apples and oranges. The USSR, he said, has a numerical advantage in missiles, but this is substantially offset by a U.S. lead in both technology and possession of a strategic bomber fleet and tactical nuclear weapons in Europe that threaten Russian forces in a way Moscow cannot match.

"Whether you look at it in terms of the number of weapons or the number of warheads, the United States probably has the advantage," he said. "The Soviet Union's advantage lies only in the throw-weight (carrying capacity) of its missiles."

Some agreement might be possible, Kissinger said, on a ban on underground nuclear tests above a specific threshold and elimination of peaceful atomic explosions. The experts in the negotiations now need policy level decisions which may be made at the summit, he added.

House Parliamentarian To Leave Powerful Post

WASHINGTON (UPI)— Lewis Deschler, who has advised speakers of the House of Representatives for nearly half a century, resigned today as House parliamentarian.

Deschler, 69, a native of Chillicothe, Ohio, said in a letter which Speaker Carl Albert presented to the House, "My doctors have strongly suggested that I retire from my duties as parliamentarian."

Little known to the public, Deschler was the most respected, feared and highly paid ($42,500 a year, same as congressmen) employee of the House.

He was praised by Albert as "the greatest parliamentarian in the world." Vice President Gerald R. Ford, while House Republican leader, described him during a tribute on Deschler's 64th birthday in 1969, as "that great human being, that man equally brilliant and practical, that fountain of wisdom and great parliamentarian."

On the other hand, Consumer Advocate Ralph Nader testifying on committee reform on Oct. 5, 1973, called Deschler "the hidden despot in the House."

Deschler came to the House in 1925 as a floor messenger for Speaker Nicholas Longworth, who named him assistant parliamentarian in 1926. In January, 1927, he was promoted to parliamentarian.

Anti-Nixon Legislation Is Killed

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation urging that President Nixon "leave office as soon as practicable" died in the Senate Rules Committee yesterday for lack of a motion to approve it.

The proposal by Sen. Arlen Gregorio, D-San Mateo, was opposed by both Republican and Democratic members of the committee.

Gregorio said since the Watergate scandal broke a "paralysis" had hit both the executive branch of the federal government and congress.

He said this made it more difficult for state and local officials "to get things done" on projects involving federal participation.

"The job of trying to make government credible at all levels is more difficult," Gregorio told the committee. "My job and your job is tougher so long as Mr. Nixon is in office."

But Sens. Clare Berryhills, R-Ceres, and George Zenovich, D-Fresno, argued against the measure (SJR44).

"As a Democrat, of course, this would be a beautiful thing," Zenovich said of the measure. "But as a Democrat just to jump on the bandwagon I think would be unfair to the system throughout the country . . . I'm not in a position to know what is going on."

Berryhill said Watergate aside, "We should look at some of the positive things he (Nixon) or his representatives have done. We have peace now. I think he should continue in office and continue with that particular pursuit."

The measure originally demanded the resignation of President Nixon, but it was amended to urge that he "leave office as soon as practicable."

Venezuela Sets Oil Price Boost

CARACAS (UPI) — -Venezuela intends to hike oil prices and oil income taxes as of July 1 in a two-pronged unilateral move to fight inflation and also cut into oil company profits, Deputy Mines Minister Fernando Baez said today.

Baez said that Venezuela would not follow the moderate Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) decision taken at the June 15-17 Quito meeting to increase royalty payments by 2 per cent.

Venezuela, a founding member of the 12-nation oil cartel, was unsuccessful in the OPEC meeting in getting approval for a 9 per cent hike in prices and a special excess profits tax for all company earnings over 35 cents per barrel.

Griffin Files To End Marriage

Dr. L. Martin Griffin Jr., a director of the Marin Municipal Water District, filed yesterday to end his 30-year marriage to Mary M. Griffin.

Griffin, a Kentfield resident who represents the water district's Division 4, declined to run for reelection June 4 and will leave office in January.

According to his Marin Superior Court petition, Griffin, 53, and his wife were married Jan. 2, 1944, in Palo Alto, and separated May 1. They have four grown children.

AMA Averts Watchdog Law Split

CHICAGO (UPI) — The American Medical Association's policy-making body decided yesterday to push for changes in a doctors' watchdog law rather than fight for its outright repeal.

By a vote of 185-to-57, surprisingly without an expected floor fight, the AMA House of Delegates approved the recommendation of a conference committee that the organization work for amendment of the controversial law.

The delegates, in session at the annual convention of the 160,000-member AMA, accepted the committee's finding that it would be "unwise to commit the resources of the association to an inflexible course seeking repeal."

The issue — called PSRO for professional standards review organizations — was the hottest before the 1974 session of the nation's doctors.

The controversy was over legislation, passed by Congress in 1972, providing for the establishment of local groups of doctors to monitor the quality and cost of health care administered under federally funded programs.

Opponents of PSRO had predicted a major battle, but no one spoke against the recommendation to opt for amendment rather than repeal. Dr. William Hildebrand, chairman of the AMA's Council on Medical Services, urged acceptance of the conference committee's report. Delegates suspended their rules and quickly approved the resolution.

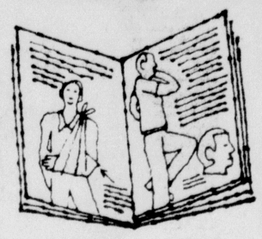

After the vote, Dr. John R. Schenken, a Nebraska delegate, asked to go on record as saying he was opposed. He said he did not want to be "a party to tyranny."

The influential conference committee in effect sided with the AMA Board of Trustees, which nas taken the position that PSRO is something physicians are going to have to learn to live with, and against doctor groups which submitted resolutions demanding that the AMA press for repeal.

Many doctors feel PSRO infringes upon their professional freedom and is a step in "turning the medical profession into a public utility."

Critics charged that making a physician answerable to a review organization of his peers would detract from the quality of health care, strain the doctor-patient relationship, invade the privacy of both doctors and patients, and stifle innovative approaches to the practice of medicine.

FBI Bares Postcard Booby Trap Plot Against Supreme Court

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The FBI says it has intercepted nine booby-trapped post cards mailed to the justices of the Supreme Court last week but that preliminary tests indicate a substance purported to be nerve gas is not dangerous.

A group calling itself "Aliens for America" claimed credit for mailing the cards in an anonymous tape cassette received by United Press International Monday.

On the tape, a man speaking with a thick foreign accent said packets of a deadly nerve gas called "AA4S" had been concealed under the stamps on the cards and mailed to all nine justices as a prelude to a worldwide takeover.

An FBI spokesman confirmed that the post cards had actually been mailed to the justices from some point on the west coast. He said small packets were found under each postage stamp, but that none of the cards reached the justices because the bulky stamps could not be canceled by machines.

"An initial (laboratory) examination indicated they did not contain any noxious substance or nerve gas as alleged in the cassettes," the spokesman said. The FBI declined to identify the substance.

The tape, which was turned over to the FBI, said the post cards had been mailed June 16, and that "each post card shows the Palm Springs home of entertainer Bob Hope and reads: 'It is justices of your greatness that made this nation so great. Respectfully, Bob Hope.'"

The voice also said time capsules containing the gas had been planted in large cities all over the world to back up the group's ultimatum for the major nations to surrender to a new "world government." He claimed that there would be a demonstration on July 5 to show the aliens "can exterminate mankind any time we please.".

Among the cities mentioned were Denver, New York, and Miami Beach; Ottawa, Canada; London, Paris; Hamburg, West Germany and Leipzig, East Germany; Leningrad, Novosibirsk, Moscow, and Vladivostok in the Soviet Union; Osaka and Tokyo, Japan; Hong Kong; and Canberra, Australia.

The tape said 10 grams of the deadly gas had been planted in each city, timed to be released between August and September of this year.

The FBI spokesman said, "the nine post cards referred to in the cassette were recovered through cooperative effort of the U.S. Postal Service and the FBI.

The FBI said several persons in Washington had received similar or identical cassettes.

Vice President's House Gains

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has passed a resolution to establish an official residence for the vice president.

Under the measure approved yesterday, Vice President Gerald R. Ford would be able to move into an 81-year-old house on grounds of the Naval Observatory in northwest Washington. It is occupied now by the chief of naval operations.

The Secret Service has estimated that modernizing and refurbishing will cost the government $760,000.

Mayors Seek Funds To Curb Inflation

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The nation's mayors urged the administration yesterday to take money from the defense budget and channel it to revenue sharing programs to help city governments hurt by inflation.

The mayors, winding up their annual meeting, urged Congress to make reenactment of the federal revenue sharing program, due to expire at the end of 1976, its first order of business next year.

The U.S. Conference of Mayors passed a resolution calling on Congress and the President to "transfer all military spending not needed to maintain an adequate level of military preparedness to those programs which will adequately fulfill the essential needs of the people."

They offered no definition of "adequate" in either field, nor of who should make such a judgment.

The mayors complained that President Nixon is cutting back requests for funds in domestic programs even while he proposes a 16 per cent increase in defense spending.

The mayors said the costs of basic municipal services, — such as fire and police protection, mass transit and sanitation —are skyrocketing as inflation drives up prices and newly militant municipal workers demand higher salaries. The costs "are increasing at alarming rates, and revenue-sharing dollars are rapidly being dissipated by this unprecedented inflation," they said.

Economic growth should be fostered by "federal expenditures on critical domestic needs, rather than additional expenditures for military purposes they said.

San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto, who was elected president of the conference yesterday, sounded the same theme, saying the cities "ask reparations for years of national neglect."

"Like orphan children, our cities still beg in our statehouses and in the nation's capital for help, while one Arab nation is promised unhesitatingly $100 million in economic aid, and Israel and Egypt are offered untold millions in nuclear capability."

Alioto said Nixon's budget had "cut the heart out of our social programs for the city." But he urged the mayors to "seek out a domestic detente with the Nixon administration and form new bonds of cooperative effort with the nation's governors" to get the money they need.

Firefighting Plane Crash Kills Two

SAFFORD, Ariz. (UPI) — A slurry bomber on a fire supression mission crashed today west of here, killing the pilot and co-pilot, a Coronado National Forest official said.

Douglas Salyer, forest information officer, said the identities of the victims would be withheld pending notification of next of kin.

Salyer said all slurry operations on fires in the national forest were temporarily halted and that a team of forest service officials would attempt to determine the cause of the accident.

The crash was the second in Arizona so far this year involving a fire retardant aircraft. A slurry bomber crashed June 12 about 30 miles south of Winslow, killing both crew members aboard.

Today's crash occurred in the Graham mountains, Salyer said. He declined to comment on the type of aircraft involved, but said there were four other slurry bombers flying missions over Coronado National Forest fires since dawn today.

New Zone Status For Cotati Lot

Agricultural zoning for a 12-acre lot at 8710 Cypress Avenue has been approved by the Cotati City Council.

The property, owned by August Lovmark, had been zoned in 1967 for duplex residences, and the owner asked the city to zone it for single-family residences on 10,000-square-foot lots.

The agricultural zoning granted Tuesday will still allow residential development, according to planning aide Mark Thysen, although each house will require a one-acre (43,560 square feet) lot.

The zone change came after Lovmark announced plans to divide the 12 acres into 41 lots for single-family tract homes.

Nearby residents opposed his plans, protesting that such high density development would cause urbanization problems in what is now a rural area of Cotati.

The council also heard citizen complaints about what they termed poor maintenance at Kotate Park in the Holiday Park subdivision, and awarded a $31,423 contract to the Charles B. Smith construction firm of Novato for sidewalks, curbs and street resurfacing along West Sierra Avenue.

Reports Contain Creative Writing

A Boston-based insurance company cites some instances in health related reports from its files. From an orthopedist, for instance: "Patient is reasonably comfortable as long as he is not required to do any work of any kind. Who wouldn't be?" And from a policy holder's claim: "Either Mr. Brown's brakes or brains were defective."

Mayor's Daughter In Battle With Police

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Phyllis Bradley, 29, daughter of Los Angeles Mayor Tom Bradley, had to be manacled hand and foot following her resistance to arrest for a minor traffic violation yesterday, it was disclosed today.

A police report said Miss Bradley kicked one officer in the chest, scratched another on the arm and scuffled with several others after refusing to get out of her car for 30 minutes.

The mayor's daughter was arrested and taken to police headquarters. She was later released into the custody of the mayor's executive assistant, Ezunial Burts, after she agreed to sign a traffic citation.

Police said the incident began when Miss Bradley allegedly made an illegal right turn at a downtown intersection. A motorcycle officer stopped her but Miss Bradley refused to roll down her car window. Instead she sped off and three patrol cars were called to pursue her.

During the chase, officers said she ran a traffic signal and failed to heed a patrol car behind her which had its red lights flashing and siren on.

When she finally pulled over, she stayed in the car for half an hour and when she got out began the scuffle which led to her being handcuffed and her legs shackled.

Miss Bradley was arrested Sept. 17, 1972, by officers who stopped her car and found a small amount of marijuana in her possession. She was fined $50 and placed on six months probation on a guilty plea to a charge of being under the influence of a drug.

Senators Drop Tax Cut Drive

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A group of liberal senators led by Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., have given up for the time being at least their effort to push a tax cut through Congress.

They abandoned their attempt, which also included ending the oil depletion allowance, yesterday after they failed in repeated tries to bring it to a Senate vote.

The Senate then passed, 58 to 37, an amendment-free bill to increase the national debt to $495 billion through next March 31.

Red Ink Budget Eyed By BART

OAKLAND (UPI) — A $51 million budget, including a deficit of $12.35 million, went before the Bay Area Rapid Transit District today for approval.

Officials of the district hope new financing through a sales tax levy will cover the operations shortage.

It was disclosed that Assistant General Manager L. Kimball, is leaving his job. The resignation was "entirely voluntary" and Kimball said he hopes to be employed by another transit project.

SONOMA VINEYARDS, ORCHARDS CAN BE SAVED FROM DEVELOPMENT

Everyone is familiar with the sad story of the Santa Clara Valley: a beautiful garden of orchards and vineyards uprooted to make way for undistinguished housing tracts.

In retrospect it would have taken more than "good planning" to preserve the orchards and vineyards. It would have taken a strong commitment by someone to keep the agricultural units economically viable.

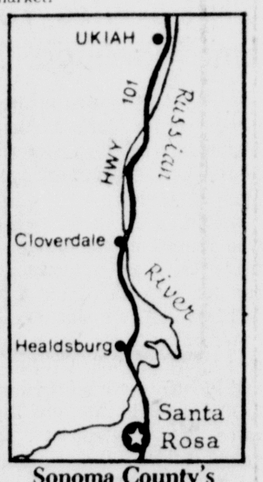

The orchardists often sold because they wished to retire, and for possible buyers the future of agricultural commodity and wine grape prices was not as rosy as it is today.

Consequently, the old-timers reluctantly sold their family enterprises to housing developers.

There is a surprisingly similar valley north of Marin on 101. The Russian River Valley extending from Healdsburg to beyond the Northern Sonoma County line is a veritable wonderland of fine varietal grapes and wineries large and small. Simi, Pedroncelli, Trentadue, Sonoma Vintners and Souverain are but a few of these. The area is also noted for the world's finest prune and pear orchards.

What will keep these beautiful vineyards from eventually being bull-dozed away for development?

Economic viability first of all. This means among other things that when one of the "old-timers" wants to sell, there is someone there willing to take over and carry on the farming tradition — which isn't so bad because these properties yield a very satisfying profit in today's market.

Sonoma County's Russian River Valley is world famous for its vineyards and orchards.

If you are interested, Land Investors Research is particularly suited to help you acquire an agricultural land investment in the Russian River Valley. Through the efforts of our excellent field management staff, you can have all the benefits of agricultural land ownership — profits, tax shelter, equity build-up and inflation hedging — without the worries and cares of day-to-day farming.

We're not a high-pressure company, as the many Marinites who have done business with us will attest. So feel free to write or call for more information on Russian River Valley agricultural investment opportunities. We know you will enjoy exploring the subject and the area.

Several Plotted JFK Death, He Says

By PAT ANGLE

On Nov. 22, 1963 Rusty Rhodes was a 16-year-old journalism student in a Dallas high school.

Minutes after President John F. Kennedy was fatally shot on a Dallas street, Rhodes grabbed his tape recorder and rushed to the chaotic scene in the vicinity of the city's Dealy Plaza.

Despite the confusion and tight security measures, the teen-ager found he was able to move about quite freely, "probably because of my youth," and began questioning witnesses and recording their statements.

All in all, he talked to more than 100 persons who were in the area when the fateful shots were fired.

And for Rhodes that day in Dallas was the beginning of private, 11-year investigation into the death of the president, a search for facts which has become almost a full-time career.

Rhodes, a member of the Committee to Investigate Political Assassinations, a group of private citizens which maintains offices in Los Angeles, Dallas and San Francisco, will present his findings at 7 p.m. today in Olney Hall at the College of Marin. The committee hired the hall.

Like many others, he is convinced that "there were at least two weapons firing at John Kennedy." And he does not think Lee Harvey Oswald was actually an assassin.

RUSTY RHODES
Investigates assassination

Of the persons he interviewed right after the tragedy, Rhodes said about 90 of them told him that shots came from the "grassy knoll" in front of the Presidential limousine. Most of those he talked to did not think the rifle fire had come from the book depository building behind the car, the location from which Oswald is supposed to have fired.

"I interviewed seven men who were on top of the overpass (above the assassination scene) and all of them told me they saw a rifle barrel and a puff of smoke in the knoll area," the 27-year-old former college instructor told the Independent-Journal yesterday on a visit to San Rafael.

"Only one of those men was later interviewed by the Warren Commission and his testimony was discredited because, according to the commission, no one else had seen what he claimed to have seen. But I know there were six others."

He has studied almost all of the approximately 525 still photographs and films taken at the scene and said these confirm his theory. "The Orville Nix and the Zapruder films (two of the better known ones) show Kennedy's head propelled backwards, which indicates he was shot from in front rather than from behind."

And he said the films also show that those persons who had taken cover by falling to the ground when they heard the shots "turned and rushed to the knoll area after they got up off the ground."

Oswald was part of the conspiracy but probably did not actually fire the rifle, Rhodes believes. Shortly after his arrest, Oswald was given a paraffin test to determine if he recently had fired a gun, he said.

"Dallas Police Chief Jess Curry got on television and said that the results of the test weren't in yet, but that he thought it would be positive, showing that Oswald had fired the gun. And that was the last that was said about it.

"I had to search through the Dallas Hall of Records but I finally found the test results and they were negative," Rhodes said.

By comparing films and still photographs, he said he has been able to determine that Oswald was not at the window from which he is supposed to have fire two seconds before the shooting began and six seconds after the shots stopped.

"By cross-referencing the films and the stills, it's possible to tell exactly when various photos of that window were taken because things moved so fast," he explained.

Rhodes has taken time out from the investigation to attend college, teach for two semesters at Santa Monica City College and spend a year working for the State Senate Education Committee to expand courses in contemporary political history in the state's colleges.

But during most of the intervening years he has "lived single-mindedly, with a single purpose." To support himself, he has written articles on the subject, done research and investigation for various authors working on the subject and lectured, chiefly on college campuses.

He worked on the recent film, "Executive Action," about the president's assassination and currently is director of research for an upcoming film, "Sirhan Sirhan," which purports to show that more than one person killed Robert Kennedy.

Rhodes believes the Warren Commission which investigated the killing of the president was misled because it relied on the FBI, the Dallas police and the Secret Service for almost all of its information. "The commission simply did not get all the facts and was the victim of a coverup by those who did not want the truth known," he said. "Evidence presented to the commission was concealed or altered."

He is convinced that "elements of" the oil industry and the Central Intelligence Agency conspired to kill John Kennedy and will explain his reasons for that belief in tonight's lecture.

Why has Rhodes stubbornly pursued his investigation in the face of official apathy and personal frustration? "Because my rights as a citizen have been violated and the country I live in has been threatened by the events of the last 10 years."

He thinks that Watergate and all its revelations have resulted in a "newfound political sophistication" which will make "the average citizens demand answers, demand to know who altered the destiny of this country by killing the Kennedys."

Consequently he and other proponents of the conspiracy theory plan to travel to Washington in November to try to persuade the Senate to launch a full-scale investigation of the assassination.

"I think the time is right because citizens now know that coverups, domestic spying and intelligence operations are part of the government process," Rhodes Said.

'Fly Me' Ads Draw Criticism

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Kelly Rueck, president of the Association of Flight Attendants, says some airline advertisements appear to be "sexoriented" and degrading to women and should be halted.

Miss Rueck, head of the group representing 20,000 flight attendants on 20 U.S. airlines, specifically objected to ads by National and Continental.

"If sex-oriented promotions are designed to lure passengers by suggesting they will get anything more than safe, courteous service, the airlines are not being honest with the public," she said.

Quentin Convict Slightly Injured In Stab Fracas

A San Quentin inmate, classified as being one of the more difficult prisoners, yesterday reported to an officer that he had been stabbed in the chest.

Richard Allsup, 24, serving time for first degree robbery from San Bernardino County, was treated at the prison hospital for a superficial wound in his chest.

He said he had been attacked during the breakfast movement of men about 8:30 a.m. but he did not report the incident until 10:45 a.m.

Prison officials found no weapon and had no suspects.

In another disturbance yesterday at the prison, a guard fired a warning shot to break up a fight between two men in lower yard at 1:30 p.m.

The two stopped fighting and ran into a large crowd of convicts and were not apprehended, officials said.

One-Car Crash Hurts Contra Costa Woman

Lynne McHugh, 20, of Pleasant Hill was reported in satisfactory condition today at Marin General Hospital with internal injuries suffered in a single-car crash on Shoreline Highway south of Olema.

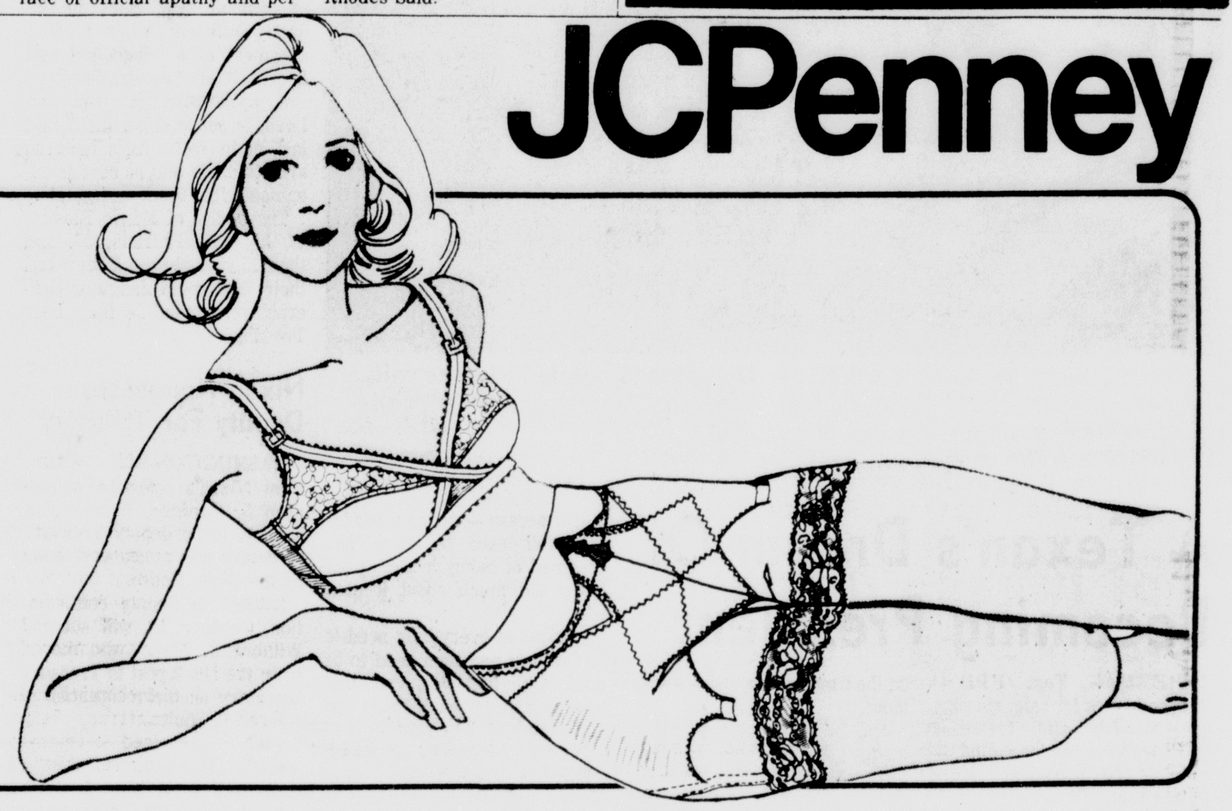

The Highway Patrol said Miss McHugh was a passenger in a northbound car driven by her sister, Susan McHugh, 26, of San Francisco, when it ran off the road. Officers had no further details of the accident.

HIS SLOGAN — J. W. Burdell, a sharecropper, with help of his wife, Tony, posts a campaign sign outside his Sherman, Tex., home. He wants to become what he calls "the first working man's president."

(UPI Telephoto)

A Texan's Dream Of Becoming President

SHERMAN, Tex. (UPI) — "Three horses for sale, six pigs, one seeder and fertilizer spreader. Reason for selling — running for President of the United States."

J. W. Burdell, who has spent most of his 50 years as a sharecropper, field hand, truck driver, roughneck, hitchhiker, yard man, fry cook and welder, has run that classified ad in the local newspaper.

"The world is getting into a heck of a shape," said the thin, 135-pound candidate. "I want to be the first working man's president."

And in the front yard of his modest frame home in North Texas about 15 miles from the Oklahoma border is a sign that reads: "You'll Get Well With J. W. Burdell."

Burdell never has held elective office but he said he was among the runners-up in the race this year for captain of his four-man bowling team.

"The way I'm figuring on getting campaign money is through rallies and each individual person — dollar a head."

Burdell said he often has dreamed of being president but never did much about it until now.

"Prices of everything need to be lowered and men need to be paid a living wage so that women can get back home and raise the kids," he said.

As for the energy shortage: "There's enough gas and oil in Texas and Oklahoma alone to supply energy for the entire United States."

Burdell is employed as a welder at a Sherman industrial plant and in his spare time mows yards and takes care of his horses, cows and pigs.

The slow-drawling Texas considers himself a "common ordinary man" who "doesn't know anything about politics. All I know is just common horse sense."

He has begun writing to the various states as a first step toward getting his name on the ballot in 1976.

"Lots of folks around here think I'm just kidding. They say that somebody needs to run, but they don't want to run themselves. Well, I'm gonna run myself.

"I volunteered to fight for my country in 1942, and I'm volunteerin' to fight for my country now."

Asked about Watergate and its effect on the campaign, he said: "I don't know anything about it. I wasn't there, but I hope it quietens down by the time I get there."

No Clues In Bay Slayings

SAN LEANDRO (AP) — Police say they have been unable to turn up any clues to the highly efficient killer of four members of a "congenial and friendly" San Leandro family.

A spokesman for the San Leandro police department said last night there have been no arrests made and no new developments into the investigation.

Nixon Nominates Deputy For Treasury

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's selection of Stephen S. Gardner, Philadelphia banker, to be deputy Treasury secretary was announced today by the White House.

Subject to Senate confirmation, Gardner, 52, will succeed William E. Simon who moved from the No. 2 post to Treasury secretary on the resignation of George P. Shultz.

Banks Win Expansion Freedoms

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court has expanded the freedom of banks under heavy state regulation to acquire smaller banks without fear of federal antitrust action.

The court yesterday upheld, 5-to-3, the acquisition of the Washington Trust Bank in Spokane, the ninth largest in the state, by the National Bank of Commerce of Seattle, the second largest.

Justice Lewis F. Powell said state laws severely restricting opening new branch banks was the key which permitted the acquisition. He said such laws made it unlikely that the National Bank of Commerce (NBC) could enter the Spokane market as a competitor, as the federal government had contended in seeking to block the acquisition.

Powell also held that in examining antitrust implications of bank mergers or acquisitions the government must look at the specific market involved and not the statewide status of a bank. Although NBC was the second largest bank in the state, it had no offices east of the Cascade Mountains and was not involved in the Spokane market.

In a companion case, Powell said a district court should reconsider the facts in a merger of the Connecticut National Bank in Bridgeport and the First New Haven National Bank. The lower court had concluded the relevant geographic market for antitrust purposes was the whole state of Connecticut.

On remand, the lower court presumably will have to decide if the merger would be anticompetitive in the specific Bridgeport and New Haven markets.

The two decisions give banks a special status in antitrust law because of restrictions which are applied by federal and state banking laws.

"We hold that in applying the potential competition doctrine to commercial banking, courts must take into account the extensive federal and state regulation of banks, particularly the legal restraints on unique entry to this kind of commerce," the opinion said.

A Quentin Inmate Is Captured

An escaped San Quentin convict, who had numerous prison visits from Symbionese Liberation Army member William Harris, was back in prison today after being captured in Calaveras County.

Harris came to see James D. Garske many times during the period between May 1973 and January 1974, according to William D. Nyberg, San Quentin information officer. There were no more visits after Patricia Hearst was kidnapped by the SLA in February.

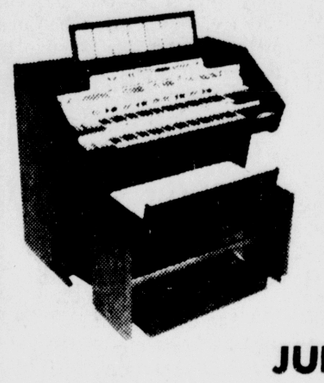

Garske was arrested late Tuesday night in an isolated cabin in the Sierra foothills. Federal Bureau of Investigation agents and Calaveras County deputies, who made the arrest, said there was no indication that Harris, his wife, Emily, or Miss Hearst had been in the cabin.

Garske, who was convicted in 1970 of assault with a deadly weapon and forgery in Los Angeles, was transferred to San Quentin in September 1972.

On May 17 of this year he was released to participate in a work furlough program in San Francisco but he walked away from that assignment on May 19.

He had been due for parole in October.

Airline, Policewoman Foil $300,000 Extortion Plot

SYDNEY (UPI) — A trap featuring a tall, blonde policewoman posing as a stewardess foiled a $300,000 extortion plot against Qantas Airways, police said today.

The events unfolded Tuesday when a man claiming to be a member of the Black September guerrilla group telephoned the Australian national airline's security chief, Gordon Fraser, saying he would blow up two Qantas planes if he were not given a ransom.

"Listen to me... listen to me... you must get 200,000 (Australian) dollars for me within 10 hours otherwise I will blow up two bloody planes," the man reportedly told Fraser.

"We are Black September... I have a bomb... you are not dealing with kids now... listen to me... you have 10 hours only."

(The $200,000 Australian is equivalent to $300,000 U.S.)

Fraser said he received another call yesterday from the man, saying he wanted the money dropped off by a Qantas stewardess.

"We had reason to believe the man would be dangerous," Fraser said. "We called in Policewoman Miller from her day off and dressed her in a stewardess uniform."

Policewoman Miller, wearing a Qantas outfit, handed a bag of money over to the man yesterday at the rendezvous spot, a butcher shop in the Sydney suburb of Drummoyne, police said.

A squad of detectives, some dressed as vagrants, was waiting nearby and arrested the man when he accepted the money, according to police.

Policewoman Miller, who had previously played undercover roles, was described as one of the best women pistol shots on the force.

The suspect, identified as 20-year-old Phillip Tasioulas, a Greek immigrant, was charged today with demanding money from the airline through menace and with intent to steal.

He was held without bail pending a hearing July 5.

In May, 1971, Qantas paid $750,000 in response to a bomb threat.

That ransom was paid to a "Mr. Brown" after he had threatened to blow up an inflight Qantas Boeing 707 with an altimeter bomb set to explode if the plane descended below a certain level.

Two men were arrested three months after the extortion demand and received 15 years in jail. Most of the money was recovered.

Price Of Gold Takes A Plunge

BRUSSELS (UPI) — The price of gold plunged $10 an ounce in little more than a day today to $140 in London trading. The U.S. dollar rallied, helped by the closure of a West German bank.

The drop brought gold's price to its lowest level since January. London dealers said the fall came as a result of a general unwinding of investment positions when it became apparent that it was going to remain below the $150 level, at least for the time being.

They said prospects of an even further fall in the price held off speculative new investment demands.

An Emotional Plea By Inmate

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — San Quentin Prison inmate Hugo Pinell, 29, made an emotional address to federal court yesterday, complaining that he has not received justice in his long conflict with the law.

"I don't look for justice any more," Pinell told U.S. District Judge Alfonso Zirpoli, who is hearing charges that San Quentin Prison's Adjustment Center for dangerous prisoners is unconstitutional.

Pinell, a convicted rapist, said he has been "brutalized" in prison and is "completely frustrated" after 10 years of it. He said he expects to spend the rest of his life there.

Police Dispute Over Tipsters Halts Dope Raids

DETROIT (UPI) — Detroit police narcotics officers have refused to raid dope pads this month in a three-week-old protest over a new department policy for dealing with drug informants.

The raids stopped after Commander George Bennett, head of the Central Narcotics Section, ordered all precinct narcotics units officers to provide him with a personal history and photograph of each informant.

Bennett also stopped providing money to the 13 precinct narcotics units to pay informants until the histories are produced.

Film Strike Voted

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Preliminary tally of ballots from members of the Screen Actors Guild indicated today that almost 90 per cent of the membership favored a strike that would close down movie and television production, the union announced.

RAIN CLOUDS OVER NORTHWEST

Larkspur, Retirement Home Alter Tax Pact

The Larkspur City Council last night unanimously approved an agreement with the Tamalpais retirement residence which protects the city's tax income from the residence should it retain tax exempt status.

The $10.5 million retirement center has been given a "welfare tax exemption" by the county assessor and has agreed to pay the city an "in lieu" sum each year equal to what the city would have received in taxes.

But unlike a previous plan hammered out in secret by the city council, the agreement does not include a waiver of a city requirement that the retirement residence remain on the tax rolls.

The revised agreement was drafted after county supervisors and representatives of other affected taxing agencies scored the council for considering a waiver of its tax requirement of the center.

The long-standing requirement was included in an original permit for the center when it was under construction atop Bon Air Hill. Other agencies view it as a lever to help them fight the tax exemption.

The 13 taxing agencies, including three school districts, stand to lose $260,000 annually if the center remains tax exempt and they have promised to appeal the exemption to the state Board of Equalization.

City Mgr. Harlan Barry said the revised agreement has been signed by representatives of the Tamalpais.

Patrol School's Building Goes $2.2 Million In Red

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The price tag for the $11.1 million new California Highway Patrol Academy in Bryte has been increased by $2.2 million because of soaring construction costs, according to state Architect John Worsley.

Four months ago, Worsley pointed out yesterday, the deficit was estimated at only $750,000 for the academy now under construction.

"We were good until last August. After that everything went haywire," because of fast-trising construction costs, said Worsley, who was scheduled to report to the state Board of Control today on the academy.

Costs are going up so much, he said, the standard price indexes used by the building industry have become useless.

Worsley said the cost increase on the academy was surprisingly low because of tight controls and cutbacks in the scope of the job.

He said the $2.2 million represented a 20 per cent increase over the four years the project has been underway.

Kerner Lawyers Ask For Mercy

CHICAGO (UPI) — Former Gov. Otto Kerner's lawyers pleaded in federal court yesterday for suspension of Kerner's "unduly harsh and unjust" three-year prison sentence.

The motion cited the death of Kerner's wife last year, and the 65-year-old former governor's recent heart attack as part of "a totality of circumstances strongly calling out and militating against confinement."

Kerner was convicted in February, 1973, of mail fraud, income tax evasion and conspiracy in a racetrack stock bribery scheme undertaken while he was governor.

Another Building Union Joins Carpenter Strike

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Another union joined the carpenters yesterday in a strike against contractors engaged in heavy construction projects in 46 Northern California counties.

The second union is the Hod Carriers, Building and Construction Laborers Union, whose contract with the Associated General Contractors expired June 16, as did that of the Carpenters Union.

Negotiations are continuing but there was no report of progress.

Meanwhile, Carpenters Union members voted to accept a new contract with the Northern California Homebuilders Conference, an organization of homebuilding contractors.

That pact calls for a 14.5 per cent wage and benefit increase.

Upwards of 60,000 union members are affected by the strikes still in progress.

San Rafael, air quality yesterday:
Oxidants, clean air.
Nitrogen, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, clean air.
Smoke particles, clean air.
Other areas:
San Francisco, clean air.
San Jose, clean air.
Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources but the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

Fireworks, Parades Set For Tiburon

Two parades, a picnic, fireworks and a street dance Saturday will climax the Tiburon triple anniversary celebration this month.

According to celebration organizer, Dr. Charles McBane, the first parade will feature decorated bicycles, leaving Blackie's Pasture near the crossing of Trestle Glen and Tiburon boulevards at 1 p.m. and proceeding down the city's bike path to the downtown area. When they reach the boardwalk shopping center, prizes will be given for the best decorated bicycles.

At 2 p.m. a parade of floats, bands and marching groups will begin at Mar West Street and Tiburon Boulevard. The parade will move up Tiburon Boulevard to Beach Road, then to Main Street and then back to Tiburon Boulevard, finally ending at Reed School.

Appearing in this parade will be: Coast Guard and Navy bands, the Raccoon Straights Band, the Sonoma County Sheriff's Pipers Band, a replica of the Lyford-Dickey mansion built by the Marin Builders' Exchange, a replica of the horse Blackie who gave his name to Blackie's pasture, decorated boats from the Corinthian Island and San Francisco yacht clubs, a replica of an old railroad trestle built by the Belveron Gardens Homeowners Association, marching groups of Little Leaguers and the Tiburon Peninsula Club swim team members and the Wells Fargo Bank stage coach with Tiburon Mayor Albert Aramburu as a passenger.

At 4:30 p.m. there will be a community picnic at Reed School.

Then at 9 p.m. fireworks set off on a barge on the bay will summon residents back to the downtown area for a street dance on Main Street with the Marin Banjo Band playing.

Tiburon has been celebrating its tenth anniversary as a city, the 90th anniversary of the arrival of the railroads on the Tiburon Peninsula and the 100th anniversary of the opening of schools in the area.

Moscow Allows Credit Card Use

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Bank of America said today that its BankAmericard will become the first bank credit card accepted in the Soviet Union.

The bank said it completed an agreement with Intourist, the official Soviet travel agency, which permits BankAmericard usage in Moscow, Leningrad and 31 other Soviet cities.

The agreement allows the card to be used at hotels, restaurants, car rental agencies and for the purchase of airline, railroad, boat and theater tickets.

Soviet outlets are expected to begin honoring the card by late summer, a spokesman said.

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Mayor Jack B. Cummings of Redlands was named by Gov. Ronald Reagan yesterday to the Council on Intergovernmental Relations.

Gas Supply Cut To Development

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — About 1,100 occupants of a low-income housing development face up to two weeks of apartment living without cooking and heating gas because of leaks.

Without their normal natural gas supplies, they cannot cook hot food or heat water in their apartments.

San Diego Gas & Electric Co. shut off the gas to the 268-unit Bay Vista Methodist Heights apartment complex Tuesday. A utility spokesman said 20 gas leaks were found on private property, and the housing managers had the responsibility of repair.

New Legal Tangles In News Source Dispute

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A federal appeals judge lifted a gag order yesterday in the case of a radio executive jailed for refusing to surrender a Patricia Hearst tape. In a separate case, a grand jury warned a reporter he may face yet another jail sentence for concealing news sources.

The county grand jury ordered William Farr, Los Angeles Times Court reporter, to show cause today why he should not be held in contempt for refusing to answer questions.

Farr has already served 46 days behind bars for refusing to name the attorneys who broke a judge's gag order by giving Farr information during the 1970 Charles Manson family trial.

That jailing was by the trial judge and Farr is in a continuing legal struggle to avoid being returned to jail in that case. The grand jury action opened a new front, separate from Farr's previous battle.

Meanwhile, U.S. District Court of Appeals Judge Shirley Hufstedler set aside a gag order imposed in the case of Will Lewis, general manager of radio station KPFK.

Lewis was jailed eight days ago for refusing to give the FBI or a federal grand jury the original of a tape recording left behind the station containing statements by Miss Hearst and two other Symbionese Liberation Army fugitives.

Lewis surrendered copies of the tape, but maintained that the original is source material, and to give it up would violate his right to keep news sources confidential and have a "chilling effect" on the station's access to news.

U.S. District court Judge A. Andrew Hauk forbade everyone connected with the Lewis case from making any public statement or talking to newsmen about it.

Lewis' attorney said Judge Hufstedler told him and an assistant U.S. attorney at a hearing yesterday that the order was "vague and overly broad." She set it aside until it can be reviewed by a three-judge panel July 8.

Lewis is being held on an indeterminate sentence, until he either surrenders the material or the grand jury is dissolved.

He is being held in the federal penitentiary on Terminal Island. His lawyer described the conditions as close to solitary confinement. He said Lewis is held in a 5-by-7 foot cell, is allowed out of it for only an hour a day to exercise, cannot visit the library or commissary and cannot take part in activities open to other prisoners.

Bus, Rail Use Rises, State Aide Reports

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The number of Californians using bus and rail public transit has increased 23 per cent in the past year, according to the state Department of Transportation.

H. L. Parrish, chief of the department's Division of Mass Transportation, yesterday attributed the increase to reduced fares, better service, expanded routes and the higher cost of operating a car.

Parrish said the 23 per cent hike emerged from a survey of 28 public transit operators throughout the state.

About 60 per cent of the increase occurred in the Los Angeles area, where the Southern California Rapid Transit District reduced fares to a flat 25 cents and other improvements were made, Parrish said.

He said the survey showed the current ridership on the Bay Area Rapid Transit system at more than 1.5 million passengers a month, "higher than the estimates for this state of system development."

Nixon NATO, Soviet Talks Worry Peking

HONG KONG (UPI) — China is concerned over President Nixon's trip to the Soviet Union, apparently fearful that the visit will ease East-West tensions at Peking's expense.

Diplomatic sources observe that any improvement in relations between the Soviet Union and the United States or between Moscow and NATO does not augur well for China.

The Chinese feel that if tension in Europe is lessened, the Soviet Union will have an opportunity to bring more pressure to bear along the disputed Sino-Soviet border, where Peking claims more than a million Soviet troops already are massed.

While China has made no public comment on the Nixon visit, Chinese officials have expressed deep concern in private talks with diplomats based in Peking and visitors to the capital.

According to Peking-based diplomatic sources, the only bright spot the Chinese see is the fact that Nixon has gone to Moscow with a new agreement that strengthens the unity of NATO.

Publicly, the Chinese scoff at the idea of American-Soviet detente, asserting that this is only a facade aimed at covering up the "contention for global hegemony" between the two "superpowers."

"The two superpowers talk superficially about detente and sometimes reach agreement on some things," a recent article in the Chinese Communist-party newspaper People's Daily said.

"But at the bottom their focus is on contention. The agreements are temporary; the detente is a deceit. The contention is absolute and irreconcilable."

One Western diplomat who has sat in on meetings with Communist party Chairman Mao Tse-tung and Premier Chou En-lai when such matters were discussed privately says, however, that "this is purely wishful thinking on the part of the Chinese."

"That's the only public posture they can really take," he added. "Privately, they are plenty worried."

Joseph Murray Lynch, 39, of 24 Skylark Road, Larkspur, arrested April 12 in Sausalito; given 15 days in jail, suspended, and two years' probation, fined $315 and ordered to attend the court's drunken drivers' school.

Presbyterians Back Impeachment Use

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The policy-making body of the United Presbyterian Church has endorsed the use of the impeachment process "as a just means of resolving for the nation the current governmental crisis (Watergate)."

The 1,200-word impeachment statement approved overwhelmingly by the 725 commissioners at the conclusion of the 10-day 186th General Assembly did not refer to President Nixon by name.

Where do you want the freezer in your new Amana refrigerator...

Amana gives you a choice

If you want your zero degree freezer on the side, there's the Amana Side-by-Side. Or you can have it on the top or the bottom. They're all Free-O-Frost in both the refrigerator and freezer.

And every Amana has two independent temperature controls, one for the freezer, one for the refrigerator. There's a "refrigerator-within-a-refrigerator" that keeps meat fresh up to twice as long as an ordinary meat keeper. And a high-humidity compartment that keeps vegetables fresh up to three weeks.

Come and look at the choices Amana has for you. Then choose the one you want from gold, avocado, coppertone or white.

SIX-YEAR-old Gregg Jahnke is urged to take an interest in a toy by teacher Betsy Adler (left). Autistic children typically are extremely withdrawn, do not communicate and often sit rocking and spinning all day. Their intelligence is normal, and often they are gifted, but it takes an extreme amount of patient work on an individual basis to reach such a child and elicit response. Teacher Robert Stewart (right) encourages autistic Tom O'Donnell, 15, to use his hands to become interested in outside objects and to communicate. He is one of three in the new Family Tree program in Novato for autistic children.

HELP'S HARD TO FIND

Novato Center Teaches Autistic

By DOROTHY NEWELL

Schools turn autistic children away because they are extremely difficult to educate. Residential centers turn them away because they are hard to manage.

Autistic children cannot use language to communicate — they can't relate to other people. And they must even be taught to play.

This week has been designated as National Autistic Week by Lloyd Nolan, national chairman.

Locally, a new program called the Family Tree has been opened at the First Baptist Church in Novato in which three autistic children are being taught to play with toys, dress themselves, swim, ride a bike and learn, according to Linda L. Remy of San Anselmo, program director.

Careful consideration is given to their individual dietary needs, since allergies and vitamin deficiencies seem to aggravate autistic behavior. The children seem to lack vitamins B-6 and vitamin B-3, Mrs. Remy said.

THE PROGRAM, open since May 20, is held from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. every day at the church and is the "best in the country," according to Mrs. Remy. She said that experienced people working with the children include Marla Cope of San Francisco, nutritionist; Chris Flume of Sausalito, teacher; Linda Sawyer of Mill Valley, volunteer coordinator; Jan Snyder of Oakland, parent-teacher coordinator; Robert Stewart of San Rafael, teacher; Claudia Vincent of Novato, secretary; and Betsy Adler, a teacher.

Ninety per cent of autistic children are in state hospitals without teaching because they cannot communicate with anyone. And there is no federal money for their special needs. Marin County now has a contract with the Family Tree to provide services to Marin autistic children. Parental contributions will be based on a sliding scale, and income may also be expected through insurance billings and donations, Mrs. Remy said.

Establishing the first of a planned series of satellite homes is the second goal. As a major adjunct to the day treatment program, such homes will provide intensive, long term therapeutic residential care for six children who require the service. The homes will also be utilized on a space available basis to provide respite, vacations and perhaps day care, Mrs. Remy said, adding that the satellite home program is expected to be underway by the end of this year.

The third goal is to form a small, highly specialized nonprofit medical group staffed by advisory physicians.

AS AN alternative to institutional living, the Family Tree can provide intensive day treatment, medical care, parent education and residential placement, which would be more beneficial to autistic children and their families, Mrs. Remy continued.

The Family Tree program is based on certain basic assumptions. The autistic disorder is believed to be of biological and organic rather than parental genesis. The exact nature of the physiological cause is not known, and most children with the disorder will probably always require some degree of lifetime assistance.

The children now at the Family Tree are Tom, 15, and Terry O'Donnell, 18, sons of Mr. and Mrs. James O'Donnell, and Gregg Jahnke, 6, the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Jahnke. The O'Donnell sons are also blind.

The Family Tree will hold an open house from 1 to 5 p.m., Saturday, at the church in Novato.

Marinite Winner Of Amelia Earhart Award

Gail Kendall of San Rafael has won a $3,000 Amelia Earhart Fellowship Award from Zonta International.

The Earhart Fellowships, given to women for graduate work in aerospace science by the service organization of executive women, went to 16 women scientists from seven countries.

Miss Kendall is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd W. Kendall of San Rafael. A graduate of Lowell High School in San Francisco, she received the bachelor of science degree in mechanical engineering last June, completing the course in three years with an almost straight A average. Last June she became the first woman to receive the Bechtel Achievement Award at U.C. commencement. She also was the first woman to serve as president of the mechanical engineering society, Pi Tau Sigma, at Berkeley.

Announcement of the internations fellowship awards was made at the Zonta International convention held this week in Boston, Mass. A second Bay Area winner was Alta Sharon Walker of Menlo Park.

Hub Woman Elected President Of Caucus

Mimi Beall of San Anselmo has been elected president of the National Women's Political Caucus-Marin.

Purpose of the caucus is to educate women to their roles in politics, encourage support for women's issues and to endorse and support male and female candidates.

Mrs. Beall has been a member since the caucus was formed one year ago. The Marin caucus with 150 members is the largest affiliate in California of the NWPC. All Marin women are eligible to join.

A native of San Jose, Costa Rica, Mrs. Beall has lived in Marin for 12 years. She and her husband, Dennis, a graphic artist and associate professor of art at California State Universi-

GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

War Of The Sexes Rages On: Little League And Chauvinism

DEAR RAP:

I think the idea of girls playing Little League baseball is absolutely ridiculous. A girl's place is to act feminine, playing with dolls, etc.

As for ability, they can in no way match their skills with boys. They'll only get hurt and slow up the game.

If this "equality" keeps on getting out of hand, boys and men will be forced to sit on the sidelines, watching females fumble their once-male activities. And I mean in ALL fields, not just baseball.

It's time to call a halt. Agreed? — ANGRY MALE

DEAR MALE:

Not agreed! If a girl is up to Little League standards, she should be allowed a place on the team.

If a woman can handle a job efficiently, she should be considered for it. In "equality," all we females ask is the right of competition — not favoritism. — SUE

DEAR ANGRY:

So you're angry now. Think of all the years women were angry! Yes, it's time we called a halt to this silly battle of the sexes and rated everyone as persons.

And if you don't agree, many others do. Read on: — H.

RAP:

This is to "Champion Male Chauvenist" (who couldn't even spell it):

You asked for others' opinions about "keeping women in their place," which evidently to you is 10 steps behind, pregnant and barefoot. If those Japanese women are your kind, what are you doing in the U.S.?

Oink, oink to you! — LOVE US OR LEAVE US — ALONE

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

Champion Male Chauvenist cracked me up. I'll bet he's a henpecked husband who wouldn't dare spout off like that to his wife.

And when dreaming of his submissive Japanese fantasy women, he should give them credit for their intelligence. After all, the reason the average women would rather have beauty than brains is because the average man can see better than he can think! — MS. P.L.

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

If men are so superior, how come four-fifths of the kids on our school honor roll are girls? And how come our girls' intramural teams have beaten the boys at everything but football and basketball?

No, I'm not saying women are superior. We're better at some things than men are and men are better at others than we are. No one should be judged by sex (or race, color, religion, etc.), but by his or her personality and ability. — PEOPLE'S LIBERATIONIST

RAP:

I can't understand why men like "Chauvenist" are so fearful of women (and such bad spellers!) I guess the answer is equality only threatens insecure little males who need slaves to prove how great they wish they were. — TWENTIETH-CENTURY WOMAN

RAP:

Can a guy apologize for that "Male Chauvenist Chimp?" Most men aren't like him. My wife and I are equals —we share housework, children, responsibility, and we each have jobs we like. Chimp wouldn't last two minutes in our crowd. — CHUCK

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

My husband was just like that male chauvinist pig. Now I'm completely happy. I left him! — WISH I'D DONE IT 25 YEARS AGO

...And only one letter championed the "Chimp" — HELEN AND SUE

RAP:

I was thrilled to see the "Champ's" letter downing women's libbers. I agree, men are the smart ones, the dominant sex — it says so in the Bible. Women should stay home and cook and provide house comforts for their masters, striving always to make them happy. I think "Male Chauvenist" and I should get together as I'm a — 100 PERCENT FEMALE CHAUVINIST.

Got a problem? Or a subject for discussion, two-generation style? Direct your questions to either Sue or Helen Bottel — or both, if you want a combination mother-daughter answer — c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902.

San Luis Obispo To Be First Home

Cynthia Lynn Tornai of Novato and Fabian Michael Soukup of San Luis Obispo were married June 16 in the garden of the Alvarado Inn in Ignacio.

Cynthia is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Joseph Tornai of Novato, and the bridegroom's parents are Mrs. Lois Soukup of Healdsburg and Fabian Soukup of Lodi.

Janis Pellegrini of Novato was matron of honor, and best man was Bill Jensen of Tomales Bay.

Following a reception at the Alvarado Inn, the couple left on a wedding trip to Disneyland and San Simeon. They will live in San Luis Obispo.

Cynthia was graduated from San Marin High School and the College of Marin dental assisting program. She has been employed by dentists in San Rafael. The bride is the sister of Mark, Jeff and Diane Tornai of Novato and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Tornai of San Jose and Mrs. Charles Evanson of San Francisco.

Fabian was graduated from Healdsburg High School and California State Polytechnic University, where he is completing work toward a master's degree in animal science. He is employed by the San Luis Bay Inn in San Luis Obispo. The bridegroom is the brother of Robert Soukup of Healdsburg and Jaffran Wilson of Windsor.

Vows Are Said At Art Center

Cindy Kent and Raymond Taylor, both of San Rafael, were married in a ceremony at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross on June 15. After a wedding trip to Southern California, they will live in San Rafael.

Ricki Fields was the honor attendant for Cindy, and the bridesmaids were Carolyn Becker of Tiburon and Mel Fickbohm of San Rafael.

Dale Jacobs of Galt served as best man for Raymond, and the guests were seated by Larry Schultz and Dennis O'Brien, both of San Rafael.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kent of San Rafael, Cindy is a San Rafael High School graduate and is employed at Sears Roebuck in San Rafael.

She is the sister of Robert Kent of San Rafael and Dean Kent of Ross and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hayes of Newhall.

Raymond's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Taylor of San Rafael, and he is the brother of Mrs. Dennis O'Brien of San Rafael. Mrs. Paul Bissola, also of San Rafael, is his grandmother.

Raymond was graduated from San Rafael High School and the University of San Francisco. He is employed by Robert S. Urban in San Rafael.

BUDDHIST FESTIVAL — Kimono-clad dancers will swing and sway to the beat of the Japanese taiko drummer druing the annual Bon Odori and Bazaar to be held Sunday at the Buddhist Temple of Marin in Mill Valley.

Only One Ballot Measure Qualifies

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Of the 14 initiative drives conducted across California the past year only one — protection for the Stanislaus River — appears headed for the Nov. 5 ballot, state election officials reported this week.

The deadline for certifying signatures to qualify the measure with the Secretary of State is midnight today and preliminary tallies from counties show most will not even be close.

Those measures apparently doomed for this year include mandatory prison sentencing, an unicameral legislature, off-track betting and Nevada-style gambling, power plant restrictions and ban on the sale of explicit sex material to minors.

The measures must receive either 325,504 or 520,806 verified signatures of registered voters to qualify, depending on whether they amend state statutes or the constitution.

The Stanislaus River Protection Act of 1974 "looks like it's going to qualify and it's the only one for sure," said Karen Daniels, an aide to Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr.

County reports, she said, showed the measure had at least 346,000 signatures, some 11,000 more than the necessary 325,504. However, many could be thrown out in verification, she said.

The river initiative would include parts of the Stanislaus in the California Wild and Scenic Rivers System, thus prohibiting construction or operation of flood control projects that would diminish public use.

Petitions for only two other measures were submitted on the eve of the deadline, Miss Daniels reported.

Those were the mandatory prison sentence and nuclear power plant prohibitions.

The mandatory sentencing proposal, she said, received 24,879 signatures. It provides that persons convicted of selling heroin or using firearms in the commission of a crime would not be eligible for probation.

The measure is being spearheaded by Attorney General Evelle Younger and has the support of Gov. Ronald Reagan, whose wife, Nancy, is honorary chairwoman of the signature drive.

The power plant initiative received 21,107 signatures, she said. That measure would prohibit construction of nuclear power plants unless the federal government abolishes rule — which limits the government's liability.

Miss Daniels said the two measures, despite being headed for defeat in making the November ballot, "look like the strongest to qualify for the next statewide election" next year.

Four of the 14 initiatives pushed the past year already failed to meet April and May signature gathering deadlines. They included two measures to legalize marijuana, one to lower the legal drinking age to 18 and one concerning eminent domain.

The other apparent losers include:

Unicameral legislature; legalization of off-track and Nevada-style gambling; a ban on the sale of sex material to minors; expansion of the Public Utility Commission's power to regulate the oil industry; state fiscal policy changes; reduction in the number of signatures to qualify a new political party; and tax relief for dwellings.

Simon Warns Tax Cut No Panacea

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Treasury Secretary William E. Simon offered some election-year advice yesterday to Republican candidates: "A tax cut may appear to be good politics . . . but it is crummy economics."

The candid statement was part of an anti-inflation platform that Simon said GOP office-seekers should use this fall in telling the voters how Republicans plan to beat back the rising cost of living.

The Treasury Secretary made no mention of the administration's Watergate-related problems in his prepared remarks to a conference of Republican candidates. Instead, he stuck entirely to the equally troublesome political difficulties raised by the economy.

"The inflation problem has reached the crisis state and people are insisting that their governments take firm measures to stop it," Simon said.

He suggested a half-dozen points that Republican candidates should stress during their fall campaigns.

First, reject the ideas of "witch doctors" and "false prophets" who promise "instant cures to this fatal disease (inflation)." Such unreliable remedies include a tax cut which, according to Simon, would only aggravate inflation by boosting demand for the same amount of goods.

"Putting more money into the hands of consumers would not put more food on their table or more gasoline in their tank. A tax cut may appear to be good politics, tax cuts are always in great demand, but it is crummy economics," Simon said.

He conceded that even under the most optimistic conditions, inflation will only have slowed from its current 12 per cent rate to about 7.5 per cent by the end of 1974. "That's a horrendous situation," he admitted.

Nevertheless, candidates must stress that getting the rate lower "will take time, years of it," Simon said.

"There are no shortcuts, no acceptable quick solutions. Frequent and abrupt changes in policy are the worst policy of all."

Simon stressed a different anti-inflation remedy earlier yesterday in testimony to a House-Senate economic subcommittee.

Higher profits and more tax breaks for big business would provide a bigger incentive to invest in new manufacturing capacity and this, in turn, would help lick inflation-causing supply shortages, Simon said.

Plant Wins Nod Despite Conservers' Opposition

MERCED (AP) — Merced County Supervisors have approved a conditional use permit and environmental impact report which paves the way for a controversial $8 million tomato processing plant near the San Luis National Wildlife Refuge southwest of here.

The approval came Tuesday despite opposition from conservation groups and the State Department of Fish and Game, who charged the plant would have damaging effect on wildlife at the refuge.

A.E. Naylor, fish and game regional manager, told the board the proposal is "contrary to the environmental objectives of the state."

"The decision will be adverse to the fish and wildlife resources of the county and the state," he warned.

The plant, proposed by Tri-Valley Growers of Modesto, comes as close as 200 yards to the wildlife refuge, which serves as part of the Pacific Flyway.

DFG officials say that even with strict controls over waste disposal, the plant holds the potential for waterfowl botulism, which could kill hundreds of birds as they migrate each year.

Unions, Leaders Drop Boycott Fine Appeal

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Two unions and three of their officers have decided not to appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court the contempt citations issued against them in connection with secondary boycotts against the Independent-Journal in 1970.

The unions, San Francisco Typographical Union Local 21, which was involved in a long strike against the I-J, and the Brotherhood of Teamsters and Auto Truck Drivers Local No. 85, also of San Francisco, will now have to pay $10,000 fines to the federal government.

The citations, issued by U.S. District Court Judge William T. Sweigert in December 1970, stemmed from secondary boycotts against newspaper advertisers as well as distribution and delivery people during the strike.

Local 21 and its organizer, Don Abrams, Teamster Local 70 and its president, James R. Muniz and Teamsters Local 85 and a former officer, Timothy J. Richardson, were found guilty of criminal and civil contempt.

In addition, Local 21's vice president, John DeMartini, and the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Local 10 were found guilty only of civil contempt.

DeMartini does not plan to appeal his citation, his lawyer said, but Muniz, Teamsters Local 70, and the ILWU Local 10, still plan appeals to the Supreme Court.

In addition to the criminal fines, the unions must pay a $21,208 compensatory fine in the civil case.

The individual men were placed on probation.

Judge Sweigert's decision was upheld earlier this year by the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals.

A Buddist Festival To Be Sunday

Japanese food and dancing, plus demonstrations of bonsai and karate, will be featured at the annual Bon Odori and bazaar to be held in Mill Valley Sunday by the Buddhist Temple of Marin.

The event, open to the public, will be held from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. at the Buddhist Temple (old Brown's Hall) at 390 Miller Avenue.

Masao Segi of Tiburon, chairman of the bazaar, announced that the all-day program will include the sale of teriyaki chicken and sushi; various game booths including pachinko (Japanese pinball); bonsai demonstration by Ken Sugimoto of Palo Alto, president of the Peninsula Bonsi Club; karate demonstration by the Rev. Zuikei Taniguchi of Oakland, and doll making by Yoshi Kawai of San Rafael.

Fumi Shiro of Mill Valley is chairman of the Bon Odori, Japanese folk dancing in honor of deceased ancestors. The dancers, in native costumes, will be accompanied by Japanese drummers. Bon Odori insructor is Chizu Shiro of Corte Madera.

Chairman Segi said the proceeds from the bazaar will benefit the Buddhist Temple of Marin.

Turkey To Resume Poppy Growing

ISTANBUL (UPI) — Turkey will resume growing opium poppies this fall despite objections from the U.S. government, the newspaper Cumhuriyet said yesterday.

A government resolution authorizing opium poppy cultivation in three Turkish provinces will go into effect before July, the Istanbul newspaper said.

"Following the publication of the government resolution in the official gazette, poppy seeds will be distributed to peasants in Konya, Usak and Denizli (provinces)," Cumhuriyet said.

Salt On Highways Kills Sierra Pines

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Salt water used for winter de-icing of highways has damaged or killed thousands of pine, fair and cedar trees in the Lake Tahoe Basin, according to the U.S. Forest Service.

Rangers said yesterday the adverse effects of the salt have been noted at 300 sites.

Expletives Of A Truman Tape Are Untouched

NEW YORK (UPI) — Tape recordings of President Harry S. Truman were played yesterday, and the expletives were not deleted.

In the tapes, Truman labeled Nixon "a traitor to the United States," because "Nixon is a shifty-eyed goddamn liar and people know it, I can't figure out how he came so close to getting elected President in 1960."

Merle Miller, author of the book "Plain Speaking An Oral Interpretation of Harry S. Truman," played the tapes before a group of Democratic enthusiasts and donors at a luncheon.

The tapes served as the basis for Miller's best-selling book.

Defense Critic Likes One Unit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., a critic of numerous defense programs, has won a battle to keep one going in his home state.

Last October the Air Force announced plans to eliminate five Air National Guard units scattered around the country, including one at Truax Field, in Madison.

This spring Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger appeared before a committee chaired by Proxmire, and the senators lectured the cabinet officer on excessive defense spending.

But at the end of the public session, Proxmire took Schlesinger aside and urged him not to deactivate the 115th Fighter Interceptor Group at Truax, which he called "a fine outfit."

Hodgson Sworn As Envoy To Japan

Glen Turner In Race For Senate

GOLDENROD, Fla. (UPI) — Indicted businessman Glen Turner is running for the U.S. Senate. He launched his campaign yesterday, and acknowledged that in so doing he may be violating a gag rule imposed on him by a federal court.

"I know I'm putting my freedom on the line," said Turner, 38, who is awaiting a second trial on mail fraud charges. The first ended in a mistrial.

The son of a sharecropper who built a fortune with pyramid sales schemes said he would run as a Democrat for the Senate seat now held by Sen. Edward Gurney, R-Fla.

Partnership Connors, Soviet Film

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Chuck Connors said yesterday he is completing a one-hour television documentary filmed in Russia in partnership with the Soviet government.

Connors, who was invited to the Soviet Union last May by Communist Party Leader Leonid I. Brezhnev following his summit meeting with President Nixon, said in an interview, "I merely took advantage of the invitation he extended me."

Connors met Brezhnev at a San Clemente party for Brezhnev given by Nixon. He presented him with two Colt .45-caliber pistols he used in the television series, "Branded."

He said the film, called "Peace and Friendship," is "strictly a profit-sharing venture" with the Russians. He said he and his producer, Larry Stewart, will receive 70 per cent of the profits and the Russians 30 per cent.

The documentary was filmed last winter with an all Russian crew.

"What we sought to do — in terms of detente, which I understand is a political term for peace — was help build a bridge for communication and trade," Connors said.

"We know there's a lot of opposition in the United States, but we're not involved in any of the political implications."

He said "We expect to take that documentary and sell it in a capitalistic fashion."

The Communist party newspaper Pravda published an article on Connors which said that many honest Americans, including Connors, were misled by anti-Soviet propaganda after World War II, "but life itself helped them to realize the truth.

"The example of Chuck Connors is typical. A huge role in this process of enlightment was played by the results of two summits and of course the visit of Leonid Brezhnev to the United States."

Asked to comment, Connors said, "Different people put different interpretations on things."

Later, he said, "Nobody changed my mind as far as what country I want to be a citizen of. I'm an American capitalist and proud of it."

Today is Thursday, June 27, the 176th day of 1974 with 187 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase. The morning stars are Venus and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn.

Blind author Helen Keller was born June 27, 1880.

On this day in history:

In 1847, telegraph wire linkes were established between New York City and Boston.

In 1960, a typhoon struck Luzon island in the Philippines, killing more than 100.

A thought for the day: In the story of her life, blind author Helen Keller wrote, "Literature is my Utopia. Here I am not disenfranchised. No barrier of the senses shuts me out from the sweet, gracious discourse of my book friends."

Odds Must Be Considered When Doubling A Part Score

When you double the opponents at a part-score contract you may be offering very high odds that you will beat them. It's all right to do so if you know what you're doing and are willing to take the risk.

WORKS WELL

West's double worked out well. West got two trump tricks and his two aces. His partner showed up with a club trick. But West had taken a rather big risk for practically no gain.

Forget about the actual North-South hands and consider what they might well have been. South might be void of hearts. Dummy might show up with the Q-x in spades, thus limiting West to one trump trick. South might have four diamonds and only two clubs, in which case he might limit the club loss to one trick.

THE FIGURES

If South makes three hearts udoubled, he scores 90 points below the line. In addition, his part score is worth perhaps 50 to 100 points. (Nobody knows the true value of a part score.) His total score is approximately 160 points.

If South makes three hearts doubled, he scores 180 points below the line and 50 points above the line. In addition, his game is worth about 300 points. His total score is roughly 530 points.

In other words, the double gives South a chance to score about 370 additional points. Since West can hardly expect to beat the contract more than one trick, his double stands to gain only 50 points. When you risk 370 points for the chance to pick up 50 points, you are offering odds of more than 7-to-1.

Think about this the next time you double the opponents at a part score.

A Soldier's Widow Finds Solace Through Religion

NEW LIFE — Sandra Kavanaugh, 23, whose husband killed himself after returning from five years in a North Vietnam prison camp, says any traces of bitterness have been wiped away by her children and the Jehovah's Witness, her new religion. She is making a new life for herself and the children in Westminister, Colo. (AP Wirephoto)

WASTMINSTER, Colo. (AP) — Abel Larry Kavanaugh was gone five years, a North Vietnamese prisoner of war. A year ago, three months after he came home, he killed himself.

Today, his wife Sandy says she is no longer bitter. She finds solace, she says, in her two children and a new-found religion that opposes war.

Kavanaugh, 24, put a .25-caliber pistol to his head and pulled the trigger last June 27 in the bedroom of his father-in-law's house near here. An Adams County coroner's jury concluded that the Marine sergeant killed himself.

Shortly after his return from captivity, Air Force Col. Theodore Guy charged the young Marine and seven other enlisted men with collaborating with the enemy. Guy was senior officer at the "Plantation Camp" near Hanoi, where the men were held.

The secretaries of the Army and Navy ordered the charges dropped the week after Kavanaugh's death.

At the time, Mrs. Kavanaugh said her husband was driven to kill himself by Guy's charges, which she claimed were outrageous. She threatened to file a damage suit against the Pentagon for negligence or wrongful death.

Mrs. Kavanaugh has since decided not to file suit.

"I just don't want to go through it again," she said in an interview at her modest suburban Denver home.

A portrait of Kavanugh, dressed in a formal Marine uniform, with Mrs. Kavanaugh, hung prominently on the living room wall. The couple's daughter, Cindy, 6, played outside and Mrs. Kavanaugh held their son, Larry, 4 months old.

Mrs. Kavanaugh, 23, said she studied the Jehovah's Witnesses doctrine while her husband was in POW camp, but that its tenets became more meaningful to her after his death. She converted from Roman Catholicism.

"I'm a whole new person and my views have changed on everything," she said. "We don't look to the U.S. government as our government. It will be destroyed."

She has gone door to door trying to spread the doctrine and attends religious meetings regularly.

Mrs. Kavanaugh said she finds comfort in seclusion and wants to forget the past, living on military support payments and spending most of her time at home with the children. A relative said she doesn't date and hasn't taken a job.

The nation can learn an important lesson about POWs from her husband's death, according to Mrs. Kavanaugh.

"Nobody knows how they feel deep down," she said. "It takes a lot of time to adjust. They need years."

Guy's comments about Kavanaugh's death were similar to those he made a year ago.

"I haven't thought about it much. But I have pity for his widow," Guy said in a telephone interview.

"I'd do it again," Guy said. "I still feel I was correct. "There were 566 of us who belived in our country."

Shrinking County

MENTONE, Tex. (UPI) — Loving County, the last county organized in Texas, has come on hard times. Since 1940 when its population was at an all-time high of 285, the number of people has dwindled to a current 164.

Weekend, Holiday W. Marin Bus Routes

Eight new Golden Gate Transit weekend and holiday bus routes serving Point Reyes National Seashore, and points in the Golden Gate National Recreation Area will begin operating July 4.

The expansion will bring additional recreational bus service to San Francisco and Marin County residents and provide "shuttle service" to connecting points at Bolinas.

The new routes are:

Route 61 (Bolinas - Drake's Beach), which will provide shuttle runs between Bolinas, Point Reyes Station, Inverness, and Drake's Beach throughout the day. Route 61 will also connect with Route 62 service, which operates between San Francisco and Bolinas.

Route 64 (San Francisco - Drake's Beach) will leave San Francisco's Transbay Terminal at 9:13 a.m., depart Drake's Beach at 4:15 p.m., and operate via San Francisco Civic Center, Greenbrae, San Anselmo, Point Reyes Park Headquarters, Point Reyes Station, and Inverness.

Route 65 (San Rafael - Point Reyes park headquarters) will leave fourth and Hetherton streets in San Rafael at 8:27 a.m., and operate via the San Anselmo hub. Route 65 buses will leave Park Headquarters at 6:25 p.m. The new route 65 will augment a similar service currently operating from San Francisco.

The route additions were proposed by the Golden Gate Recreational Travel Study and approved by the Golden Gate Bridge, Highway and Transportation District board at its last regular meeting.

Additional information about the recreational service may be obtained from Golden Gate Transit office.

Kidnap Guilty Plea; 20 Years

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — Former oil supply executive Freddie D. Smith admitted yesterday he kidnaped wealthy oilman Walter H. Helmerich III with a toy pistol and held him for $700,000 ransom because "I needed some money."

He was sentenced to 20 years in prison.

Smith, 45, had pleaded guilty to the kidnaping June 18.

INVITATIONAL SHOW — Ellen Schlessinger's self-portrait, painted in broad, flat tones, is part of "Women's Own," an invitational exhibit by 20 women artists in the College of Marin's Fine Arts Gallery through July 10.

ART REVIEW

'Women's Own' Show Has Diverse Talents

By ADA GARFINKEL

"Women's Own," an exhibit of paintings, graphics, and sculpture by 20 women artists in the College of Marin's Fine Arts Gallery, includes diverse talents and preoccupations, none of them "typically feminine."

While neither the manner of making art nor the subject matter are particularized according to gender, not a few reveal the softer, poetical, and generative side of life.

By no means even in quality, a few of the artists seem to be just emerging. Most however, are seasoned exhibitors. A few are derivative, and others stress rawness of color and a certain crudity of technique — the latter symptomatic of disdain or impatience with the perfectionism of machine technology.

The concerns of these artists are literary, social, ethnic, environmental, and existential. They convey these concerns in the pop-culture of Middle America, in art-Deco surrealism, and in strong mythological or organically oriented statements. A few are interested only in formal qualities.

Literary and musical references are seen in Nina Frazier's small watercolors, "Homage to Gertrude" — the two roses referring of course, to Gertrude Stein's famous line — while "Two Blue Boys" and "We Love You George" is unmistakably a "replay" of Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue."

Ellen Schlessinger who organized the show, is the subject of her paintings. She looks out thoughtfully and directly at the world. Black outlines around her freeform anatomical shapes, and broad, flat-toned hues recall the nudes of Leger.

Acrylic airbrush and pale, birthday-cake-icing tints evoke a dream-world state in Marge Horton's "Self-portrait" and "Mountains Flying Over Themselves."

Dian Allen's watercolors, "The Weight (wait!) of the Big I-dear" and "Echo in Incredibility Gap" are humorous enactments of mental and vocal gymnastics.

Sue Geis's floor sculpture, "Spillow" describes a scaled-down bed made of copper tubing and wire. Spilling off is an appliqued velvet fetish-object pillow trimmed with bone rings and feathers, and a clear plastic "coverlet" with black-eyed beans and yellow-eyed peas and a few feathers nestling in the quilted sections.

This show was sponsored by Women's Way, an affiliate of Marin Institute of San Anselmo. The exhibit will continue through July 10 and may be seen weekdays (except July 4) from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Israeli Time Shift

JERUSALEM (UPI) — The cabinet decided yesterday to put Israel on daylight saving time from July 6 until Oct. 12 in a move largely designed to save electric fuel costs. Religious Jews objected to starting the time shift earlier in the year because of darkness during morning prayers.

MOTION PICTURE GUIDE

The Marin Motion Picture and Television Council provides these ratings of movies now being shown in Marin County. The council's findings are from the California and National Parent-Teacher Association Magazines and Parents' Magazine unless otherwise noted. More complete reviews may be obtained by calling the San Rafael City Library.

FAMILY

"George" — A bachelor airline pilot, who lives in Switzerland, has to pet sit his sister's 250-pound St. Bernard while she is on her honeymoon. The dog is afraid of cats and the problems he presents is a riot. Good fun for all.

"Golden Voyage of Sinbad" — Hero of Arabian Nights returns to an adventure of restoring a kingdom to its rightful leader. Fast paced and magical special effects, but very young children may be frightened by weird animals.

"Mr Superinvisible" — Dean Jones as a kooky scientist and intrigue and invisibility complicate his life. Plus a loveable sheepdog and a mischievous chimp.

"Twelve Chairs" — A hilarious examination of greed done in slapstick style. Jewels sewn into one of 12 chairs create havoc among those trying to trace them.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Daisy Miller" — The changes in moral standards since the late 19th Century are clearly shown in this study of Henry James novel about a spirited American girl traveling in Europe. Good cast, beautiful photography.

"Dirty Mary, Crazy Larry" — Racing driver robs to buy a super car. Ensuing chase is plot. Fast action, plenty of violence. (Boxoffice Magazine)

"Last American Hero" — Based on life of a real stock car driver. Film conveys positive family relationships. Cursing, sex scene.

"Let the Good Times Roll" — A rock 'n' roll revival of the '70s is presented in concert by the stars who made the songs famous. Stars shown as they were in the mid '50s.

BORDERLINE

(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Bananas" — An outrageous spoof with Woody Allen covering all bases in this raucous satire.

"Busting" — Two nonconformist Los Angeles cops remain on the trail of powerful drug trafficker in spite of all obstacles. Very violent.

"Lords of Flat Bush" — Four high school seniors in Brooklyn in 1957. More nostalgia than plot in this copy of "American Graffiti". Cursing, sex, nudity.

"Parallax View" — Six out of 10 witnesses to an assassination die under mysterious circumstances. A newspaper reporter reopens the case making for very exciting entertainment. Much cursing.

"Steelyard Blues" — Satirical comedy about a $100-a-trick hooker and a group of zany characters attempting to rebuild a plane with stolen parts. Violence, cursing, sex.

"The Sting" — A pair of cool 1930s con men set out to ruin a powerful Chicago racketeer. Violence, cursing but entertaining for the mature.

"Zandy's Bride" — Pioneer drama set in Big Sur Country. The awkward attempts of a tough, stubborn cattle farmer and his unhappy mail-order bride to create a working marriage. Cursing, sex, violence.

ADULTS ONLY

"Blazing Saddles" — Mel Brooks bawdy Western travesty has brilliant bits amidst tedious, tasteless stretches. Much cursing.

"Heavy Traffic" — Sadistic exercise made expressly for movie masochists. A young New York artist has a father in the Mafia, who puts out a contract on his own son. His mother is Jewish and his girlfriend is black, guaranteed to offend everyone. A mixture of live action and animation. Formerly rated "X".

"Thunderbolt and Lightfoot" — Clint Eastwood rides again in modern western about a bank robbing gang repeating a theft. Very violent and cynical, cursing, sex, nudity.

Pay Hikes Ordered By Board

The North Marin County Water District board has approved an 8.5 per cent cost-of-living pay increase for all district employees.

Dist. Mgr John O. Nelson, who recommended the 8.5 per cent hike, said the increase will cost $55,590.

Directors also approved spot adjustments in the salary schedule at a cost of $9,837 and a change in overtime policy at a cost of $412, Nelson reported.

Commissioners voted 3-to-2 against adjusting salary ranges upward to the "average for the industry" based on a survey of seven agencies. Directors Patrick H. Heffernan and William W. Wright favored the adjustment.

19 Killed As Ferry Capsizes

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (UPI) — A ferry carrying 46 passengers capsized on a river yesterday, killing 19 persons.

Police in Mirpur southeast of Rawalpindi said the boat capsized Monday night when a storm hit the vessel as it was approaching Mirpur from a town 45 miles away.

A Final Push On Hiking Pay

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Legislature, just one day away from a scheduled summer vacation, is moving quickly toward passing measures providing itself with a pay raise and increasing legislative pensions.

Senate committees yesterday approved bills to boost lawmakers' pay by 10 per cent next year to $23,040 annually and to provide added retirement benefits for at least seven of the legislature's senior members.

In the Assembly yesterday, the retirement committee approved a measure which would pump more than $15 million during the next five years into the legislative pension plan, which has been deemed financially unsound.

The pay raise bill (SB1762) by Sen. Anthony C. Beilenson, D-Los Angeles, would raise salaries to the legal minimum allowed under the state Constitution.

Lawmakers currently are paid $19,200—the highest in the nation for state legislators. They already have voted themselves a 10 per cent pay hike effective Dec. 2, bringing their pay to $21,120. The extra 10 per cent provided by Beilenson's bill would take effect Jan. 1.

The bill was approved by the rules committee and sent to the finance committee on a 3-1 vote.

Lawmakers additionally receive $30 per day in tax-free expenses while in session, a state-leased car, unlimited use of gasoline and telephone credit cards and are provided staff workers for Capitol and district offices.

A retirement measure (SB1576) by Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, zipped through two committees in a single day yesterday, an unusual move that requires consent from the full Senate.

It would increase retirement benefits for at least seven lawmakers with more than 20 years' service from two-thirds of their salary to three-fourths. It also would raise from 4 to 8 per cent the amount lawmakers contribute to the pension fund.

The measure was approved by the ules committee on a 30 vote and later was endorsed by the finance committee on a 7-0 vote and sent to the Senate floor.

VOTED DOWN

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation designed to force major oil companies to divest themselves of their service stations has died in the Senate Finance Committee.

The measure (SB1879) by Sen. Alan Robbins, D-Van Nuys, was killed yesterday on a 2-7 vote.

VOTING RIGHTS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Ex-convicts would be given back the voting franchise under a proposed constitutional amendment which has won narrow passage from the Senate.

The measure (ACA38) by Assemblyman Julian C. Dixon, D-Los Angeles, was approved yesterday on a 27-8 vote, the bare two-thirds necessary, and returned to the Assembly for concurrence in amendments. It would require voter approval.

Currently, the state Constitution prohibits exfelons from voting unless they are pardoned by the governor. They would be given the franchise back under the legislation provided they had completed parole.

PLAN DIES

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill designed to provide highway patrolmen and other law enforcement officials with cost-of-living pay raises has been killed by the Senate Finance Committee.

The measure by Sen. H.L.R. Richardson, R-Arcadia, died yesterday on a 3-7 vote, with three members of the committee not voting.

Under the bill, highway patrolmen, fish and game wardens, state policemen, correctional officers and others, would have received increases in January and July based on the state's cost-of-living index.

Minimum Sign Size Suggested

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill establishing a minimum statewide size for real estate "for sale" signs has been approved by the Assembly.

The bill (AB3301) by Assemblyman Paul T. Bannai, R-Gardena, was approved yesterday on a 44-19 vote but its passage to the Senate was blocked when Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Beverly Hills, said he will asked that the measure be reconsidered.

The bill, backed by the California Real Estate Association, would declare that "for sale" signs on residential property may be no smaller than 18 by 24 inches.

Alaska's Prime Mover For Statehood Is Dead

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ernest Gruening, who led Alaska to statehood and as a senator cast one of the two votes against the resolution that authorized U.S. involvement in the Vietnam War, died Wednesday at the age of 87.

Gruening and Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon were the only ones to oppose the Gulf of Tonkin resolution passed, Aug. 7, 1964, which President Lyndon B. Johnson used to justify America's then-increasing commitment to the war in Southeast Asia.

The two Democrats called it unconstitutional, "a predated declaration of war," but the vote was 88-2. The administration said the resolution was prompted by an attack on U.S. warships off the Vietnamese coast, but Johnson himself said later, "For all I know, our Navy was shooting at whales out there."

When the previously secret Pentagon Papers were published it was learned that the resolution had been prepared well in advance of the incident.

Gruening continued his outspoken opposition to the war and lost his next try for reelection, in 1968, when he was 81. He insisted that his defeat by Mike Gravel in a primary fight had little to do with his peace policies.

Born in New York Feb. 6, 1887, the son of a physician, Gruening was graduated from Harvard Medical School but devoted his life to government and journalism, not medicine.

He was editor of the weekly magazine "The Nation" and also held various editorial positions on the staffs of the Boston Journal, the New York Sun, and the New York Tribune.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt named him director of territory and island possessions in the Interior Department in 1934, and appointed him governor of the territory of Alaska in 1939.

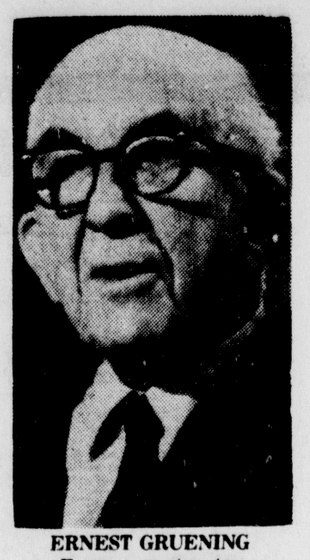

He returned to Washington to lobby for Alaskan statehood, and was elected one of its two first senators in 1958.

Islamic Influence

CHICAGO (UPI) — Fazlur Rahman, professor of Near Eastern Languages and Civilizations at the University of Chicago, says some contemporary words are derived from Islamic words, such as alcohol, from al-kuhl, a finely ground powder; algebra, from al-jabr, the binding together of disorganized parts; admiral, from amir al-bahr, commander of the ocean.

'TALKING HIS HEAD OFF'

Youth's Brain Functioning Again On A Dry-Cell Battery

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — "When we came in the other morning he was singing," said the amazed father of an 18-year-old youth whose brain now works with a dry-cell battery.

Mark Bevins, 18, could barely talk or move the past several years until doctors recently implanted electrodes in his brain and hooked them up to a battery that stimulates the brain.

"He held a glass of ice tea and drank through a straw for the first time in three years," said his excited father, Jake Bevins, a Tulare car salesman.

"He's been crippled seven years but the other day he was talking his head off where before he could hardly get any words out.

"He'd stored it all in his head and when he could finally talk, he really cut loose. He was telling his hospital roommate all about our community, about the things he heard on the radio. He could hardly stop."

In a rare operation at the University of California Medical Center, doctors implanted two electrodes in Mark's cerebellum, then ran wires under his skin through his chest. The wires were attached to a battery and regulator worn on a belt.

"Those nerves in his cerebellum have been laying dormant," said Bevins. His son has been suffering since childhood from a rare condition whose crippling impact was not felt until about 10 years ago.

"There's no name for it," said Bevins. "Even the doctors don't have a name for it. They know what it's doing to him, but they don't know what's causing it."

The battery sends electrical impuses to the cerebellum, he says, stimulating those dormant nerves so they'll work again. When his brain tells him to do something, the nerves respond."

Bevins and his wife are still learning how to work the regulator. It isn't certain how much voltage is proper and it may take months of experimentation, he said.

"We have to unhook the battery for 15 minutes each hour, but yesterday he seemed to remain the same when we disconnected it," he said.

Doctors were hesitant to declare the operation a success. But they said Mark could go home a few days earlier than planned. "He's improved and is doing fine," a spokesman said.

Neither is it certain whether the experiment will allow Mark's brain to function normally.

"All we can do is hope and pray," says Bevins. "But after 11 years of searching we think we've found something that looks hopeful.

"You couldn't know the feeling of having a son and now being able to talk to him. It's like a whole new world."

Police Prevent Loss Of Fortune

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Two mounted patrolmen making their measured rounds of Golden Gate Park saw an intriguing green piece of paper fluttering on the drive.

One dismounted and picked it up, as the other observed an elderly man a half block away frantically looking for something.

As a result of these observations the man, a 92-year-old retired foundry worker, was reunited with his $10,000 U.S. Treasury Note.

COMMERCIAL FISHERMAN

Exchanges Freeways For Sea

By PAUL LIBERATORE

A few years ago, as Jim Mellin of Terra Linda tells it, "I was shuffling papers in a closet, doing analytical work, driving the freeways."

The freeways led to his white-collar job with the Los Angeles Police Department and a tiny office where he correlated data on traffic accidents.

An outdoorsman with an aching for the sea, Mellin hated the 9-to-5 routine, the commute from his home in Long Beach, the tenuous friendships with policemen who held far more conservative views on life than he.

He was miserable, according to his wife, Ellie. And so was she.

Then, in the summer of 1969, Mellin decided to sample a different life, as a commercial fisherman. After three months as a hired hand on someone else's boat, he was, pardon the expression, hooked.

Earlier that year, the Mellins had married, the second time for both, and he took over "a combination boy and girl scout troop," as she jokingly describes her children, Lisa, 16, Marc, 14, Eric, 12, and Cara, 10. The couple quickly added a fifth with the birth of Dana, now 4.

With a family that size it's not easy to abandon financial security and it was two years later that the Mellins found a good buy on a house in Marin, where they moved from their native Los Angeles, and he hired on a tuna clipper, seeking skipjack and yellow fin off the coast of Baja, California.

He worked odd jobs in the off season and bought his first boat, a small Monterey clipper, in 1972, spending the next year getting it ready for its first season of salmon fishing out of Ocean Traders' dock in Sausalito.

"We got our feet wet in that vessel," Mellin, 38, explained recently. But the Monterey had limited fuel and load capacity and it was sold after that first season. The Mellins also sold their comfortable, suburban home a few weeks ago and will move into a rented house in Upper Lucas Valley Monday.

The money went toward a bigger, better craft, a 38-foot boat fitted for salmon and crab fishing and with an eight to 10-ton capacity. It was christened, in a joyous celebration of family and friends this month, the Dana V, after the couple's youngest child.

The event was a triumph for the whole family. The youngsters are proud of their father and his occupation. When school was out, they worked on the old boat last year and are anxious to go to sea again.

Mrs. Mellin, a vivacious 35-year-old woman, makes it clear she is behind her husband 100 per cent and works selling real estate to help pay the bills. Fishing, they all are aware, doesn't exactly offer blue chip financial stability. The average salmon catcher can expect to earn between $12,000 and $15,000 a year, out of which he must pay for maintenance, fuel and other costs, they said.

"I'm just happy to see him doing what he loves to do," said Mrs. Mellin, who learned with the failure of her first marriage that both partners must have "enough space." Although she is involved with the fishing, she has her separate interests and profession and he has his. "Neither of us had enough encouragement before," she said. "Now we feel we have no limitations."

The only drawback is the omnipresent leaden feeling that lurks in the guts of all fishermen and their families: the fear of death. The mortality rate is high. The Mellins have lost six of their fishermen friends in the past three years.

"Whenever he is late, I worry," she says. "I worry. No matter what. I worry."

He worries, too. The hazards make him "very cautious," but he pushes that concern to the back of his mind and concentrates on fishing. For salmon from April 15 to Sept. 30. July through October is the best time for venturing after albacore, which swim in swift, elusive schools many miles offshore. In winter, weather permitting, it's rock fish.

"When he's fishing, he's at peace," said Mrs. Mellin of her husband. "The days before he leaves, he's chain smoking cigarettes, clawing at the ground. He's like a race horse at the gate."

When not at sea, Mellin reads books on tying flies, takes the children trout fishing and duck hunting and teaches them about nature and conservation.

He learned much about ecology while attending Humboldt State College and worked for the state Department of Fish and Game and the U.S. Department of Fish and Wildlife for a time after graduation.

Although the champagne is hardly dry on the bow of the Dana V, the Mellins already are dreaming about another boat, a bigger one with a 20 to 30-ton capacity. "And a john," he said with a laugh in which the entire family joined, which is the way the Mellins like to do things.

FISHERMAN — Jim Mellin and his wife, Ellie, of Terra Linda discuss future prospects for his commercial fishing enterprise. A former traffic accident analyst with the Los Angeles Police Department, Mellin gave vent to his love of the sea five years ago and turned to commercial fishing as a new livelihood.

LAUNCHING — Jim Mellin gives his wife Ellie a reassuring hand as she christens the couple's new 38-foot boat, the Dana V, named after their youngest child. His children and friends look down from the bridge. The Mellins are already dreaming of purchasing a still larger boat.

Marriages Under Confidential Law Are Reported Up In Marin

While it can't even be classed as a "mini-boom," the number of so-called confidential marriages being performed in Marin County is on the increase.

In 1973, the first full year that California's confidential marriage law was in effect, 31 such marriages were recorded at the Marin county clerk's office.

This year, though, with not quite six months gone by, 27 confidential marriages have been recorded in the county.

Under the 1972 legislation, County Clerk George N. Gnoss explained, a couple can avoid the usual routine of taking out a marriage license at his office, having a blood test for syphilis and a rubella test.

Instead, the man and woman can go quietly to a clergyman and have him marry them without witnesses. A form certifying the marriage is placed on file at the county clerk's office but it may not be viewed without a court order.

(Ordinary marriage licenses and certificates are public records easily available for inspection.)

The new law was put on the books so that a couple who had long lived as common-law husband and wife could quietly legalize the situation without anyone being the wiser.

In Southern California, there has been some indication that the law is being taken advantage of by young couples who want to avoid the cost of medical tests and those who are entering bigamous marriages. In the first five months of this year, 1,792 confidential marriages were recorded in Los Angeles County.

One of the strongest advocates of the situation is the minister of a nondenominational church, who runs a thriving marriage business in a wing of a Long Beach hotel. He expects to gross $40,000 this year marrying couples, three-fourths of them under the confidential marriage law.

In Marin, Gnoss said, most of the confidential marriages are being performed for persons over 25 years old. "There are almost no 'kids,'" he said, and some couples are between 30 and 50 years old and "some older."

There does not seem to be a rush, either, to any particular church for the secret weddings. Rather, there appears to be a quiet trend toward an increasing number of people choosing, for one reason or another, to forego the spotlight of the traditional wedding.

Juvenile Hall Director Given New Assignment

Erick F. Yarchin, superintendent of Marin Juvenile Hall, has been given a new assignment as special programs director for the county probation department.

Yarchin, whose administration of Juvenile Hall has been both praised and criticized in recent years, will assume his new duties July 1 with no change in salary.

The new $19,700-per-year position will be involved in developing a data processing system for the department as well as developing new probation programs and improving existing ones.

Yarchin, 61, was named superintendent of Juvenile Hall in 1969. He previously had worked as program administrator at the California State Medical Facility at Vacaville.

He took over the hall amid neighborhood unrest with the then loosely run hall. He was credited with drastically reducing the number of juvenile escapes.

In the last year or so, however, Yarchin has come under fire for operating too rigid a program.

Chief Probation Officer John W. Brewer, who made the appointment, said yesterday Yarchin's reassignment has nothing to do with the criticism. "He has a tremendously broad backgorund for this assignment," Brewer said. "He's always wanted this kind of job."

Yarchin is a graduate of the University of Richmond and received a master's degree in clinical psychology from San Francisco State College.

The county will have an open recruitment for the superintendent's job.

Napa River Bridge Wins Regional Nod

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Metropolitan Transportation Commission granted permission yesterday for the construction of a $20 million bridge across the Napa River.

Construction of the bridge near the City of Napa was opposed by conservationists who held it would increase the flow of automobile traffic in wine growing areas.

Tennis Courts Action Delayed

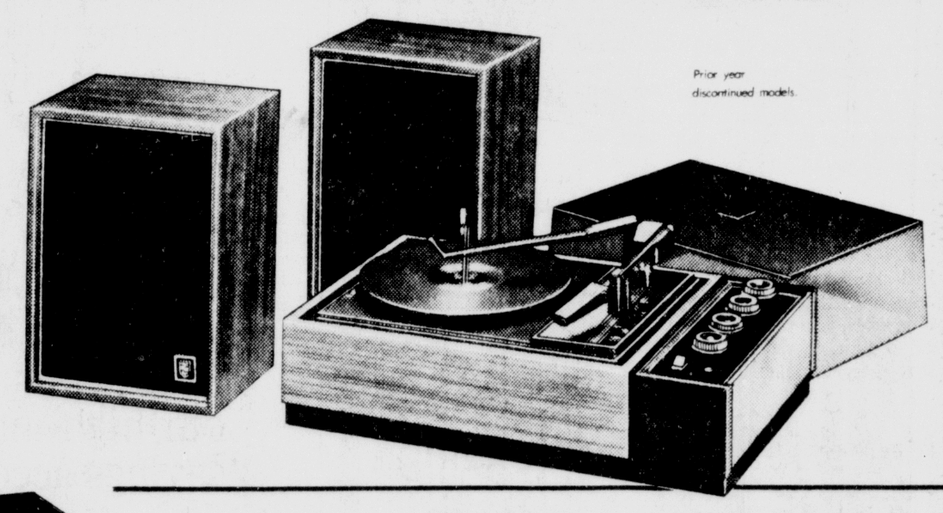

The Ross Recreation Advisory Board last night decided to postpone action on placing two temporary tennis courts at Ross School.

Chairman Robert A. Braghetta said the board decided to work toward development of two permanent courts at a town park being developed on the Hamer property rather than spending $7,500 to construct the temporary courts.

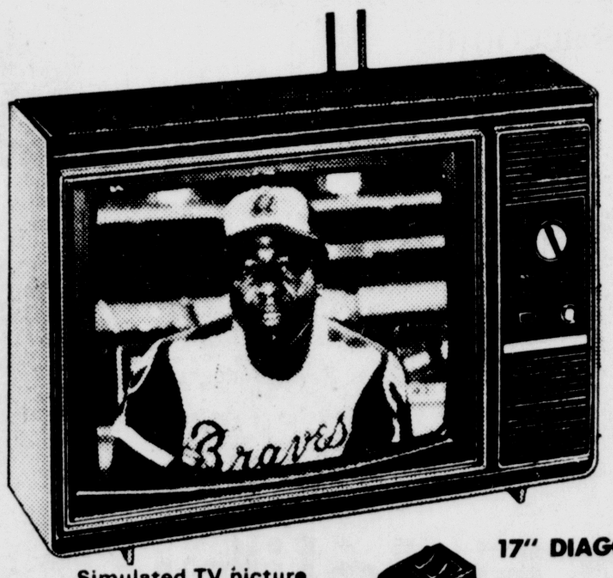

Braghetta said the board may still seek to locate temporary courts at the school for summer use in the future but the permanent courts will be its first priority.

Controversial Center Opens Saturday

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A $20 million downtown community center that Sacramento voters rejected twice opens Saturday with no end in sight to the more than two decades of controversy generated by the project.

Conceived in the 1950s, the Sacramento Community-Convention Center, featuring three separate giant concrete buildings, stretches over a two-block area bordered by the state Capitol park.

Center supporters predict it will attract millions of dollars in new business for the city from conventioneers and tourists. They also say it will provide a much needed home for performing arts in the capital.

Two citywide ballot measures, court suits and countless studies, meetings, discussions, promises and threats will be consumated with nine days of opening activities.

Included in the festivities will be a band-studded official dedication, a community fair, the Sacramento Symphony Orchestra's premier performance, Sacramento Opera Guild productions, a trade fair and free entertainment by about 25 local groups.

The controversial nature of the project was set in 1963. It was then that the center proposal wnet on the ballot for public financing.

Voters rejected it by failing to give the two-thirds majority needed.

It went on the ballot again in 1965 and again was turned down.

The city council then moved to form a "joint powers agreement" with the county to finance the project with hotel and motel tax revenue.

There followed two years of dickering and sticky negotiations between supervisors and councilmem. Both finally agreed to the measure in 1969, but not before weathering scores of protests and at least two unsuccessful court suits.

Under the agreement the Sacramento Community Center Authority was empowered to purchase land and issue revenue bonds for financing the complex. The authority issued $19.1 million of bonds and construction began in 1971.

"While it has proved a controversial matter over many years, I for one am delighted that it has been built," said Mayor Richard Marriott, a strong supporter of the project.

"By the time a few years have gone by, many will have forgotten who was for it and who against it, and that matters little as long as we now have it," he said.

But in the meantime there is still controversy. In addition to flaps about inadequate parking and hotel rooms within the city to service convention goers, the opening of the center itself has been criticized.

Councilman Herman Lawson charged the opening week and premier ticket packages priced at $46 and $25 respectively, were too high for many persons.

"I'm talking about the opening night," Lawson said. "The first people who should go through that center are the people from the community who are paying for it."

But the prices, Lawson said, exclude "the ordinary man, the pensioner, the youth and the elderly."

Another of the latest flaps also concerns the opening and Marriott and Walter Christensen, former mayor and present head of the center authority.

The only scheduled speaker for the official dedication is Marriott, and Councilman Robert Matsui was bitter about it.

Matsui said Christensen should also have been a speaker, because he is considered the driving force for the center during his eight years on the council.

"For us to ignore him now is tantamount to kicking a public servant in the face and saying now that we used you we don't need you anymore," Matsui said.

Expo '74 Gets Gambling Permit

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — Expo '74 at Spokane yesterday was granted a gambling permit for the duration of the environmental fair.

The action was taken by the Washington State Gambling Commission, which had issued a temporary permit prior to the opening May 4.

The permit allowed the corporation to hire Nequin Corp. to run the amusement area for the fair. Under the license, however, Expo will take over some 166 amusement games of chance and skill on the Expo site.

Meaty Fact

CHICAGO (UPI) — The meat packing industry has one of the highest rates of on-the-job injuries and the resulting costs are a contributing factor to higher meat costs, according to a National Safety Council spokesman.

A WINNING TWOSOME — Ruby Keeler, the dancing darling of the 1930s, and Don Ameche, another star who hit his prime in Hollywood in the late 1930s, are currently on tour with the 1920s musical, "No, No Nanette." They opened in Albany Tuesday night to a capacity crowd. (UPI Telephoto)

STRAW HAT TOUR

Keeler And Ameche Wooing Audiences

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Ruby Keeler, the dancing darling of the 1930s, and Don Ameche, who many people think invented the telephone, are back on the stage and wowing audiences.

Ameche and Miss Keeler are starring in the Roaring Twenties musical "No, No Nanette," in a 14-week tour of straw hat theaters.

"Nanette" opened in Albany Tuesday night to a capacity crowd. Miss Keeler still projects the same winsome quality that first made her a star 45 years ago. And when she went into her tap dance routine to "I Want To Be Happy" in the first act, she stopped the show.

"She's still my kind of girl," said a gray-haired matron, who had driven 50 miles in the rain to see the show. "She looks like she could join my bridge club and be one of the gang."

Commented a man to his wife, "It's wonderful to see something simple and happy again.

Miss Keeler hit stardom in Florenz Ziegfeld's 1929 revue "Show Girl." She went to Hollywood in the early days of sound and appeared in such films as "42nd Street," "Footlight Parade," "Golddiggers of 1933," and "Dames."

She came out of retirement to star in the Broadway revival of "Nanette," and now is in her second year on tour. After this tour, she said, she'll go home to Laguna Beach.

"I want to sit back and watch my grandchildren," she said. "I'm not going to do anything else."

Ameche, her leading man, is as trim at 66 as he was in his Hollywood prime in the late 1930's. He is greying, but still handsome, with the rich voice so familiar to audiences who heard and watched him star in radio, television, theater and films.

Ameche is perhaps best remembered for his title role in "Alexander Graham Bell" — not his favorite, considering the years in which comedians used the line: "Call me up on the Ameche."

He recalled the golden years of radio when he played middleman in the battle of wits between W.C. Fields and Edgar Bergen's dummy, Charlie McCarty.

"My greatest love is still radio," he said. "Because that's what I did best."

Wakefield Now Wanting $700 In Back Expenses

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A request by lame duck Assemblyman Floyd Wakefield to collect $700 in back legislative expense allowances he once refused has been turned over to the attorney general's office, it was disclosed yesterday.

Wakefield, a conservative Republican from South Gate, first refused the $5 daily expense hike when it was raised in 1971 from $25 to $30.

But three days after he was defeated in his bid for re-election in the June 4 primary, he asked the state controller's office for the increase.

At the time a spokesman for the controller said the increase for the balance of the current legislative session would be automatically paid.

However, the spokesman said Wakefield's additional request for retroactive payment to July 1, 1973, the start of the current fiscal year, raised legal questions the attorney general would have to answer.

The retroactive pay would total $700, the spokesman said.

In a letter to the attorney general earlier this week, the controller's office said, "There is a question as to whether he may legally be reimbursed for the $5 increase retroactive to July 1, 1970."

The Legislature in January of 1971 approved the $5-a-day increase in lawmakers' living expense allowances. However, Wakefield and a handful of other legislators refused the hike and continued to receive only $25.

In refusing the increase, Wakefield at the time called it an "affront and disgraceful display of leadership." Democrats then had control of the Assembly.

Wakefield lost his seat because of reapportionment and came in third June 4 in the Republican race in a newly created district in Orange County.

Maverick Senator Shuns Nixon Support

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (UPI) — Sen. Charles McC. Mathias, R-Md., filed for re-election yesterday. The maverick lawmaker said he doesn't think the White House has marked him for political extinction because of his break with the administration on Watergate and the Vietnam War.

Asked if he would call on President Nixon to appear in Maryland for him, Mathias said, "The President did not campaign for me in 1968 and I see no reason why I should expect him to this year. Vice President (Gerald) Ford and national Republican chairman George Bush have both offered strong endorsements, and I am grateful."

A Mail Delivery Foul Up In Rome

BERGAMO, Italy (UPI) — In the last year it has sometimes taken months for a letter to be delivered. Just from one part of Rome to another. The Post Ministry admitted last week it had 70,000 or 80,000 registered and 120,000 or 130,000 unregistered letters at Rome's main railroad station alone.

Now the district attorney's office in this northern city has confirmed a newspaper report that mail is winding up as paper pulp instead of in mail boxes.

CARDINAL DANIELOUS

Controversy Over Death Of Cardinal

PARIS (UPI) — The affair of a cardinal who died in a stripper's apartment exploded yesterday into a controversy over celibacy of priests.

Cardinal Jean Danielou, 69, a friend of Pope Paul VI, died May 20 of a heart attack in "the home of friends," according to the first police report.

Then a satirical magazine, Le Canard Enchaine, said the internationally known Jesuit theologian expired in the apartment of a cabaret dancer.

Among charges and countercharges hurled in press and church circles, the magazine Le Nouvel Observateur editorialized, "Why not seize upon this sign of the times as a moment to question ourselves on the celibacy of priests?"

"L'affaire Danielou," as reconstruced in the press, began May 20 at 3 p.m. When the cardinal told his secretary, "I am going to hop over to the Place Periere, be back in an hour or so."

The churchman, wearing a beret and black suit, entered the brick building at 56 Rue Delong and climbed five floors to the apartment where Mrs. Santoni lived with her husband Gilbert, currently in jail on a pimping charge.

The press disagreed over where in the apartment the cardinal was stricken. Police said Mrs. Santoni tried to revive him by massaging his heart and then called police who arrived at 4:35 p.m.

After the cardinal's elaborate funeral in Notre Dame Cathedral, Cardinal Gabriel Garrone gave the first indirect confirmation of how he died in a eulogy to Daniellou delivered in Rome. Garrone said, "God grant us pardon. Our existence cannot fail to include an element of weakness and shadow."

Some newspapers deplored the scandal, saying the cardinal sought to give faith and comfort to persons in all walks of life. The Episcopal Council of the Roman Catholic church in France said Danielou's aid "extended often to the most disreputable and downtrodden persons."

He Profits On The Gold Urge

DETROIT (UPI) — Bob Naimy is inflicted almost as badly as Midas was. He must buy anything made of gold.

"I'll make an offer on anything gold," said Naimy, who is president of the Prestige Coin Co. of Walla Walla, Wash. He is in Detroit this week with nine of his buyers looking for gold, silver and U.S. stamps from the 1930s or before.

Northridge Open Space Buy Urged

The land is owned by Kent Woodlands Properties and has been offered to the county for $100,386 following six months of negotiations.

It is located off Ridgecrest Road and will be considered by the county's open space district board on July 9. The board is made up of county supervisors.

"It's the best purchase so far," said Robert A. Middagh, head of the county's real estate section. He said negotiations for other Kent Woodlands properties have been dropped, however.

Leroy M. Gerner, chairman of the parks, recreation and open space commission, said his group voted unanimously for the purchase.

On related matters, he said the commission also recommended four possible uses of the county's $430,000 share of the Proposition 1 parks bond measure approved June 4 by California voters.

He said the commission favors improvement of McNear's beach and John F. McInnis Park, purchase of the 27-acre Garlick property near Stafford Lake west of Novato, and acquisition of a 70-acre grove of virgin redwoods in the San Geronimo Valley.

Gerner said the commission did not recommend specific improvements at the two parks, a decision the board of supervisors will have to reach.

Lower priority is listed for the redwoods and Garlick property. The Garlick land would complete the linear park running from Sutro Avenue to Stafford Lake.

The San Geronimo redwood grove is north of the golf course on the Nicasio-San Geronimo Road. Last month,a spokesman from the San Geronimo Valley Planning Group urged its purchase.

The state bond measure will funnel about $860,000 to Marin, to be divided among the 11 cities and the county.

16 Million Suffer From Severe Depression

Psychiatrist William T. McKinney of the University of Wisconsin-Madison Center for Health Sciences has done four years of research into depression with rhesus monkeys. He says some persons are more sensitive to depression than others because of their genetic makeup.

He stimulated some animals with depression chemically with drugs, and some socially by isolating them from other animals. McKinney emphasized the importance of both social and biological experiences as determinants of depression. And they interact with each other.

Severe depression is not just feeling blue once in a while, McKinney said. It is feeling despairing, helpless and unsure about tomorrow. The usual treatment is a combination of drugs and psychotherapy.

Recycled Cans On Increase

NEW YORK (AP) — More than three billion steel cans annually are recovered magnetically for recycling from municipal solid waste in 22 cities.

Salvaged steel cans are recycled in four markets. Steel mills use them to produce new steel. The cans are used in a chemical process to recover copper from low grade ore. Detinning plants separate the steel and tin so that both metals can be recycled.

Scrap cans are also used in the production of ferroalloys which are specialty metals.

Longtime Convict Due Up On Parole

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Wesley Robert Wells, who has spent 45 of his 63 years behind bars in California prisons, will be freed on parole "within the next two weeks," a spokesman for the Department of Corrections said today.

Wells, who did a good deal of his time at San Quentin, is currently at the California Medical Facility at Vacaville.

He recently wrote to retiring San Quentin Warden Louis S. Nelson that the present prison population in California was making time difficult to serve.

Wells will be released to a parole program being worked out by corrections officials and the Delancey Street Foundation.

Wells first went to prison in 1929 for receiving stolen property. Three years later he was charged with manslaughter at Folsom Prison.

In 1947 he was convicted of assault with a deadly weapon for throwing a cuspidor at a guard in a courtroom, seriously injuring the guard.

Because Wells was a lifer, he received a death sentence, which later was commuted to life without possibility of parole.

In view of new court decisions on the death penalty, Wells became eligible for parole.

Ross Impact Hearing To Be Held July 18

Westmoreland Debuts As GOP Statehouse Hopeful

COLUMBIA, S.C. (UPI) — Retired Gen. William C. Westmoreland, coatless with a necktie that sports symbols of the state's official palmetto tree, is relaxed as he talks in the sweltering South Carolina heat with employes of Pacific-Columbis mills.

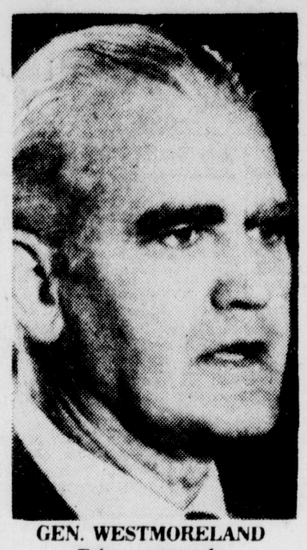

A former chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the U.S. commander in Vietnam at the height of American involvement, Westmoreland is now a politician running for the Republican gubernatorial nomination in a state with an unbroken line of Democratic governors stretching back to the Reconstruction era.

He talks with some men sitting under an oak. Some tell him they served under him in the Army, and he tells them he needs their support.

He is at ease now doing what he had found difficult when he first began his campaign in the spring — walking up a to a stranger, sticking out his hand and asking for support.

"I have been a little reticent to be forward and going up and shaking hands and introducing myself and forcing my personality on others," he said earlier. "In this political business it is essential and if you don't do it, it is misinterpreted."

Westmoreland is in the closing weeks of the South Carolina Republican party's first statewide primary. He is opposed by Charleston oral surgeon James

GEN. WESTMORELAND
Tries a new role

B. Edwards, one of only three Republicans in the 42-member state Senate.

The campaign leading up to the July 16 primary has not been easy for one of the nation's best-known soldiers.

Edwards, who hesitated publicly about even getting into the race with Westmoreland, is supported by some old-line Republicans miffed because the general only recently adopted their party.

Westmoreland, in a position comparable to that of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower following World War II, was courted by both the Democratic and Republican parties to run for governor.

On March 22, he announced for governor, saying he could serve the state best by joining the Republican party and working for a viable two-party system.

Westmoreland is the first to admit that the campaign got off to a shaky start, primarily because of his political inexperience.

He attributes his early problems to his failure to understand that a political candidate must be aware of all issues before the General Assembly even though they may not be issues when he takes office.

Along with many candidates in this year of Watergate, he said he has also found it difficult to raise funds.

"I have had no TV advertising because I don't have the money to support it," he said. "So I am running a very austere campaign because of inadequate finances."

If Westmoreland has had troubles with his campaign, his association with an unpopular war is not one of them.

"There has been very little reaction and certainly no adverse reaction," he said. "The impression I get is most South Carolinians realize the formidable task that I had, realize that the war was fought within perimeters established by political authorities.

Westmoreland, who has three chapters to go on a book about the war, makes no excuses for the American involvement.

"In my opinion, I think the military did admirably under very adverse circumstances," he said.

Blocked Nominee Resigns Post

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Robert W. Sigg, whose appointment by Gov. Ronald Reagan to the Workmen's Compensation Appeals Board was blocked by Senate Democrats, resigned yesterday.

Reagan, who announced the resignation effective Aug. 31, accused the Democratic lawmakers of "depriving the state of the services of this talented and dedicated man" for political reasons.

Reagan's office said the resignation of Sigg from the $37,615-a-year position marked one of the few times that a Reagan nominee had resigned in the face of failure to win Senate confirmation.

FBI To Automate Its Fingerprint System

WASHINGTON (UPI) — FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley has revealed plans for development of an automated system of processing fingerprints to replace the slow process of matching them manually.

Kelley said the new system will not only process the standard fingerprint identification cards containing prints of all 10 fingers but will be capable of making a search on the basis of a single print found at the scene of a crime.

Counts Against Reporter Off

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A San Francisco Examiner reporter arrested for refusing to leave a meeting of the state Public Utilities Commission was released Tuesday from charges.

PUC meetings have been open to the public since the refusal of reporter R. L. Revenaugh to leave a weekly "decision conference" of the PUC April 16, a municipal judge was told yesterday.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Thomas S. Crary said the opening of the PUC meetings made charges moot against Revenaugh, who had been booked, strip-searched and finally released on bail.

Attorney Told Rights In Contempt

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court ruled 7 to 2 yesterday that in a post-trial contempt proceeding against a lawyer, he is entitled to reasonable notice of the charges and an opportunity to be heard.

The majority opinion by Justice Byron R. White said the court is not requiring a full-scale trial but only "minimum requirements of due process of law."

The decision reversed the contempt conviction of civil rights lawyer Daniel T. Taylor III, because of his actions in the courtroom of Judge John P. Hayes during a murder trial.

Taylor was defending Marvel Tinsley, one of the two blacks charged with murdering two white Louisville police officers. At the end of the trial Hayes accused the lawyer of putting on "the worst display I've ever seen from an attorney."

He originally sentenced Taylor to four years and four months in jail on nine counts, but later reduced the sentences to six months each, which the Kentucky Court of Appeals said could be served concurrently, that is all at one time.

White said because of this circumstance it was proper for the state not to accord Taylor a jury trial, which is required for contempt carrying more than six months' imprisonment.

But he said summary punishment at the end of the trial does not square with the 14th Amendment's requirement of "due process of law."

"In view of the heightened potential for abuse posed by the contempt power," he said, notice of charges is required.

Agreement Signed On Coal Research

LONDON (UPI) — A farranging agreement for collaboration in coal research was signed yesterday by Britain and the United States.

It covers research and development under a comprehensive list of headings including mining techniques, mine health and safety and new ways of using coal, both by improved coal-burning in industrial applications, and by conversion to other fuels, chiefly gas and oil.

A WELCOME COMPARISON

Occasionally we are fortunate enough to get a home such as this. Outstanding area, close to schools and shopping. Large lot with plenty of parking, and most important, an extra large, immaculate luxury home that can not be duplicated. Starting with the immense family room with rock fireplace, cathedral ceilings, ceramic tile floor, wormwood paneling (this room is unbelievable), large living room with another rock fireplace, 3 large bdrms., 2 baths, large modern kitchen, separate utility room and 2 car garage. We could go on and on with all the features, but see for yourself. This can not be duplicated at $53,950.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Delay As Long As Possible Before Replacing Knee Joint

A Cleveland woman writes: "My husband who is 67 has suffered from severe arthritis of the left knee for many years. We've heard about a new prosthesis that replaces the entire joint, and he is trying to talk himself into having it done. What do you think he should do?"

Artifical joints now make it possible to relieve much of the suffering and disability caused by degeneration of the hip, knee, and hand joints. Total hip replacement has been most successful. Although knee prostheses have been inserted, these procedures should be delayed for as long as possible. We anticipate that within two years there will be improvements in surgical technics and in the designs and materials used to make artificial knees.

DR. ALFRED B. Swanson of Grand Rapids, Mich., has also devised some two dozen flexible silicone rubber components to replace various joints in the fingers and hands. These devices are widely used to rehabilitate arthritic hands. The silicone implants act as molds around which new fibrous tissue forms. This capsule in itself acts as a new joint.

A replacement for the shoulder joint now is being tested. What we really need is a well designed elbow, because stiffness of this structure can be extremely disabling, especially when both elbows are involved. But the best results to date have been with total hip replacements for disabling arthritis. Hip replacement offers a 90 per cent chance of being relieved of pain and gaining a good range of motion. Pain and advanced destruction of the joint are the main reasons for having this operation done.

IN OLDER individuals, replacement surgery may also be suggested for correction of a fresh hip fracture. The latter often is difficult to correct because the bone fails to knit and often softens.

Hip replacements seldom are done on younger people, especially when they do heavy work because the prosthesis is likely to wear out. The operation is not advisable when arthritis involves many joints and the individual wants a new hip because, at the moment, that is what hurts most. Within a few months, the other arthritic hip or knee will prove equally disabling.

Dr. Van Dellen welcomes reader questions. While he cannot reply to them individually, he will answer those of general interest in his column. Write to Dr. Van Dellen, c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902.

PNEUMONIA

K. O. writes: How long does it take to get over lobar pneumonia?

REPLY

Before penicillin, it took four to six weeks, provided there were no complications. The temperature varied from 102 to 105 degrees Fahrenheit for seven to 10 days, when the crisis occurred. By that time, the person was so weak it took another month or two to recuperate. Today, pneumonia usually terminates promptly when an appropriate antibiotic is used. Fever subsides within 36 hours and, barring complications, the victim is on his feet within 10 days.

LINES ON CHEST

B. G. writes: Why does the doctor make lines on my chest when he is examining me?

REPLY

Outlining the heart and diaphragm helps determine the size and location of these organs. The marks are made after tapping the chest. The tone over the heart, for example, is less resonant than over the air-filled lungs.

FEARS SURGERY

Mrs. J. L. writes: My doctor says I need a hysterectomy, but I thought it was not good to undergo surgery in the menopause. Please advise.

REPLY

Emotions may be a problem during the change of life, but let's look at it this way: Have the operation if it is an emergency or your health will suffer if it is not done in the next two years. If not, postpone the procedure until you are ready emotionally. If there is any question about the need for surgery, visit a gynecologist for another opinion.

DIABETES IS DIABETES

Mrs. M. writes: What is the difference between diabetes in the urine and diabetes in the blood?

REPLY

None. In diabetes, sugar accumulates in the blood because there is too little insulin. The excess is eliminated by the kidneys. In other words, evidence of diabetes can be found in the urine and blood. It is the same disease, however.

OLDSTERS' NOURISHMENT

A reader writes: do elderly people with hardening of the artiries die of malnutrition because they don't get the value out of the food eaten?

REPLY

No. Arteriosclerosis does not affect digestion. Some oldsters are undernourished because they have no teeth or are too senile to select and cook proper foods. Absorption may be limited by diseases of the gastrointestinal tract, but this is not related to the arterial system.

PERFORATING ULCER

A. C. writes: Can a duodenal ulcer perforate more than once?

REPLY

Yes, but it would be unusual. After all, there is nothing to prevent the ulcer from eroding through the same area. Most ulcer victims have learned their lesson after going through one perforation and take good care of themselves or undergo surgery.

Kissing Record Broken In Fresno

FRESNO, Calif. (UPI) — Three couples who claim a world record in long-distance kissing attribute their osculatory success to health foods, wheat germ, vitamin C and honey.

Lip to lip, they recorded 120 hours, 1 minute of bussing before parting yesterday. They said that beat the old record, set in Florida, by six hours.

The kissers were Larry and Dannel Barber, Robert Yrulegey and Louise Houldridge, David Tornaband and Judith Waurin, all in their 20s.

Hero Will Receive A Reward In Bones

LONDON (UPI) — Magistrate Evelyn Russel praised a police hero for bravery yesterday, awarded him $2.40 and ordered it spent on bones.

BEST SHOWS FOR TONIGHT

KPIX (5), KXTV (10), 9 p.m. — "Villain," is a drama that revolves around a crook who executes a masterful heist and then tries to kill his henchman because he left the single clue that can lead the police to them.

KGO (7), KNTV (11), 9 p.m. — Caine discovers the body of a dead man and finds himself accused of murder in another episode of "Kung Fu," starring David Carradine.

KGO (7), KNTV (11), 10 p.m. — After staging a vigilante raid in his crime-ridden neighborhood, a friend of Steve's becomes a suspect of murder on the police detective series "The Streets of San Francisco."

EPA Boss Pledges More Help In Pollution Fight

COEUR D'ALENE, Ida. (UPI) — Russell Train, chief of the Environmental Protection Agency, said yesterday his office is planning to become more actively involved in enforcement of environmental laws.

Train told the closing session of the National Association of Attorneys General convention, "We are actively engaged or in contemplating enforcement in the areas of water pollution, air pollution from both mobile and stationary sources and pesticides."

However, he said the EPA will need help from the states to do this.

"It is vital," Train said, that the EPA not get into the business of dictating state and local land use decisions."

He said state-EPA cooperation also is needed to prevent creation of "pollution havens."

"It would be unfair for one state to levy heavy fines on polluters while a neighboring state imposes mild penalties," he said.

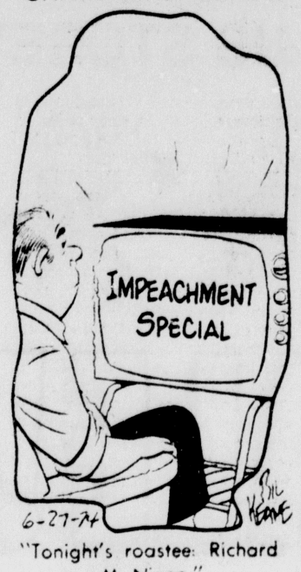

He said one of the specific problems his agency has run into in the past year in a number of states is the need for stronger state enforcement programs.

Big Steel Plant Is In Production

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Latin America's largest blast furnace for steel production has begun operation in Argentina, according to a government announcement.

A government spokesman said the furnace at San Nicolas, 120 miles northwest of Buenos Aires, will produce 3,600 tons daily of cast iron to be used in making steel. He said this will permit a 153 per cent increase.

Two Burtons Ask Doubling Of Redwoods

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Contending the federal government has failed to protect the stately redwoods of the West, Reps. John and Phillip Burton, brothers and Democrats from California, proposed a bill Wednesday to nearly double the size of Redwood National Park.

They were joined by 20 sponsors, including two with particular leverage for the legislation: Rep. Roy Taylor, D-N.C., chairman of the House Interior subcommittee on National Parks, and Rep. Julia Butler Hansen, D-Wash., chairman of the appropriations subcommittee that handles national parks.

The Redwood park covers 58,000 acres and the bill would add 50,000, the Burtons said.

"The failure of the National Park Service to prevent uncontrolled logging adjacent to Redwood National Park has resulted in loss of the watershed so severe that runoff waters and mud slides have uprooted and despoiled some of the finest stands of redwood," Phillip Burton said.

The bill will "give mandatory protection to these splendid trees and in the process add thousands of additional acres to the legacy of redwood forest land to be preserved for future generations," he said.

Higgins Role Is A Jinx, Says Troubled Actor

He listed six actors around the world who played the part created on Broadway by Rex Harrison. All met disaster, he said, including one on Broadway and one in Australia who suffered nervous breakdowns in the role.

A British actor walked out "mentally exhausted."

And the sixth? Stapley himself. He told the story to the bankruptcy court, blaming the demanding role for ill-health and resulting financial problems.

Mexico Is Acting On Inflation

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Fifty-three "basic consumption" products went under strict price controls yesterday as the Mexican government geared up a 14-point program designed to control skyrocketing inflation.

Meanwhile, business organizations supported the new program but asked for controls on wage hikes as well.

The basic products whose prices were clamped down by controls include cigarettes and matches, bottled drinks and fuels as well as milk, eggs, bread, beans, chicken, tortillas, sugar, coffee, rice, purified water and other products.

The controls were promised by President Luis Echeverria Monday after a meeting of government, business and labor. Besides the 53 basic products more than 100 other articles will be watched by government inspectors trying to hold down price hikes.

The strict price controls were pegged to an initial test period of six months.

Meanwhile, Jose Sanchez Mejorada, Ernesto Barroso Gutierrez and Jesus Vidales, presidents of the three most important national chambers of commerce, called for wage freezes to accompany the price controls.

After the Monday meeting, however, Echeverria urged frequent salary reviews to guarantee workers raises to accompany cost of living hikes.

Some businessmen, based in the industrial city of Monterrey, recently held a commercial stoppage to protest continued wage increase demands and have threatened to stop paying taxes if the government continues to support workers' demands.

Alioto Elected As Mayors' Unit Chief

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto was elected president of the United States Conference of Mayors yesterday. He succeeds Roy B. Martin Jr., mayor of Norfolk, Va.

Alioto called for "detente with the Nixon administration" in finding solutions to city problems, and said the mayors could be proud that city governments are relatively free of monetary fraud, "especially when compared with every other level of government."

SINGER-GUITARIST

By JAY SHARBUTT

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Singer-guitarist Jerry Reed graduated from country to national stardom because of network TV, but his Music Row headquarters here is still just a plain, white wood frame house.

You need the address to find it. There's no sign outside.

The proprietor, a regular this spring on NBC's since-canceled "Music Country U.S.A.," is equally surprising in the flesh.

Mention Lenny Breau, an obscure, legendary Canadian known mainly to plectrum pros, and Reed lights up like Christmas: "Greatest guitar player I've ever heard, and I've heard some guitar players."

In short, Reed, a tanned, wiry native of Decatur, Ga., is among what Glen Campbell calls the "new breed" of country performers — artists equally at home not only in country music, but also jazz, blues and pop.

Like Campbell, who gave him his first network break on CBS in 1969, Reed is what you'd call a "crossover," a country performer accepted by country and noncountry music fans alike.

"I don't like people to se it every time they want to see it," Reed said, sipping a cola drink in the small, eight-track office recording studio he uses to try out new song ideas or hear those of others.

"I like to keep it important. Put it on network TV week in, week out, you're overdoin' it. The name of the ball game is going out and visiting those people. Fairs, concerts, that's where it's at."

Starring in specials is another matter, he said: "Now you're gettin' down to the nitty-gritty, talkin' my kind of language."

However, he laughed, "if I do a show, I'm going to call the shots because I'm the one who stands to lose the battle, the war. It'll be my head that'll roll or my career that'll suffer.

LIKES SPECIALS — Singer-guitarist Jerry Reed, a regular this spring on NBC's since-canceled "Music Country U.S.A.," lights up when it comes to television specials. He calls them his bag along with going out to meet the public at fairs and concerts.

Firm Set To Launch New Silver Mine

WALLACE, Idaho (UPI) — The American Smelting and Refining Co. has announced plans to start silver production at its new Coeur Silver Mine near here.

The ASARCO board yesterday approved a $10 million outlay for operating the mine.

Singer Mends From Stagecoach Injury

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — Western singer Sue Thompson was released yesterday from a hospital where she had been treated for injuries suffered when thrown from a stagecoach at a rodeo.

Miss Thompson received cuts and bruises and complained of pains in her back after she was thrown from the shotgun seat when the stage overturned.

Helping Hands Needed For Handicapped Kids

There is quite a fine program to be put on — hopefully — to teach handicapped youngsters to swim.

It's a program to be offered by the San Rafael and Terra Linda recreation departments. It has the sponsorship of the Marin County Chapter, Red Cross; United Cerebral Palsy of Marin; Easter Seals Society of Marin and the Marin County Superintendent of Schools office.

The only thing lacking is an adequate number of volunteers to help out.

Because the kids are handicapped, a volunteer worker must be in the water with each youngster . . . one volunteer for each youth. Between 40 and 50 kids have expressed hopes of enrolling but so far only 23 volunteers have signed up.

If more volunteers are not found the program will have to be shelved, said coordinator Beverly Levy. The aides don't have to be expert swimmers since their role will be to help the kids follow instructions from the teachers.

There will be eight, half-hour sessions running 11 to 11:30 a.m. starting July 9 and ending July 19. They will be held at Terra Linda High School and the Terra Linda Recreation Center pools.

Youngsters 15 and older and adults interested in donating some of their time to help save the program should contact Beverly Levy at Marindale School in San Rafael.It would be time well spent.

GREG FORD of Marin City, recent graduate of Tamalpais High, will need a financial boost if he is to make it to the U.S. Wrestling Federation national championships July 25-27 at University of Iowa in Iowa City.

Greg won the 114.5 pound class and was named outstanding wrestler at the state championships last month in Bakersfield. The victory qualified him for the nationals but calls for him to come up with his own expense money.

Bill Hampton, secretary-treasurer of the Bay Area Wrestling Association, says his group doesn't have the funds to send him. "I hope we can come up with the money somehow," he said. "Greg has a really good chance of winning his class in the nationals." That's saying something, since this tournament will be drawing the best high school wrestlers in the country.

Hampton said Ford will need $350 to cover traveling and living expenses for the three-day tourney. Anybody wishing to donate should write the checks in Greg's name and send to the Bay Area Wrestling Association in care of Bill Hampton, 15 Coronado Court, Walnut Creek, 94596.

PLAYING DAYS are over for Gordon Tovani of San Rafael and it really didn't last too long. The barefoot kicker was in and out of the Riverside training camp of the Hawaii World Football League team in a matter of days. It was fun, said Tovani, but at 47 he wasn't about to keep pace with the younger players in the camp. He kicked a few balls, walked around a bit, and decided he would rather stick with his medical supply business. His $25,000 contract is now just another memento to stick inside his scrapbook.

Another of the Hawaiian hopefuls, defensive back Pete Carroll from University of Pacific by way of Redwood High, is also out of the team's picture because of an injured shoulder.

RUSS DILLON of Novato, released by the Atlanta Braves a few days ago, has hooked up with the Eugene (Oregon) Emeralds of the Class A Northwest League. That's an independent team managed by Hugh Luby. Coaching first base for this team is Joe Anselmo, a former San Rafael man who was very big in semi-pro baseball circles for years in Marin. The 23-year-old Dillon won his team's home opener the other day, 6-4 over the Portland Mavericks. He gave up five hits, walked two and fanned six in that one.

Winning Not Boring For Padres' Skipper

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — It's going to take quite a few more victories before San Diego Padres Manager John McNamara gets tired of it.

"Winning never gets boring," McNamara bubbled last night after the Padres mowed down the San Francisco Giants for the third game in a row, 4-0, on Bill Greif's six-hitter.

The victory, their 15th in 21 games, moved the Padres within one game of the fifth place Giants, losers of five in a row and 14 of 17, in the National League West.

McNamara had plenty of praise for his players after the victory before 13,092, but he tempered it a little with a warning.

"Those people out there (the players) make me look like a genius," he said. "I've got 25 geniuses out there.

"But let them screw up and I'll tell you ... it (his attitude towards them) will change."

It was the first shutout of the season for Greif (3-10) and only his second complete game in 17 tries. He had dropped six straight decisions, but had two good relief appearances prior to his start last night.

"I think it came back in Chicago," he said. "I had two good relief stints there. I finally relaxed.

"Tonight was the first time this year I really enjoyed pitching. It was really exhilirating and that kept coming through my mind."

"It was a special night for me to get psyched up for things like that," said Kendall, whose wife Patti delivered their second son, Jason Andrew, yesterday afternoon. "I hit a home run the night I found out Patti was going to have our first son."

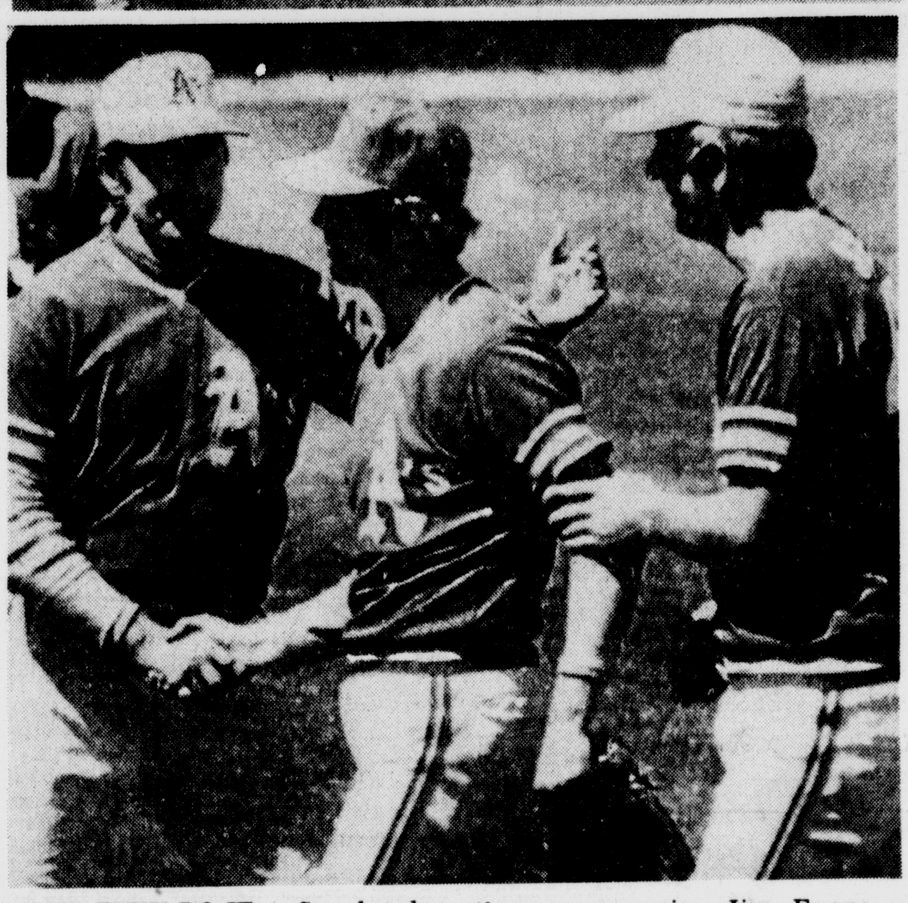

The Padres send Randy Jones to the mound tonight against John D'Acquisto, a San Diego product, in an attempt to sweep the Giants and vacate the cellar which they have occupied since May 7. The 7:30 p.m. game will be televised on Channel 2.

AFTER BLANKING ANGELS

Lefty Hamilton Assured Of Spot In A's Rotation

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Lefthander Dave Hamilton of the Oakland Athletics has been assured he will remain a starting pitcher, but he still is a little suspicious.

Hamilton pitched a two-hitter to defeat the California Angels 5-0 yesterday for his fifth victory of the season against one defeat.

"I had a 5-1 record last year and the year before that and each time I was dropped from the starting rotation," Hamilton said. "I'll believe it at the end of the year."

Hamilton just missed a no-hitter. He gave up a single to Dave Chalk in the sixth inning and another single when Angel Mangual lost a fly ball in the sun in the ninth inning.

Hamilton wasn't upset about missing the no-hitter. "I was relieved when Chalk got the hit. I was starting to get too careful and that gets you into trouble."

The shutout was the first of Hamilton's major league career. He struck out four and also walked four.

The A's collected 11 hits off three California pitchers. The defeat went to Bill Stoneman, now 1-7 for the season.

Mangual made up for his ninth-inning error by driving in the first two Oakland runs. He hit a sacrifice fly in the first inning and whacked his sixth homer of the season in the third inning.

The A's got two more runs in the seventh inning on a leadoff homer by Bert Campaneris and singles by Joe Rudi and Jesus Alou sandwiched around a walk to Gene Tenace.

The victory was the sixth in the last seven games for the surging A's.

Manager Alvin Dark said he will go with a five-man starting rotation for the next several weeks. "Hamilton will be one of them," Dark assured.

Evert, Borg Win In Wimbledon Matches

3rd-Round Spots For Teen Stars

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) — Teenagers Bjorn Borg and Chris Evert played Thursday with the mastery which won them the Italian and French Open titles to complete rain delayed matches and move into the third round of the AllEngland lawn tennis championships.

Evert, the 19-year-old second seed from Fort Lauderdale, Fla. needed only seven minutes to defeat big hitting Lesley Hunt of Australia, 8-6, 5-7, 11-9, while the fifth-seeded Borg, 18, needed a little longer to turn back Ross Case of Australia, 3-6, 6-1, 8-6, 7-5 after starting the day behind 1-4 in the fourth set.

The girls had struggled for two hours and 40 minutes last night before leaving the court with the match tied at a set each and 9-9 in the third, when it became too dark for play.

Today the 19-year-old Miss Evert made none of the mistakes that characterized some of her play last night and she dominated the court against a strangely subdued Miss Hunt.

The blonde Australian served today and set up a smash for Miss Evert on her first return. Miss Evert went for the sideline and missed by inches and although it was a point against her it made clear she was on the attack.

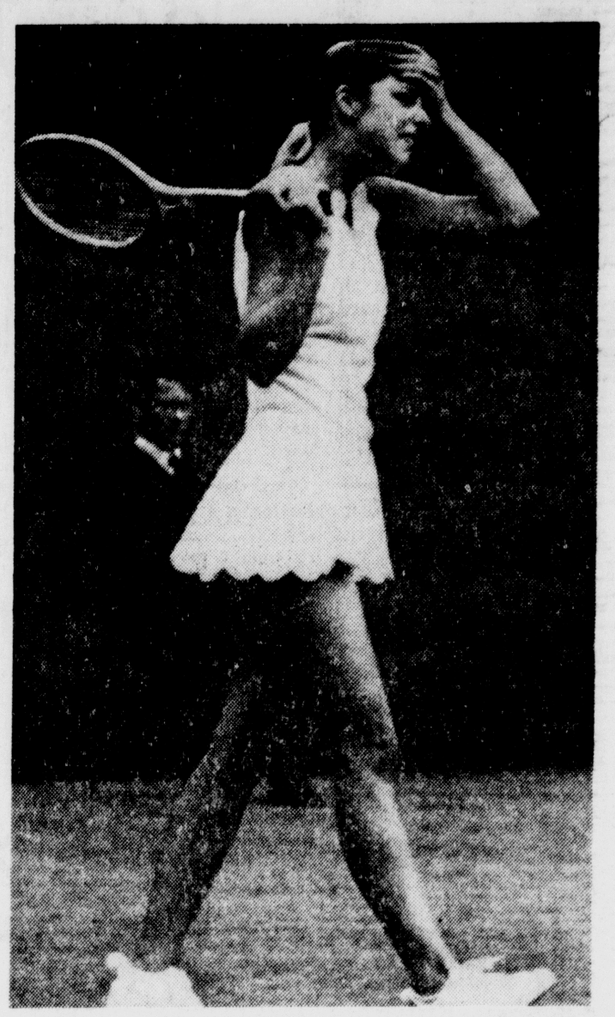

Miss Hunt was wide with a placement and then was pulled out of position in a rally in which the ball crossed the net 19 times before she ended it with an error. The game went to deuce with the Australian scooping a ball on wood that just dropped safe and out of reach over the net.

Chris went to advantage point on a backhand placement and Miss Hunt, not hitting as she was last night, was over the baseline.

Miss Evert then gave a dazzling display to take the final game of the match at love. Twice she pulled Miss Hunt to one side of the court only to pass her on the other. At the first match point Miss Hunt tried one of the flat forehands that gave her opponent so much trouble last night —but it was too low.

The men's matches yesterday went more according to form than the drama on a center court with patches of empty seats — a rare sight. But then thousands went home when the rain looked like it was set for the day.

Top seed and betting favorite John Newcombe of Australia beat his countryman Geoff Masters 9-8, 6-3, 8-6. Second seeded Ilie Nastase of Romania defeated Brian Gottfried of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., 6-3, 6-2, 9-8 and Stan Smith of Sea Pines, S.C., the fourth seed, trounced Bob Maud of South Africa 6-4, 6-1, 6-2.

Five Marin Youngsters Alive In Coast Tennis

Biggest win yesterday was from unseeded Beth Fernbacher of Greenbrae who upset second-seeded Susie Brown of Oakland, 6-7, 6-3, 6-2 in Girls 16.

Other Marin County winners were Sue Beatty of Tiburon who defeated Marna Louie of San Francisco 6-1, 6-1 in Girls 18, Charles Bolcom of Belvedere, 7-5, 6-1 winner over David Andrew of Hawaii in Boys 14, Doug Carlisle of San Rafael, 6-2, 0-6, 6-2 victor over Dick Metz of Carmichael in Boys 18, and Cary Stansbury of Tiburon, who eliminated Rory Federico of San Jose, 6-4, 6-3 also in Boys 18.

In Boys 16, Herman Bauer of Tiburon lost to Bill Bartlett, 6-2, 2-6, 6-2 and Bob Greene of San Rafael was ousted by Rodney

Elmore Expected To Sign Indiana Pact

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Len Elmore, the University of Maryland's 6-9 rebounding and defensive standout, is expected to announce his signing with Indiana of the American Basketball Association at a Pacers' news conference today.

Elmore, whose rights were acquired from the Denver Rockets by the Pacers, also was the first-round draft choice of the National Basketball Association Washington Bullets.

Marin Swimmers At Santa Clara

The club will be sending a total of 32 swimmers to the meet which draws the top competitors in the United States and a number of international swimmers.

The Santa Clara meet is the first of three big seniors summer meets. The other two are the Los Angeles Invitational and the nationals at Concord, both in August.

Oliva, Carew May Lift Twins Out Of Doldrums

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Tony Oliva says the two best hitters in the American League are roommates when the Minnesota Twins are on the road.

Oliva is referring to himself and Rod Carew, of course, and while he's exaggerating a bit the two sweet-swingers have won three batting titles each with Carew apparently heading for a fourth.

Right now, however, their bats look like the best bets to lift the Twins out of a long slump, which has put Manager Frank Quilici's job in danger.

Oliva and Carew delivered the key hits last night when the Twins defeated the Texas Rangers, 9-4, for their third victory in four games —a mild spurt, but nevertheless their best showing since mid-May. The victory moved the Twins a game and a half ahead of the last-place California Angels in the AL West and a few more wins could be enough to save Quilici's job.

Oliva, who is hitting .295 as the Twins' designated hitter, walloped a three-run homer in the first inning and Carew, batting .397, delivered a tworun triple in the second. The Twins scored three runs in each of the first three innings paving the way for Vic Albury to win his third game.

The Oakland A's beat the California Angels, 5-0, the Kansas City Royals edged out the Chicago White Sox, 2-1, in 12 innings, the Milwaukee Brewers topped the Boston Red Sox, 7-1, the Cleveland Indians nipped the New York Yankees, 3-2, and the Baltimore Orioles downed the Detroit Tigers, 5-4, in other AL games.

Royals 2, White Sox 1

Brewers 7, Red Sox 1

Indians 3, Yankees 2

Rusty Torres drove in his first run of the season with a single which capped a two-run sixth-inning rally and enabled Steve Arlin to win his first game for the Indians.

Orioles 5, Tigers 4

TROUBLE DOWN UNDER — Cleveland Indians' Rusty Torres was on the rough end of a double play as Yankees' second baseman Gene Michael landed on top of the sliding runner after relaying the ball to first to nip Dave Duncan. Action took place yesterday in the second inning at New York's Shea Stadium.

Pirates Could Move Up If Stargell Gets Hot

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Stargell's disappointing .264 average is one of the many reasons why the Pittsburgh Pirates are in fourth place in the National League East chase, but if he gets in the groove again, the team could start moving up fast.

The Pirates' slugger unloaded a three-run homer in the first inning last night and that's all Jim Rooker needed as he coasted to a 7-2 triumph over the St. Louis Cardinals on a three-hitter.

Sonny Siebert was the victim of Stargell's blast, which came after a walk and singles by Richie Hebner and Al Oliver.

In the other games, New York beat Chicago 5-4 in 12 innings, Los Angeles edged Atlanta 5-4, Montreal blanked Philadelpia 2-0, Pittsburgh downed St. Louis 7-2, Cincinnati routed Houston 9-1 and San Diego blanked San Francisco 4-0.

Dodgers 5, Braves 4

Los Angeles rallied for two runs in the ninth to beat Atlanta. Joe Ferguson led off the ninth with a homer to tie the game and Manny Mota singled in the deciding run.

Reds 9, Astros 1

Mets 5, Cubs 4

Cleon Jones' 12th-inning single gave the Mets the victory over the Cubs and a sweep of their three game series.

Holland Favored In Cup

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI) — With a firestorm of footballing brilliance that even a thunderstorm could not quench, Holland blazed to a 4-0 victory over Argentina and today took over for the first time as favorite to win the world soccer cup.

"The Dutch were excellent," said Argentine trainer Vladislao Cap. "They are one of the very best teams I have ever seen."

Although West Germany, the home side and firm favorite since before the championship began, also won its game yesterday, British bookmakers today gave first place in the betting to Holland at 6-4 with West Germany second favorite at 7-2.

If nothing else survives from this world contest, fans will cherish the memory of 11 flying Dutchmen, hair plastered on their heads, rain dripping from their noses, carving up Argentina will the skill and precision of a surgeon's scalpel as lightning flashed and thunder cracked overhead, spired by their irrepressible and gifted captain, $2.2 million Johan Cruyff, the Dutch carved great gaping holes in the South American defense and with luck could have doubled their score.

As it was, Cruyff's pair and a goal each from Ruud Krol and Johnny Rep were enough to put the Dutch at the head of Group A, level on points with Brazil but three ahead in the goals-for column.

In Hannover at the same time, Brazil was beating East Germany 1-0 in a much less impressive victory. It took the Brazilians a long time to adapt their tactics to foil the close-marking Germans by using the wings.

Poland, the only team that has won every game it has played in the championship finals, did it again in Stuttgart, beating Sweden 1-0.

INTREPID, COURAGEOUS VICTORIOUS

NEWPORT, Mass. (UPI) — The Intrepid and Courageous scored victories yesterday in America's Cup preliminary yachting races.

Courageous bested the Mariner by 9 minutes and 46 seconds, while the Intrepid won its heat by 10 minutes and 20 seconds over the Valiant.

The preliminary trials will conclude Saturday and there will be further observation trials at the New York Yacht Club before a defender is chosen.

Batting Champ

DETROIT (UPI) — Ty Cobb holds two major league records which could stand for all time, the former Georgia Peach of the Detroit Tigers having won nine consecutive American League batting titles and a total of 12 during his career.

Toby's, Kelleher Remain Unbeaten

Toby's Truckers and Kelleher Lumber remain undefeated in Joe DiMaggio League baseball with victories yesterday.

Toby's pushed its record to 4-0 with a 10-6 triumph over Annex Motors and Kelleher is 3-0 after a 7-3 win over Bank of Marin. In other games yesterday, Rohnert Park edged Villa Builders, 4-3; Holiday Magic downed Morris Roofing, 3-1, and Italian Club nipped Sebastopol, 4-3.

Mike Nivens and Rich Speidel socked triples and Tom Cronin struck out 16 batters to pace Toby's. Alvin Hall collected two doubles and three runs batted in, Greg Letsche had three hits and two runs batted in and freshman Ken Nakahiro went two-for-two, scored three runs and stole two bases to highlight Kelleher's triumph.

For the Italian Club, Doug Harman hit a two-run homer to tie the game against Sebastopol and then in the sixth inning Ron Wilson crashed a two-run home run to win it. Gene Frey struck out 12 batters in that one. Holiday Magic's Mark Kline threw a one-hitter, struck out nine and walked four in that win against Morris Roofing. Matt Dockstaeder had two hits.

IRVING, Tex. (UPI) — Eight-year-old Robbie Chambers, who has been golfing for a whole month, can look for new worlds to conquer.

Selecting a driver for the 126-yard 17th hole at the Las Colinas Country Club, Robbie didn't even bother for the distant foursome on the green to finish putting before take a whack at the ball.

That left the four older golfers in an excellent vantage point for Robbie's shot, which hit short, rolled onto the green and into the cup for a hole-in-one.

Learning Tennis From YMCA

By PAUL DWORIN

As you walk down the wooded path to the courts, the cacophony of enthusiastic youth begins to filter through the trees. The sound of tennis balls against rackets fills the air.

On one of the four courts, two rows of kids are neatly lined up, waiting for a chance to hit the ball back to Terry Timmons. On the others, children are batting the ball back and forth, waiting for Alice Reeve.

Some of them stroke through the ball with the consummate ease of a professional, while others make unsuccessful lunges with their rackets; whatever the skill level, though, everyone seems to be having a good time.

It was the first day of the tennis camp clinic, a program newly initiated by the Young Men's Christian Association of Marin, and there is activity everywhere.

The purpose of the clinic is to teach the basic fundamentals of tennis — the strokes, the movements and the etiquette. It differs from the usual tennis classes offered by the YMCA in that the clinic is for one week only.

The clinic, which will be offered again Sept. 2-6, has one section for youths nine and older and another for women. Both sections have one hour of skills training and another hour of round-robin play each day.

Although in a week's time the basic skills of tennis can be taught, the clinic is not geared towards producing future Arthur Ashes or Billie Jean Kings.

"We want to teach them how to play, but we want them to have fun too," said instructor Terry Timmons, a former College of Marin star and current county singles champion. "A week is a very limited time."

Timmons has been teaching with park and recreation programs throughout Marin for the past three years. His experience has shown him that the most important thing when teaching children is fairness.

"Personally, I try to treat the kids as fairly and evenly as possible," he said. "You also have to be very patient."

Patience was also a word stressed by Reeve, who has been the top woman singles player in Marin for the past 20 years and has been quite active in tennis instruction.

"Tennis takes time and patience," she said. "You can't learn it in a week. Tennis is coordination and timing — you have to keep at it all the time."

Both of them feel that it is best to start instruction around nine years old, but that anyone can learn to play if they have the desire.

"If you have the right equipment and desire, anyone can learn the game at a good rate," Timmons said. "Natural athletic ability helps, for sure, but the most important things are will and desire."

With 35 kids in the clinic, numbers could be a problem, but not according to Reeve. She feels that while there are probably too many in the clinic, children have the capacity to amuse themselves easily and don't get bored with the lack of personal attention as an adult might.

The most common problem with teaching children, Timmons said, is the lack of proper equipment.

"You should see the rackets some of the kids bring to lessons. They're too big and the kids can barely hold onto them. But we can't tell them to go out and get new ones since we don't know what financial positions their parents are in."

Pro Football Strike Seems To Be Certain

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A disruptive pro football strike seemed certain today after the break-off of talks between the National Football League players and owners.

The official strike deadline by the NFL Players Association was Monday, but to all intents there was no way to prevent the second player boycott of pre-season camps since 1970 beginning next week.

Federal mediator James Scearce announced yesterday, after a 10-minute afternoon session, the talks had collapsed, making a strike almost unavoidable. The NFL Players Association immediately started to gear up for picket lines in every NFL workout site or pre-season camp starting at 12:01 a.m. EDT Monday. It would be the second pre-season strike by the players since 1970.

Scearce, who sat in with the owners and players during two days of meetings this week, summarized to newsmen: "We have reached a point where further discussions cannot be helpful and might be more harmful than good."

Barring an unexpected settlement, the first picket lines probably will form in new York City around NFL headquarters Monday and then in San Diego two days later where the Chargers have summoned rookies to report for pre-season camp. A more important showdown shapes up on the nationally televised College All-Star game with the Miami Dolphins on July 26.

Scearce said the breakdown of negotiations after two days of talks this week at association headquarters in Washington occurred "amicably" but he held out virtually no hope of a settlement that would avert a strike.

Both sides said they stood ready to resume bargaining, but the talks seeemed to have stalled on what the players call "freedom issues."

The players are seeking freedom to sign with any team upon expiration of a contract, the abolition of the "Rozelle rule" which allows the NFL commissioner to arbitrate compensation in cases of players quitting one team to play for another, and a voice in being traded.

The Management Council has argued that the player demands would result in "anarchy."

Rookies from the college ranks and free agents are caught in the middle of the stike as representatives of the owners and the NFLPA have sought to enlist their support in the imminent show-down.

Ed Garvey, executive director of the players' association, said, "Anybody who crosses our picket line is not neutral."

Rookies and free agents are not members of the NFLPA until the season begins, but Curry said a management attorney said during negotiations that legally rookies and free agents have the "unfettered right to strike and honor the picket line."

TREVINO TALKS GOLF

A Little Con Game

By LEE TREVINO

Match play is tricky. You have to play your own game, but you can't ignore your opponent, either. What you see ain't always what you get.

Say you're one-down in a head-and-head battle, and your man starts rifling those drivers across the corners, taking short cuts. To stay up with him, you got to cut corners, too.

But I don't always hit the club that I pull out of my bag first, particularly when it isn't my honor.

It never hurts to pull a stick out of your bag, even if you know you're not gonna use it. I've whipped a driver out on a short par four, and my opponent couldn't wait to bust his driver. Then he'd fly off into the woods and I'd hit a 2-iron down the middle.

It's an advantage to hit second on par threes. If you're thinking about hitting a 3-iron, take out a 4-iron. Take a couple of easy swings and limber up while your guy makes up his mind what to hit. Odds are that he'll hit the same stick you have in your hand. Then you hit a 3-iron. If he hits his 4-iron against the flag, then you've got some adjustments to make.

Novato Rallies For Legion Win

SUISUN CITY — Jeff Rubino singled home Dave Lucchesi to lift Novato Legion Post 540 past Vallejo Post 550, 6-5, last night in an American Legion baseball playoff for the first-half title at Solano Junior College.

Novato's (7-2) three-run ninth-inning rally erased a 5-3 deficit and was keyed by four singles, a walk and a sacrifice fly. Bruce Smith and Chris Purdy singled and Lucchesi walked to fill the bases with nobody out. After Steve Nichols struck out, Mike Robertson hit a sacrifice fly to deep right field, scoring Smith. Ken Ronshausen singled home Purdy to set the stage for Rubino.

Little League World Series For Girls To Begin On Aug. 28

Combined AP & UPI

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. — Little League headquarters in Williamsport, Pa., has announced its first Little League World Series for girls will be played at Freeport, Long Island, Aug. 28-31.

In the series, which will become an annual event, champions of the Little League's east, west, central and south regions will meet. During its first season, some 50,000 girls in the 9-12 age group played in 500 local leagues.

The girls' softball program is a parallel activity to Little League baseball, which earlier this month opened up its previously all-boy leagues to girls under pressure from women's rights groups and the courts.

SPORTS SHORTS

Dickinson, Fort Worth, Tex., rolled eight strikes in a row to defeat Butch Soper, Tustin, Calif., 260-248 for the Winston-Salem Open Bowling Tournament title last night. Dickinson won $6,000, while Soper collected $3,500.

Hockey

Sailing

HAMILTON, Bermuda — American yachts yesterday placed first, sixth and eighth in the 12-boat, four-nation Onion Patch fleet to become the unofficial winners of the cherished Onion Patch Trophy. The trophy is based on three races off Newport R.I. and the 635-mile Newport to Bermuda event.

Boxing

Manta Rallye coupe for 1974 features flat black hood paint, bold side striping and full-gauge instrumentation. This Manta Rallye is equipped with an optional sun roof. All models, including the station wagon, will come equipped standard with a four-speed transmission fully synchronized in all forward gears and new energy-absorbing aluminum bumpers. They go on sale Nov. 29 at Don Collins Buick in San Rafael.

Warning Issued On Weight Loss

The Better Business Bureau of San Francisco urged consumers to use caution in submitting to weight loss plans using HCG injections and purported to be conducted under "medical" supervision.

HCG stands for human chorionic gonadotropin, a hormone found in the urine of pregnant women. A controversial method of weight reduction using HCG injections and a 500-calorie-a-day diet is proliferating in the Bay Area, said Don Schwartz, president of the BBB of San Francisco. He said medical studies show that HCG is no more effective than an injection of saline solution in weight loss.

Schwartz suggested that prospective clients consult their own physicians before entering into an HCG weight loss treatment.

Bank Rates Still Curbing The Market

As has been the story for weeks, many investors held to the sidelines in their concern about rising interest rates. Numerous banks this week, including Chase Manhattan and Irving Trust, raised their prime rate—that charged key corporate customers—to 11 ¾ per cent from 11 ½ per cent.

These rates are at a record level and indicate—if any indication is needed—that inflation still is a major problem in the nation. There is speculation the prime may go to 12 per cent in the near future. These factors have discouraged investors, and this has shown in the light volume on the NYSE.

20-Story Building

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Bank of Tokyo of California has announced it will construct a 20-story office building at California and Sansome Streets in the San Francisco financial district.

BUSINESS MIRROR

An Economic Distrust Grows

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Distrust is growing in American business circles about the concepts and techniques of economic management, especially in regard to inflation control. And with it grows a distrust of leadership also.

While formal surveys may not as yet prove there is widespread disillusionment about concepts and leadership, there is little question in discussions with businessmen that many harbor deep distrusts.

Many factors are involved, chief among them being:

A wavering economic policy in Washington that suggests confusion rather than understanding. Repeated promises that conditions are bound to improve add to the doubts by suggesting hope rather than knowledge.

The documented failure of monetary policy, as practiced today and on which the country now is relying heavily in the battle with inflation, to have a pronounced, prolonged impact.

The conviction among practical businessmen that high interest rates are merely adding to their costs, and their prices, rather than discouraging borrowing.

A feeling that the minds of economic leaders may be closed to suggestions and differing opinions, in favor of "textbook" theories.

The latter feeling is fueled to a great degree by the apparent determination of Arthur F. Burns, Federal Reserve Board chairman, to continue a relatively tight money policy to the brink of depression.

The refusal of the administration's new economic spokesman, Kenneth Rush, to discuss his views before congressional committees, adds to the feeling that the economic dialogue is being smothered at the very time it needs an airing.

The necessity for discussion of monetary policy, for example, is made startlingly clear by the record, which shows that the prime rate now is more than double that of seven years ago, a period during which prices soared.

The current rate varies from 11.5 per cent to 11.75 per cent, with one large bank at 11.8 per cent. In midyear 1967 the rate generally was about 5.5 per cent. It's rise since then has been accompanied by the worst inflation in a generation.

"There's no question about the ability of tight money to create a depression," argues John Beckett, chairman of Transamerica Corp. He adds pointedly: "Whether it can cure inflation is a moot point."

While Beckett is only one of scores of businessmen who hold such views, his opinions are particularly significant because his is a multibillion-dollar service company, heavily involved in insurance and consumer and commercial loans.

Beckett says interest rates are usually passed on to customers in the form of higher prices.

As do other businessmen, Beckett feels that monetary policy might work if it weren't aborted along the way. That is, if a depression were permitted — and Beckett says he is willing to accept it — inflation might be restrained.

"If a depression were permitted to run its course it would do the job, but the politicians won't let it." When the going gets tough, he said, the deficit spenders will step in and stop the cure — and add to future inflation.

"All inflation is, is the taxes you should have been paying all these years and didn't," he said. "The obvious answer is that you've got to run surpluses in government and pay back the debts we already have."

Other businessmen and financiers hold that higher interest rates are frustrating rather than aiding the nation's anti-inflation program. Some even maintain that an easy rather than tight money policy is the answer.

San Rafael, Richmond Bus Service Via San Quentin Begins Monday

Regular bus service between San Rafael and Richmond bus stations will begin Monday, with stops at San Quentin and the Standard Oil Co. in Richmond.

Travelers Transit Co. of San Rafael will begin running its 15-passenger vans from the San Rafael Greyhound Bus Depot at Third and Tamalpais to the Richmond bus station at 23rd and McDonald. Owners of the new bus company are Kevin Louie, part owner of Travelers Inn in San Rafael; and David McGreevy of San Rafael.

The first bus will leave San Rafael at 5:30 a.m. Monday and arrive in Richmond at 6:10 a.m. The buses will make 10 trips per day out of San Rafael from 5:30 a.m. to 6:25 p.m. Departures from Richmond begin at 6:15 a.m. and continue to 7:10 p.m.

The bus fare is 50 cents to San Quentin and $1 to Richmond. More trips will be added or the schedule changed when customer needs are determined, said Louie. Travelers Transit Co. hopes to serve commuters or visitors to San Quentin, Standard Oil, and Richmond, and those in Richmond, who visit or work in Marin.

PAUL C. VOGELHEIM of Mill Valley has been appointed to the new position of vice president of marketing for City Transfer and Storage Co., San Francisco. He will be in charge of advertising and business promotion, customer relations, sales and expansion of the firm's services, according to Robert Reis, president of the company.

Vogelheim was formerly San Francisco manager for National Cash Register Company, where he was employed for 23 years.

City Transfer and Storage, a member of Allied Van Lines, has served the San Francisco Bay Area for 75 years.

Noah

KAY NOAH and Associates, Realtors, will move July 5 into new and larger quarters at 1610 Tiburon Boulevard, across the street from the new Bank of America building in an office formerly occupied by Elva Paske Realtor.

Kay Noah started in business by herself at 1680 Tiburon Boulevard six years ago, specializing in important Marin properties. She now employs 12 sales associates in her Tiburon office and 10 in her Kentfield office, which she opened the first of this year.

DILLER'S DELICATESSEN at Fourth and D streets in San Rafael will be closed for a few days next week for a light remodeling and fresh paint job. The shop will close this coming Sunday and reopen on July 5.

Owners of Diller's Delicatessen are Joan Anttonen of San Rafael and Steven Keeler of Novato, who bought the business on May 1 from Mr. and Mrs. Harry Diller. "The remodeling will mean more streamlined service," said Mrs. Anttonen. "This in turn will shorten the lines for lunch and improve our service for the increased volume in catering."

THE ANNUAL ART FAIR at Paradise Shopping Center in Corte Madera will be held all day Saturday (June 29) with a variety of entertainment including belly dancing by Lucina Tison's dancing team from San Rafael.

Paintings and crafts will be on display in a sidewalk sale at the shopping center from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Prizes, including two bicycles, will be given away during the art fair. Lucina Tison's dancing team will perform at 1:30 p.m. and 3 p.m. Her son, Ronald Twist of San Rafael, will play the guitar and drums; and Ed Morel of Ceramics N' Things will demonstrate decorating techniques on greenware (unfired, raw clay).

EXECUTIVE SINGLES Directory, a selective introduction service in San Rafael, will expand into San Francisco next Monday with a new office in room 202 of the World Trade Center (old Ferry Building).

Barbara Austin of San Anselmo, who started the business last February in the May Building (former Cheda Building) in San Rafael, said she plans to move her headquarters to San Francisco, but will retain her San Rafael office.

Simultaneously, she announced that Don Bennett of Greenbrae, who operates a system research and development firm at the World Trade Center, will join her as a partner to help operate Executive Singles Directory. Bennett is a former Londoner who served in the British Air Force during World War II, spent some time in Canada and came to Greenbrae in 1960. He did accounting and computer work before establishing his systems research firm.

HENRY SHOBAR of Larkspur, owner of the specialty advertising agency Ad Specialties Unlimited in Larkspur and San Francisco, is attending the annual convention and show of the Specialty Advertising Association of California in San Diego this weekend to keep abreast of new items and new ideas.

NANCY CHEATHAM and MARIE DIEGO of the Redwood Empire District office of the Prudential Insurance Co. in San Rafael are back from the firm's office management conferences held in San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Mrs. Cheatham attended a conference of office managers in San Francisco, and Mrs. Diego took part in the associate office managers' conference in Los Angeles.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Disclosure Should Be Required Of All

Come September, a host of California public officials must file disclosures of their financial affairs for perusal by the public.

This was ordered last week by the California Supreme Court, as it overturned a lower court opinion that the 1973 Conflict of Interest Law was unconstitutional.

The disclosure statements were to have been filed in April. However, the state Supreme Court held up the act's application until it decided the issue of constitutionality in a base brought by Nevada County. In ruling the act constitutional, the court ordered that the statements be filed next September "so that these statements will be available for review by the public in ample time prior to the November elections." Thereafter, they must be filed each April.

THE LAW APPLIES to all elected state officials, including members of the legislature, and to county supervisors, city councilmen, planning commissioners, and the chief administrative officers of counties and cities.

Unfortunately, we think, school board members were not included in the act. They spend large sums of public money, and certainly are no less immune to possible conflicts of interest than are city councilmen or planning commissioners, for instance. However, the law does not apply to them.

It may be applied to other elected and appointed officials of counties and cities by action of the local governing bodies. We think it should be. We see no reason why the county superintendent of schools should not be subject to the same requirements as the state superintendent, nor why the sheriff, assessor and auditor should escape the requirement of disclosing financial interests that might possibly influence their conduct in office. Nor do we see any reason why planning directors should be exempt when planning commissioners are subject to the act.

WE SUGGEST that, between now and September, the Marin County Board of Supervisors, all the city councils, and the boards of other local agencies adopt their own requirements to make all public officials in the county disclose their financial interests. The excuse that "the act may be declared unconstitutional," which has been cited heretofore, has been eliminated by last week's state Supreme Court decision.

The reason they should do so was succinctly put by the court itself in the decision:

Burnished Gold Grass

Marin's once-green springtime hills have assumed their summer garb of burnished gold. In northwest Marin and southern Sonoma, one can find back roads through these grasslands which seem as lonely and unfrequented as those of rural New Zealand. It's an interesting and peaceful drive for the gasoline-conscious. It's also one where we should be extra careful not to start a fire this season.

Legislators Deny Citizens Right To Vote On Lottery

By EARL G. WATERS

The issue of a state lottery or bingo continues in California. And it continues to be an enigma.

The issue, which has been before the legislature numerous times, is not whether either should be legalized. It is merely a question of placing the proposals before the people for a decision.

And it is not a question of whether lottery tickets can be sold in California. They can be had already one way or another. The proposal is to establish a state-operated lottery by which the citizens would be assured that the tickets they bought were genuine and by which the state could realize some revenues now being lost in the illegal sales.

In the same vein the question of bingo is not whether citizens can play the game. Everyone knows the games operate here and there. The question is whether the law will be changed so that the churches and fraternal lodges and whoever else now run bingo games can do so legally.

NEVERTHELESS, THE PROPOSALS to permit a ballot decision on these questions now appear to be dead for the balance of this year. The lottery bill by Assemblyman Leon Ralph, D-Los Angeles, passed the lower house but died for lack of a motion in the Senate Governmental Organization Committee, which handed the same fate to a bingo measure by Sen. David Roberti, D-Los Angeles.

It is not too difficult to figure out the failures of the lottery proposals. Since such a lottery would be entirely operated by the state, there is nothing to be gained by anyone except the people. The part private enterprise would have in a lottery would probably be, as it is in other states, limited to small commissions for many retailers acting as ticket sellers.

But lined up against a state lottery are private interests who fear that a lottery might erode some of the available gaming dollars from operations such as pari mutuel wagering and the Nevada casinos. Not that these interests offer visible opposition. They are far too smart for that. Instead the opposition in the front ranks comes from some church representatives and other do-gooders who seem to think the state should write the moral codes for its citizens.

Still, it is an irony that those in the church ranks should oppose lotteries and bingo when there are few citizens who have not been solicited to buy "prize" tickets from some church and many have played bingo in some church. It is also an irony that the legislature should refuse to permit the lottery and bingo questions on the ballot when they annually approproate millions to the state and county fairs which sponsor carnivals where "skin" games abound for the enticement of the dimes of little children.

CERTAINLY THE LEGISLATIVE opposition was not because anyone feared such activities would foster organized crime. For Assemblyman Ralph produced a surprise witness. He was James Rickey, executive officer for the National Gambling Commission, a federal agency studying gambling.

Stating he was not here to advocate or oppose but merely to share the information the commission had gathered, he stated there has been "a total absence of scandal" in the eight state lotteries now operating. "There is absolutely no evidence that it is other than a benign activity and no evidence that it leads to any social crimes. "He said the lottery has proved to be an activity of "a dispassionate nature with many players, none betting large sums."

Richey said, in addition to the eight states now having lotteries, five more states are starting and others, like California, are studying it. He said the New Jersey lottery had produced greater revenues for the state than anticipated and that most operated at a 10 per cent overhead, with the balance being split between the bettors and the state.

ERWIN D. CANHAM:

News Media Abandoning Responsibility

The news media have not yet learned their lesson in this stage of the Watergate case. It is that once a matter moves into its judicial phase, news coverage has to be much more careful than in the earlier investigative period.

Thus the leaks from members of the House Judiciary Committee and the documents from the FBI are of dubious propriety. They are, at the very least, highly incomplete. They need badly to be put into context.

And so the complaints voiced strenuously by Secretary of State Kissinger, by Sen. Barry Goldwater, and even by Asst. Atty. Gen. Henry Peterson have struck home in varying degree. The news media are in danger of losing all the great gains they have achieved in thier uncovering of corruption in recent years — from My Lai to Watergate.

IT IS A TIME for judicial impartiality in the digging for news. It is a time for recognizing that materials can be leaked with intensely partisan motives. When this happens, the news media should evaluate them with care, balancing the material with all that can be found which is pertinent and clarifying.

Specifically, the quotations from J. Edgar Hoover memoranda in the FBI files — seeming to place on Henry Kissinger the initiation of wiretaps — badly needed the rectification which William Ruckelshaus, one of Hoover's brief successors, brought to them. He pointed out that Hoover often was leaving memoranda for his own protection, and that such memos were of doubtful documentary proof.

The news media in Washington are habitually the target of a war of leaks. The White House press officers now complaining bitterly against leaks are described by James Reston of the New York Times as "two of the leakiest taps in town." There is constant danger that the media will be used by the leakers. The media have always to scrutinize the value and integrity of the information against the motivation of the leaker.

But it is undeniable that vital public information, in the United States and everywhere else in the world, has come to light for many years through leaks. If official news were all the news we had, the public would be badly deceived. A primary role of a free press is to dig and uncover. The exposure of evil is a long step toward the destruction of evil.

THE DRIBBLING OUT of testimony, especially from a grand jury or from a congressional committee which is tantamount to a grand jury, is neither necessary nor beneficial. Time is not always of the essence. It may well often be better to wait until all the facts can be put into perspective.

There are vital public issues to discuss today and there is much genuine news reporting to do about them. For example, the range of plea-bargaining that has taken place, from former Vice President Agnew to today and tomorrow, should be thoroughly clarified.

The U.S. Senate — and the public — have a right to know whether private (or secret) assurances are being given out to any of the governments with which President Nixon and Secretary Kissinger are negotiating. There is a place for confidentiality pending a negotiation, but the time comes when all the facts need to come out. The public has to know what has been pledged in its name.

The defenders of President Nixon insist, with some degree of justification, that the press should have been more active in digging into various past scandals on the Democratic side.

Even today, the money so liberally spread out by the milk producers' lobby should be fully traced. So should anything else relating to the public welfare, which sometimes reaches all of us by process of leak.

"Rattling? I don't hear any rattling."

STROUT IN WASHINGTON

By RICHARD L. STROUT

WASHINGTON — My own defense against Watergate is to go back to chronicles of a simpler time, perhaps to "Letters From an American Farmer," printed in 1785, to an era when problems were severe but at least comprehensible. Our enemy: George the Third; our strength: unity. And what leaders: Washington, Franklin, Adams . . . Never did a bicentenary come to a nation thirstier for spiritual refreshment.

6 pence with pot luck
2 pence for horsekeeping
No more than five to sleep in one bed
No boosts to be worn in bed
No razor grinders or tinkers taken in
No dogs allowed in the kitchen
Organ grinders to sleep in the wash house

THIS WAS THE ERA of which J. Hector St. John de Crevecoeur, scion of a family of impoverished Norman gentry, wrote in his account of America, mostly idyllic but sometimes grim. He landed in New York at 24 in 1759 and later sold his "letters" to a London publisher for 30 guineas in 1781. It can be argued that the America he loved never existed. But so what? It was truth to him. He had lived and raised a family here before going back to monarchical France.

Perhaps it had a deeper truth. It was the America he believed in — even before it became a nation — as contrasted with caste-ridden Europe. It was a vision that inspired revolutions in many lands.

"WHAT, THEN, is the American, this new man?" he asks. And he replies:

"He is neither an European nor the descendant of an European; hence that strange mixture of blood, which you will find in no other country . . .

"He is an American, who, leaving behind him all his ancient prejudices, and manners, receives new ones from the new mode of life he has embraced, the new government he obeys, and the new rank he holds.

"He becomes an American by being received in the broad lap of our great alma mater. Here individuals of all nations are melted into a new race of men, whose labours and posterity will one day cause great changes in the world. Americans are the western pilgrims . . .

WIVES AND CHILDREN, who before in vain demanded of him a morsel of bread, now, fat and frolicsome, gladly help their father to clear those fields whence exuberant crops are to arise to feed and to clothe them all, without any part being claimed, either by a despotic prince, a rich abbot, or a mighty lord.

"Here religion demands but little of him: A small voluntary salary to the minister and gratitude to God; can he refuse these? The American is a new man, who acts upon new principles; he must therefore entertain new ideas and form new opinions. From involuntary idleness, servile dependence, penury, and useless labour, he has passed to toils of a very different nature, rewarded by ample subsistence. This is an American."

FANCY A HUMBLE cotter in Scotland reading words like that! And again and again Crevecoeur comes back to it. Ben Franklin was the prototype of the practical American (as D. H. Lawrence wrote), but in literature Crevecoeur was the emotional founding father.

"I wish I could be acquainted with the feelings and thoughts which must agitate the heart and present themselves to the mind of an enlightened Englishman when he first lands on this continent," he begins one ecstatic letter. It's a big land, he says, from the sea to "the great woods." He continues:

"An European, when he first arrives, seems limited in his intentions, as well as in his views; but he very suddenly alters his scale; two hundred miles formerly appeared a very great distance, it is now but a trifle; he no sooner breathes our air than he forms schemes and embarks on designs he never would have thought of in his own country."

Crevecoeur lost some of his enthusiasm later on when he was unwillingly caught up in the American Revolution. But he returned to New York ultimately as French consul and successfully labored to cement Franco-American relations. His vision never faded. And so, having refreshed myself again in an old book that reminds me of the American dream — as potent today as 200 years ago — I return to Watergate.

Give Time To 'Lead' Or Pay The Piper

Last week the Independent Journal diligently supplied its readers with news coverage, editorials, and letters to the editor that were outstanding.

The editorial on June 17, "Familiar Pattern in County Budget Hearings," regarding the representatives of the organized "spending proponents" with their "specific proposals" as opposed to the less successfully organized representatives of the "hold-the-line proponents" with their less specific "generalities" was well received in this household, and most likely in a very large percentage of other taxpayers households, who watch their property taxes leap because of some very questionable and irresponsible county spending.

Included in that editorial was reference to Mr. Jeffory Morshead's excellent letter to the editor "pleading that someone come forward to head a real taxpayer offensive against further inflation of government spending. It is unlikely that anyone will. . .

Apathy, as indicated by Mr. Harris Kinney (who very obviously is not apathetic) in his excellent tongue-in-cheek letter to the editor published June 21, is not what is keeping us from trying harder "to hold-the-line." Most of us are not living luxuriously with extra free time "to lead" such a group. Most of us do not have the capabilities necessary to outwit those individuals and groups who want more of our hard-earned salaries in their own pockets. We are not apathetic, but need a leader or leaders with adequate qualifications and preparation. . .

Do the taxpayers of Marin really enjoy as a status symbol the dubious distinction of living in an area with the second highest tax bite in the country?

If these potential leaders do not step forth "to lead," they may eventually be the only taxpayers financially able to remain here to support this county's government. . .

'Marin City' Equated With 'Black' By Reader

When I opened my June 24 issue of your newspaper the first article that caught my attention was: Marin City Shooting Outburst: Youths Jailed, Shotguns Seized. My first thought was "Blacks causing trouble as usual."

As I began to read the article I could see from the names that these were not Black youths but WHITE youths. But to many that read your newspaper daily the words "Marin City" mean "Black."

If Black youths had gone into a White neighborhood shooting at White people you would have reported the color of the youths. But since these were Whites you "conveniently" or "unconsciously" omitted the color of the youths.

As a reporter it is your responsibility to report all the facts. We do not need biased news reports.

Is racism so embedded in our society that you are not able to tell it like it was?

La VERNE PHILLIPS THOMAS
Rohnert Park.

(Reader Thomas is incorrect in writing, "If black youths had gone into a white neighborhood shooting at white people you would have reported the color of the youths." It has been I-J policy for some years to avoid racial descriptions wherever possible. — Editor.)

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

June 27, 1964

Marin County supervisors discussed asking a $7 million bond issue to complete the Civic Center, instead of waiting perhaps 10 years to finance completion through a special tax rate.

Taking a position on a presidential candidate for the first time in its 55-year history, the National Association for Advancement of Colored People came out against Arizona Sen. Barry M. Goldwater for president.

20 YEARS AGO

June 27, 1954

Jacobo Arbenz Guzman resigned as president of Guatemala, turning over the government to a junta headed by Col. Carlos Enrique Diaz, who vowed to put down a so-called anti-communist rebellion.

DeVere Baker launched his 32-foot raft Lehi from Sausalito, hoping to sail it to the South Pacific to prove the feasibility of the Mormon Church belief that two of the tribes of Israel crossed the ocean to America in such craft.

CAPITOL QUIPS

By PHIL DESSAUER

The big problem facing the House Judiciary Committee is finding some grounds for impeaching Nixon that wouldn't also apply to most congressmen.

A Watergate figure confesses that when he found he knew enough to realize he didn't want to know too much, he already did.

One House member says the White House tapes show changes in the edited transcript were always in Nixon's favor. Another clear case of the sun coming up in the east.

Senators may decide in the Kissinger case that key diplomats must always tell the truth, but they'll never make it retroactive.

WHAT OTHER EDITORS SAY

Mr. Average Citizen Possesses Only Real Cure For Inflation

(Reprinted from Orange Cove News)

There is only one cure for inflation. The average citizen can find that cure merely by looking in the mirror. He is the one who has put pressures on his congressman or his senator for the federal grants and handouts that seem so essential and without which states and localities have come to believe they cannot survive.

A good portion of every telephone directory in cities and towns throughout the nation is devoted to pages listing governmental agencies. These agencies are shoveling out taxpayers' dollars by the hundreds of billions —far beyond the taxpaying ability of the people. Either directly or indirectly, the average citizen now has a vested interest in the perpetuation of these spending agencies of government. And it is such agencies, hundreds of them — perhaps thousands — which are totally unrelated to vital government services that are sapping the value of the dollars in the pockets of every person in the country.

If Mr. Average Citizen really wishes to control inflation, he can start by examining the listings under U.S. Government in a telephone directory and visualizing the armies of bureaucrats those listings represent. After that, he might try writing his congressman. In doing so, it is well to remember that inflation was already rampant before the energy shortage came along to give it another boost.

WILL ROGERS SAYS . . .

"Did you notice how much more peaceful it is all around when our Marines are at home instead of prowling around?

"Why, if we keep 'em at home a while, we are liable to get out of the habit of wanting to send 'em away off, every time we heard some little nation was about to pull off a local amateur revolution." — May 5, 1929.

WORTH SAYING AGAIN

Our need today is the need of civil liberties not for a minority but for all. — Max Lerner.

Let us so live that when we come to die even the undertaker will be sorry. — Mark Twain.

He who has no inclination to learn more will be very apt to think that he knows enough. — John Powell.

The law is the standard and guardian of our liberty; it circumscribes and defends it; but to imagine liberty without law is to imagine every man with his sword in his hand to destroy him who is weaker than himself. — Edward Hyde.

There are two conflicting motifs that characterize American leisure time: first, a great sense of vacuity, of time emptied of meaningful activity; and second, an impression of determined frenzy to relax, to unwind, to do something different. — Robert Warren Spike.

We live in deeds, not years; in thoughts, not breaths; in feelings, not in figures on the dial; we should count time by heartthrobs. He most lives who thinks most, feels the noblest, acts the best. — Gamaliel Bailey.

ART BUCHWALD

You Can Have Fun In Paris — If You're A Millionaire

PARIS — The last time I was in Paris, six years ago, I wrote a column titled "Paris on $500 a Day." The thrust of the piece was that it was still possible to get by in the French capital on $500 if you passed up lunch. My French friends, as well as Americans living in France, thought the article was very funny. But they aren't laughing any more.

When it comes to inflation, the United States is "Mary Poppins" and France is "Deep Throat."

BUT IF YOU DON'T worry about prices, you can still have a marvelous time in Paris. What you have to do is forget everything and just decide to live for the moment.

I did this the first night I arrived in town. My wife and I went to a small bistro that boasted two stars in the Guide Michelin.

When the waiter gave us the menu, I thought he made a mistake.

"I beg your pardon, monsieur," I said. "But I believe you have made an error. You gave me the Bank of France's financial report for the month of May."

"No, monsieur, that is the carte pour dinner."

MY WIFE, who always gets nervous when she sees melon selling for more than $15 a portion, whispered to me, "Let's get out of here."

"Don't be silly. We don't get to Paris very often. Let's enjoy it." I studied the menu carefully. "Now we have our choice. We can have the white asparagus or send Joel to college in the fall."

She said: "You mean to say that white asparagus costs as much as Joel's tuition?"

"Yes," I replied, "but they're the large white ones with Hollandaise sauce. You can only get them in the spring."

"But," my wife, always the practical one, said, "Joel had his heart set on going to college."

"Look, Joel can go to school anytime. But how often do we come to France and have a chance to order white asparagus? I know if we explain it to him he'll understand."

THERE WERE so many dishes to choose from after the first course that I couldn't make up my mind.

Finally I said to my wife, "Remember that house we were going to buy in Martha's Vineyard?"

"The one overlooking the ocean?"

"That's the one," I said. "Let's have the lobster instead."

"You mean you'd rather have lobster than own a house on Martha's Vineyard?"

"But this lobster is cooked in a special cream sauce of chef. It could be years before we have a lobster like this again. We have to think of our old age."

"I don't know," my wife said. "I had my heart set on that house."

"Well, I have my heart set on lobster and, since they're both the same price, I think our stomachs should come first."

THE WAITER handed me the wine card.

"There's a very nice Pouilly Fuisse," I said.

"Can we afford it?" my wife asked.

"We can if we sell the car when we get back home."

"I need a car," she protested.

"All right," I said. "We'll order an inexpensive Sancerre and cancel the orthodontist's work on Connie's teeth."

My wife was becoming agitated. "If it's costing this much for dinner, how are we going to pay our hotel bill?"

"Will you stop worrying? What do you think the World Bank is for?"

Psychiatry 'Regulation' Held A Seller's Market

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — Through a system of "pseudo-regulation", organized psychiatry in this country has created a seller's market, the head of Marin's Community Mental Health Center has told a senate subcommittee.

Dr. Robert L. Taylor, addressing the subcommittee on health, said even though this country is training an unprecedented number of psychiatrists "organized psychiatry has successfully defined psychiatrists as a scarce medical manpower resource to the extent that an optimal seller's market has resulted."

In his prepared text presented Monday, Taylor said the country's public mental health institutions rely to a large extent on foreign-trained psychiatrists whose "expertise is not equal to generally accepted American standards."

He said foreign medical schools provide little or no psychiatric training to students. "Thus these doctors often arrive in this country for a psychiatric residency with less knowledge of psychiatry than most American trainees at the same level."

They usually wind up in state hospitals as unlicensed doctors using "temporary permits" issued by a state and valid only for the state institutions," Taylor added.

"All but seven states have loopholes in their licensing laws which allow temporary licensing," he told the subcommittee.

A comparison of abilities, he continued, is reflected in results of an examination offered medical graduates throughout the world. While 98 per cent of the American medical graduates pass, only 49 per cent of the foreign graduates are successful.

Taylor said there are no records on the number of foreign psychiatrists in public institutions but estimated the total to be about 40 per cent.

He blamed the situtation on a demand for "cheap labor" and the reluctance of American-trained doctors to practice in public institutions.

"When faced with the choice of caring for less severely disturbed patients in their private practice or treating seriously mentally ill found in public institutions, American psychiatrists have chosen overwhelmingly and consistently in favor of the former," he said.

This situation, he added, despite increasing numbers of American trained psychiatricts, has produced the demand for foreign physicans to staff mental institutions.

"The common use of 'temporary permits' represents an expedient means of locking in these physicians once they have been successfully recruited," Taylor concluded.

Quake Risk In Nevada Capitol?

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI) — Three reports saying Nevada's 103 year old state Capitol may be unsafe in an earthquake aren't scaring most Nevada officials here.

Gov. Mike O'Callaghan and state Treasurer Mike Mirabelli both said they want to keep their offices in the Capitol. But State Mines Inspector Harry Springer said, "I think we should move out." He said persons working in the Capitol were in some danger depending on the severity of the earthquake.

"I don't want to take any chances at this stage in the game," said Springer. He said, "I'll be moving out in January." That is when his term is up and the elective office of mines inspector will be abolished.

BART Maintenance Official Resigns

OAKLAND (UPI) — E.M. Gregerman, manager of maintenance for the Bay Area Rapid Transit District, has resigned, it was disclosed yesterday.

Lawrence D. Dahms, who will become acting general manager of the district July 1, said Gregerman submitted a letter of resignation.

Officers Chosen By Accountants

DETROIT (UPI) — Arthur P. Bartholomew, partner in the accounting firm of Ernst & Ernst of New York, was elected president yesterday of the National Association of Accountants for the forthcoming year.
